John Burtuccia, a track laborer employed by the street railway company. jumped under a cross-town car at Twenty-fourth and Leavenworth streets early Haturday night and the rear trucks passed over his body. He was pulled out by John J. Mahoney and several other men and carried into a nearby drug store, where he died a few minutes later. At the coroner's office EM Turnquist. 1017 South Twenty-second street, identifled the body as that of a man who tried to jump underneath a car at Twenty-fourth and Farnam streets, but was prevented by a passerby.

Little is known of Burtucola here. He had only been employed by the street car company a short time and it could not be learned last night whether he had a family.

The car which ended the man's life was in charge of Motorman A. Witsel and Conductor S. A. Kent, both old employes of the company,

Street car officials who investigated the affair said last night that Burtuccis had been acting queerly all day and they believed that the heat of the last few days was the cause of his suicide.

WORLD'S STRONGEST WOMEN COMING WITH THE CIRCUS

The Balton family, the strongest women in the world, will be seen in Omaha on August 6 with Barnum & Bailey's circus. As a thriller this act is more satisfying to an audience than all the mechanical contraptions ever built in a circus ring. It has real dramatic thrills and genuine suspense and does not depend on grewsome machinery to give it effect.

The circus has a new parade three miles long, a new menagerie with the only baby giraffe in captivity and the newly added spectacle of "Cleopatra," produced on the biggest open air stage in the world with a cast of 1,350 charactors, a grand opera chorus, a ballet of 200 dancing girls, 650 horses and a trainload of special acenery, costumer and stage effects.
