

Pullman Porter With a Wonderful Record for Good Service

While he lays no claim to being a globe trotter, James B. Newsome, sleeping car porter on the Burlington's Nos. 5 and 12, running between Omaha and Chicago, has got more mileage to his credit than all of them combined. Newsome has been on the Burlington's Omaha-Chicago run for forty-two years, making ten round trips each month, and during that time he has traveled 5,040,000 miles and, what is most remarkable of all, never has there been a passenger injured while riding on his car.

Forty-two years ago, when a young man and when the Burlington was itself something of a young road, Newsome applied for a position as porter and got it. He was assigned to the Omaha-Chicago run, and summer and winter and year in and year out, ten times each month he made the round trip, with the exception of when he has taken his short vacations. Each five years he has been given a service stripe, and now these stripes encircle the right hand sleeve of his coat, most of the way from the cuff to the elbow. He is not only the oldest porter in point of service on the road, but he is among the oldest of the employees and is one of the most respected.

When Newsome went with the Burlington its Omaha-Chicago train service was not what it is today. Then there was one train each way daily, whereas now there are four. In those days it took twenty-four hours to make the trip from Omaha to Chicago, and now the time has been whittled off to thirteen hours. In those days but one train carried a sleeper, and this lone sleeper was seldom filled, while now the palatial trains carry from three to six sleepers each, and as a rule the berths in all of them are occupied.

Then, too, back in the early '70s, when Newsome cast his lot with the Burlington, dining cars had not yet been invented and the people ate at the dining halls along the route, where trains stopped twenty minutes for meals.

Back in 1871, when Newsome went onto the road, C. E. Perkins was a superintendent, Paul Morton was a clerk in the Burlington offices and L. M. Bennett was superintendent of the Omaha offices of the Pullman company. Then the first passenger train, as it was called, departed from Omaha at 9 o'clock one morning and reached Chicago at 9 the following morning. There were three

MR. AND MRS. JAMES B. NEWSOME.

Omaha-Chicago roads in operation—the Burlington, the Northwestern and the Rock Island—and there was an understanding among the officials that but one of them would run Sunday trains on the same Sunday. The Burlington took one Sunday, the Northwestern the next and the Rock Island the third, thus pooling on the business.

Sleepers were different from those of today. They were small, as compared with the vehicles of the present, having sixteen wheels each, narrow and considerable lower. The lavatories were about four feet square and the cars were without smoking rooms, with the exception of little cots, just large enough for two men to sit at one time. In fact, they were little box stalls stowed away in a dark corner of the car.

Mr. Newsome in his time has carried many distinguished passengers and probably knows by sight more men than any other person in the United States. He is highly respected and has thousands of friends among the people who patronize the Burlington. He attributes his success and the appreciation in which he is held to the fact that he has always taken good care of his passengers, regardless of whether they be men, women or children. Both Omahans and Chicagoans and those of the cities between the terminals, time and again place their children in his care, knowing that he will see them safely to their destination and that no harm befalls them while they are on his car.

During the time that Mr. Newsome has been on Nos. 5 and 12 he has carried presidents and ex-presidents. He has catered to the peculiarities and whims of Grand Duke Alexis, U. S. Grant, William McKinley, Secretary of State Bryan, Admirals Schley and Sampson, President Wilson, when he was a college professor, and all of the governors of Nebraska, Colorado, Iowa and Illinois, almost since the territorial days of the states named.

Then, too, he has carried generations of Omahans and Nebraskans. Of the Alvin Saunders and J. Sterling Morton families he has carried of four generations, three generations of the Edward Rosewater, Henry W. Yates and numerous other Omaha families. He is just as well known in Chicago as in Omaha, and just as well known at the stations along the 500 miles of road as in either of the terminal cities.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

It took Dr. Pierce, with the assistance of two learned chemists, eight years of hard work experimenting to make this pure glyceric extract and alternative of the greatest efficiency and without the use of a particle of alcohol.

