President Helps Out.

As a general thing the president of the United States wields some influence in public opinion. The president of the United States stands a true sponsor to organized base ball. Mr. Wilson is a fan of the "dyed-in-the-wool" type. An admirer of clean sport of all kinds, he not only patronizes American league base ball in Washington, but has very much interested himself in the proposed world's tour of the White Sox and Glants next fall. He believes that base ball may become the universal game of nations and that an international league in the broadest sense of the word is not beyond the realm of possibility. Such, in his opinwice, but he has not been thoroughly ion, would tend toward international peace. President Wilson not only enas busy as Terry McClovern in the lat- dorses the proposed world's tour, but has ter's paimiest days. #### Until quite recently the National league Hawkeyes Willing to Help Cornhuskers Into the Big Nine

IOWA CITY, Ia., June 28 .- (Special.)-Local athletic authorities see in the recent attempt of Nebraska to gain admittance into the big nine conference a ago, he would not have rested on his ler from the presidency and elected Tom hint of trouble in the Missouri Valley orpars nor taken a pride in his ill-gotten Lynch, the present incumbent, as a com- ganization. What the attitude of the Cornhuskers would be if they should be given a place in the western conference has never been made public; but it is not likely that they would attempt to keep their present position in the younger organization. The attitude of the Nebraskans in the matter is well understood here, as the Hawkeyes had some experience a few years ago in attempting to hold membership in both conferences. The attempt proved a failure, and almost wrecked Iowa athletics. It is believed here that the Nebraska authorities are wise enough to realize that no institutio suld keep a position in both or-that, therefore, their attempt to secure a place in the older body means that they are anxious to get away from the Missouri Valley. The fact that Iowa and Nebraska have completed arrangements for a final football game at the close of each season lends color to the belief that the westerners are anxious to line up with the big nine.

Nebraska occupies much the same position at present that Michigan did in the big nine just before its withdrawal. The Cornbuskers have not been in sympathy with many of the rules and regulations laid down by the other members of the Missouri Valley conference, particularly the summer base ball and training table rules. The conference has been forced to compromise on the base ball question, but has refused to recede from its position on the training table. Of course, the rules are even stricter in Harry N.
