JAPAN AND THE NEW WOMAN Question Comes to the Front in Land of Rising Sun. EMANCIPATION IS DEMANDED Educated Girls Form "Blue Stocking" Society to Argue in Favor of All Sorts of "Woman's Rights." TOKIO, July 15.—The "New Woman" question has come to the fore in Japan just as it has in the occident and has aroused almost as much attention as the woman rights problem in foreign lands. The Japanese woman, compared to her sisters abroad, has occupied a modest place in the life of the empire and has seen greatly in subjection. But advanced opinion agrees that the Japanese woman is entitled to greater freedom and wider intellectual activities than hitherto has been allowed her. A cry for "emancipation of women" from "domestic slavery" is being raised by a number of educated girls who call themselves "Blue Stockings." These "new women" do not clearly specify what they wish to accomplish, but in a general way they defy the old order of things laid down for the female sex. They have their own publications and occasionally arrange public meetings for the propagation of their ideas. They have a club of their own, and gather for nightly woman's rights discussions. However, these are the extremists.

Coronation Plans For the Mikado TOKIO, July 15.—After the observance of the first anniversary of the death of Emperor Mutsuhito at the end of July, the court will begin active preparation for the coronation of the new emperor, who is now quite well again after his recent attack of pneumonia. The coronation will take place in the fall of 1914 and will be attended by representatives and magnificence. An imperial coronation commission will soon be bestowed upon H. H. General Prince Pushimi. The date for coronation will be fixed and published with the signature of the minister of the imperial household and the ministers of state. At the same time

VERY POOR OR VERY RICH ONLY THRIVE IN ENGLAND LONDON, July 15.—Sir William Osler, Regius Professor of Medicine at Oxford, has been voicing the opinion of the medical profession at the inadequacy of the hospital accommodation in England and comparing unfavorably the voluntary system in America and Canada, where all hospitals accept paying patients. Through out the United Kingdom the hospitals accept no pay from their patients, with the result that they are crowded with those who cannot afford to pay, and in many cases are partially closed because the lack of funds will not allow all the beds to be occupied, while people who could afford to pay something have to go to nursing homes, which are in most cases very expensive, or be nursed at home. The result according to doctors, with large practices, is that only the very poor or the very rich get proper medical attention.

ENGLAND'S 'STAMP LICKERS' Fourteen Million People Weekly Are Doing the Stunt. COMES WITH STATE INSURANCE Many Cases of Feigned Illness Reported as One Fruit of the New Law to Help the Unfortunate. LONDON, July 15.—If all men were perfectly honest schemes like the liberal government insurance act might be ideal schemes. But the few months in which the act has been in operation have shown that many Englishmen cannot resist temptation. The amount of feigned illness among the insured is becoming a great scandal. In this respect Great Britain is repeating the experience of Germany, which furnished the model for the Lloyd George bill. The Germans have invented a new word for the illness of the government insured, and some similar word will be needed in England soon. Small Wages Cause Malingering.—Some employers who pay small wages find that the number of employees absent from work on accounts of alleged illness from twice to ten times the number under former conditions, before workmen and women were assured of ten shillings a week whenever they laid off. The doctors agree that there is an enormous amount of malingering, but have not yet discovered any cure. Many people consider that a week of leisure, with an income of 10 shillings, is a justifiable holiday. When the official doctor ascertains that they are not fit to begin to denounce the act as a fraud, and make political capital of it. Conservative newspapers are only too willing to print complaints from the insured that the insurance act is a failure. Millions Licking Stamps.—Fourteen million people are now paying their weekly contributions, "licking stamps," the government's opponents say derisively. Undoubtedly many of them find fault with the administration of the act, and probably some amendments will be found necessary. New problems have written to the papers explaining that an employer had been four or five months in jail charged with murder. The trial resulted in acquittal. The employer wants to take back the man, but wants to know who is to pay the insurance contributions for the time of detention in jail. The act says nothing on that point. For the time opposition to the insurance scheme, or rather criticism of it, is the principal political capital of the conservative party. Home rule and Welsh disestablishment have taken back seats as targets for attack. But while conservatives declare that compulsory insurance is a failure their leaders do not go so far as to urge repeal. It is unpopular with many people, but whether it is not popular with the great majority of the insured is still an open question. Need New Taxes to Support the New German Army BERLIN, July 15.—Before the Reichstag adjourned on June 9, President Kaempff said that the day's session would live as one of the most memorable in his history. His words did not exaggerate the importance of the work done by the house on that day, for this included the bill increasing the peace strength of the army by 150,000 men, as well as the financial bills rendered necessary by it. These latter include two classes of bills, one for meeting the expenses to be incurred in organizing the new forces, building forts, barracks and other extraordinary purposes; the other for defraying the yearly expenses of the increased military footing. The first class of taxes, which are to bring in at least $20,000,000, consist of a direct tax on property and incomes, and it will be distributed over three years. Both taxes are on graduated scales, under which the largest fortunes pay 15 per thousand, and the largest incomes (those of $10,000 or more) pay 8 per hundred. Foreigners resident in Germany must pay on the same scale as Germans. The permanent taxes consist of a tax on the yearly increase in wealth from all sources, certain stamp taxes hitherto belonging to the states, an increase of the existing inheritance taxes and the appropriation by the imperial government of intestate estates where there are no near heirs. A part of the revenue also will be obtained by retaining the sugar tax at its present level instead of reducing it by 20 per cent, as a resolution of the Reichstag some four years ago demanded. The total amount expected from this class of taxes is about $50,000,000. An interesting feature of the tax on increases of wealth is that it includes inheritances of children by their parents. Thus the inheritance tax, whose rejection by the Reichstag in 1908 caused the resignation of Prince Bulow, has now been adopted in an indirect way. AUSTRALIA MAY ALTER CAPITAL CITY PLANS LONDON, July 15.—One of the possibilities of the return of the Liberals to power in Australia, where they secured a majority of one over the labor party in the lower house, is that the plans for the new capital at Canberra may be altered. The design was opposed by the Liberals when in opposition, and the architects of Sydney have memorialized the new premier to set aside. Of course the Liberals are yet firmly established in office, for they have to appoint a speaker, which would leave them with exactly the same strength on the floor of the house as that of the laborites, who also have a majority in the upper house. It was for this reason that Mr. McMillan, a member of the senate, was appointed minister of defense as it will be his duty to attend the proposed naval conference at Vancouver, where the future naval policy of the Dominion having a frontier on the Pacific, will be decided.