Just the sort of remedy you need to make rich, red blood, and cure that lassitude and feeling of nerve exhaustion. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery bears the stamp of Public Approval and has sold more largely in the past forty years than any other blood purifier and stomach tonic.

"Some time ago I got out of health—my stomach seemed to be the seat of the trouble," writes Mrs. E. H. Williams, Belle Plaine, Kan. "I consulted a doctor with all the doctors at home as well as with other specialists on stomach and digestive organs. None seemed to do any good—in fact, most of the medicine did me harm. Finally, I wrote to Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., who replied, stating that I had better consult with indignation and constipation, and advised Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery." "The Discovery and Pellets have put me on my feet again," writes Mrs. Williams. "I could not have recovered without them."

WOULD TRAIN THE MOTHERS

Truant Officer Gepson Advocates Training Girls for Motherhood.

LEARN TO CARE FOR BABIES
Too Many Tragedies Follow Ignorance of Young Folks in the Care of Babies and Little Children.

E. D. Gepson, truant officer of the public schools, who will head a special school for boys to be established by the Board of Education next year, believes a school to train young girls in the care of babies is "human and practical" and will ultimately be adopted by all enterprising cities.

"Special courses dealing with the care of babies and little children ought to be installed in the schools for the benefit of girls," said Gepson, "and such work will come finally, it must."

Everywhere we see the tragedy that follows the surprising ignorance of fathers and mothers. This very day a case came before the juvenile court, which was caused by the ignorance of the parents regarding their children. It could have been averted if the mother had been taught the essential facts of motherhood.

Gepson believes mothers' training schools are "human and practical" because young women generally desire to become the head of a family and at present the most vital thing in their education, the thing they most likely will devote all their later lives to—the care of babies—is neglected.

"Such a school was established in New York," said Gepson, "and has been a decided success. New schools need not be built and devoted entirely to such work, but certainly courses ought to be provided for girls covering the salient and vital and the very practical issues of life."

Members of the Board of Education may be asked to take the advisability of including in the high school curriculum a course on the care of babies under consideration. Local physicians stamp the idea with their unreserved approval. Said one physician:

"Such instruction has been delayed too long. The infant mortality rate is appalling and it is due, in many instances, to the blunt and brutal fact that mothers know nothing more about their babies than that they are little human beings. The time will come, I believe, when it will be considered criminal negligence to fail to provide young girls with an education covering the essential facts of motherhood and the proper care of babies."

Lower Bids Are in Sight for the New Fontenelle Hotel

Two contractors have lowered their bids for the construction of the Fontenelle hotel on the revised plans drawn by Thomas R. Kimball, James Black & Son, builders of the City National bank building, and the Selden-Brock Construction company, builders of the Woodmen of the World building, are the contractors who have offered bids. The board of directors discussed the bids at a meeting this morning and decided to postpone action until two other contractors whom they are expecting have time to enter their bids. The bids submitted on the first drawings of the hotel each amounted to more than $1,000,000. The directors forthwith ordered new drawings with a cut in the expense. They now believe they can get the cost of construction below the $900,000 mark.

Butler Suggests Municipal Store

Dan B. Butler, city commissioner of finance and accounts, suggests to the board of directors that provision be made in the new charter for a municipal store and that the position of city storekeeper be created. He says:

"I would like to suggest that we incorporate in the new charter for the city of Omaha, the position of city storekeeper, who would be custodian of all supplies of any kind purchased on orders drawn by various departments to the purchasing agent."

"The storekeeper should be under bond, Requisitions should be drawn on storekeeper by various city departments for any supplies that they may need. I deem it necessary in order to make our purchasing department, which was inaugurated by the present commissioner, more effective, that a store department be added."

"Supplies could be purchased in larger quantities, thereby securing better prices and we would have a more perfect check on all supplies purchased and issued."

