A. P. Tukey & Son Investment Lots 24th and Cass

At 24th and Cass we have two corner lots, one of them being a double These buildings should be so constructed that it would be possible some time in the near future to turn the first story into stores and take advantage of the increase in rentals along 34th street car line. The streets are all paved and paid for, and the property is owned by an estate that must be closed up. If you are interested in building for a good income at the present time and a future speculation, we would like to talk with you regarding these lois.

36th and Farnam

On the corner of 36th and Farnam we have 153x191 feet, on which it is possible to duplicate the building like the Hamilton Apartments at 24th and Farnam. Leave the corner ground vacant and so take advantage of the future when it will be possible to build and rent for other purposes. We hardly mean to compare this corner to 24th and Farnam, but you will see proportionate increase in values there, as all Farnam street property is bound to increase a great deal.

26th and Cass

At 26th and Cass we have several lots sultable for private homes or for double brick houses.

We have one $3x142 foot lot for $1,400.

A corner lot 99x116 feet for $4,000.

A lot 66x142 feet for $2,500.

These prices include all special taxes paid in full.

His Experts Tell About Food Safeguards in Hot Weather.

BOILED WATER MADE PALATABLE

Timely Warning on Need of Extra Care in Avoiding Illness from Unfit Articles of Diet.

Uncle Sam's experts in the Agricultural department offer these practical suggesllons on summer foods and drinks: "While people should be careful about the condition of the food they cat at all seasons of the year, they should be particularly watchful during the summer months. In hot weather, bacteria multiply far more rapidly than in cold weathe and produce chemical changes in some foods which greatly lessen their nutritive value and ofter make them unfit for human consumption. Unfortunately, there is no quick, absolute, simple, practical way of determining the presence of hurtful badilli in foods, or of obtaining positive evidence of the existence of ptomaines. The average family loes not have the delicate apparatus needed for these tests, nor the skill to detect these micro-organisms.

"The housewife will find eyes and nose the safest practical detectives of bad food in bot weather. If any article has any suspicion of an unusual odor or looks abnormal, it should be avoided. People enting in doubtful restaurants should be particularly careful about meats or fish coked with a highly spiced or aromatic sauce which might disguise a bad taste or warning odor. Only aweet-smelling, clean food should be eaten. Spotted, green, alimy, or frothy raw meat, or meat which is soft in spots, also should be regarded with suspicion. Taste, of course, is a supplementary test, but one to be used after years, nose and fingers. eat anything, should examine it care- last. fully in a good light, smell it, and finally taste it.

"Milk, particularly, deteriorates rapidly under summer heat, especially if it already contains bacteria. Housewives, therefore, should see to it that their milk, after being left by the milkman, does not stand for any length of time on a hot back porch or stoop before it is put in the ice box. Milk bottles should be kept closed, both in the ice box and out of it. If there is any doubt at all as to the excellence of the local milk supply, pasteurise all milk.

"All foods should be kept covered or wrapped, and always out of the reach which are deadly carriers of typhoid. All vessels, pitchers, etc., in which food is to be stored should first be scalded. Food should be handled as tittle as possible. The ice box, especially its drain pipe, should be cleaned thoroughly and frequently with boiling water and washing soda and given an oeasional airing. A persistent battle should be waged against flies in all parts of the home.

"Uncooked foods, as a general proposition, should be avoided. Children should not be allowed to eat the skins of fruits, sepecially fruits which have been exposed to flies or street dirt or on unsoreened stands or pushcarts.

"Those who go away for vacation should not get the idea that everything in a summer resort or strange city is secessarily pure and wholesome. danger of typhoid fever in country resorts is very great. His where flies or dirt cannot get at it, it will regain its air and have its usual taste restored to it by the second day.

"Finally, it is particularly important in summer that people should not be misled into believing that the label 'Guaranteed under the Food and Drugs Act.' on cans and packages, means that the government has tested these foods and pronounced them pure and desirable. The government does not make the guarantee. The guarantee is made wholly by the manufacturer, and means no more than when your own corner grocer guarantees that the sugar he weighs out for you is all right. SHORTCAKE AS IT USED TO BE

Are you among those unfortunates who once knew the taste-no, not mere taste, rather the all-pervading influence-the ecstatic hypnotism of the palate, produced by a real strawberry shortcake, and are now reduced to the restaurant and hotel variety? I saw "Strawberry Shortcake" on the menu the other day. I suppose the which of spring in the air affected me, for my mind promptly visualized an old blue plate staggering under a three-decker wedge of yellow foem blscult, loaded down with a pint of field strawberries and smothered under a cup of rich cream.

The vision perceptibly altered when the waiter placed before me a thin and haggard piece of dough, soaked with milk and garnished with a few sliced bits of half green market berries that spoke eloquently of the high cost of living.

But there was a time-when shall return the giory of its prime?-when all the poetry of youth and June ripened on the fragrant stalks of the fleid strawberry. Shortonke was the main from on the table, two big three-layer affairs, on oldfashioned dinner plates as big as platters. Oh, of course, there was the usual pyramid of baked potatoes, and four or five pounds of beefsteak with butter gravy, and a loaf or so of bread, and naybe a soup plate of green peas at each plate, and like enough a pitcher of milk or cider; but it was well understood that the shortcake was the chief thing.

And after dinner you could go out and lie on your back under the big maple and look up through the leaves and calculate A mother, before she allows her child to how many days more strawberries would

To find the first ripe strawberries was a distinction that entitled the discoverer hours. The earliest white blossoms were halled with joy. We marked the spot with secret care, and waited with froquent examinations the time for fruition, I do not recall that our hearts leaped up when we beheld a rainbow in the sky, but they certainly did when at length the delayed blush appeared on the cheek of the first red berry. The largest berries grew later, in low-lying meadow, but the earliest ones growned some close-cropped knoll or nestled against a southern pasture slope. I remember one bare knoll, rounding sharply down to a little brook, which concealed its treasures by being exactly like a dozen other knolls along the pasture brook. If you possessed the secret, you followed the brook along its windings, pretending to be stoning frogs or gathering spearmint, until you were hidden from the schooolhouse by the intervening hill. Then improvishing a basket from a handkerchief, providentially red, and so protected from visible berry stains and dirt, you picked the first handful of berries for the season, calculating meanwhile the probable number of days that you were ahead of Steve Wilkins and his mysterious berry patch in his father's south pasture.