LAD WALKS FROM CRAWFORD TO ENLIST IN THE NAVY

Without a sign of the proverbial "foot-soreness and weariness," and not even a bad corn to exhibit as a result of his adventure, I. R. Kellog, a husky lad of 17, finished his walk of 473 miles from Crawford, Neb., to Omaha to enlist in the United States navy. He enlisted, too, for his physical condition was good. He demonstrated that in the walk. His home is at Deadwood, S. D.

"Did you walk all the way from Deadwood?" asked the lieutenant at the recruiting station when the lad told of walking into Omaha.

"Oh, no," replied the enthusiastic youth. "I only walked from Crawford." He said he had money enough to ride only to Crawford. He came well equipped to get into the service without any further fooling, for he had obtained blanks from a friend and had them all signed up by his parents giving their consent to his enlisting.

LETTER STARTS A RUMPUS

Contractors Who Built Court House Stir Up Commissioners.

WANT MATERIAL FURNISHED
Caldwell & Drake Ask that by Virtue of Verbal Agreement County Should Supply List of Things Needed to Finish Job.

A letter from Caldwell & Drake, builders of the courthouse, to the Board of County Commissioners seeking to bind the county to furnish material for the retaining wall to be constructed around the courthouse grounds and referring to an alleged verbal understanding, had the effect of a bomb today when Commissioner Lynch took a decided stand against it.

What was alleged to be an attempt to change the terms of the contract, by which Caldwell & Drake were to furnish all material for the retaining wall, except that they were to be allowed to use stone from the old wall, came to the attention of the board.

Not until Commissioner Lynch angrily left the room and Architect Latenser was summoned was the tangle straightened out.

"I will not consider such rubbish as that letter," said Mr. Latenser. The board left the affair in the hands of the architect and he said he would enforce the contract with Caldwell & Drake except that he consented to the use of reinforced concrete for the retaining wall instead of stone. He did this because he had the old stone hauled away in order to clear the grounds. By allowing the use of concrete, he said, the county is saved the expense of providing stone.

Contract is Let.
Caldwell & Drake have let the contract for completing the north entrance of the courthouse for $5,400. The board withheld $4,800 of the contract price to pay for the job. The contractors will have to furnish all material for the wall except the iron to reinforce the concrete.

Following is the letter from Caldwell & Drake:

"Douglas County Commissioners, Gentlemen: We have awarded the contract to complete the north street entrance of the Douglas county courthouse to our former superintendent, Calvin Ziegler, for the sum of $5,400.

"He agrees to substitute reinforced concrete for the area retaining walls on the east and west side of entrance instead of stone. The county to furnish crushed stone, reinforcing iron, cement and water for said retaining wall; he to furnish sand and lumber and labor for same. The county to purchase from him the lumber used for reinforcing concrete wall for the sum of $100 at completion of work. You to allow him estimates every fifteen days for labor and material furnished. All above as per verbal understanding of Mr. Ziegler and your board."

Architect Latenser said the county was not bound to buy the lumber used by the contractors and would not do so.

Modern Icing Plant Now Completed for Pacific Fruit Co.

The People's Ice and Cold Storage company has just completed for the Pacific Fruit Express, at Nineteenth and William streets, one of the largest car icing plants in the country and equipped with all modern appliances.

The structure is 70 feet long and has a capacity for icing thirty-five refrigerator cars at one time. The plant was started Friday and on the first run, with the machinery new, and not previously tried out, cars were handled at the rate of one every one and one-fourth minutes.

Ice for the Pacific Fruit Express' new icing plant is brought in from Memphis, Ashland and other points out in the country and unloaded at the plant, being brought off the cars on conveyors operated by electric power. The ice goes onto the endless chain conveyor that runs entirely around the loading platform, a distance of 1,500 feet. This platform is the same height as the ordinary refrigerator car. Cars are run in on either side of the platform and as the conveyor makes its rounds, the blocks of ice are pulled off at the switches and dropped into the car cooling rooms.

Heretofore this icing of cars has been done at Council Bluffs, where the old method of icing by hand has been in
