Bryan Back to Capital. William H. Bryan, after jetting in Adel and Panora today, started back to Washington, but the pleasure of his day was spoiled by a 600-word cipher dispatch which was placed in his hands as soon as he reached Adel today. Instead of accepting the hospitality of political friends, as had been planned, he spent the forenoon deciphering the dispatch and writing out an answer to be sent back. He did not disclose the nature of the secret telegram, but his friends said he was much disturbed over its contents.

NORTH END OF ATLANTIC ROAD IN SORE STRAITS

ATLANTIC, Ia., July 23.—(Special.)—Whether the north end of the Atlantic Northern & Southern railroad will be operated after August 3, at which time its purchase by the bondholders on that end will be completed and that portion of the road turned over to them, or the road abandoned will be decided at a meeting which has been called for Friday afternoon of this week at Elkhorst. The matter of incorporating the company to operate the road and raising the necessary money to finance the proposition will be taken up. The bondholders have all agreed to turn in their bonds for the payment of the road, but it is estimated that about $25,000 in cash is needed to pay for a new engine, and repairing the roadbed. The discontinuance of operation of the road will follow if proper arrangements for the incorporation are not made.

IOWA CHALLENGES CHARGE THAT CHILDREN NEGLECTED

IOWA CITY, Ia., July 23.—(Special.)—Authorities from the Child Study department of the United States Bureau of Labor who say that the child raised on a farm in the middle west does not have the same opportunity to grow to maturity as his brother who gets his upbringing in the slums of the east side in New York will have an opportunity to prove their point during the coming year. In co-operation with the labor bureau, the University of Iowa will make a systematic study of the children in some counties in the state, not yet selected. The bureau is already carrying out similar investigations at Monclair, N. J., and Johnstown, Pa. The government experts say that the people of the middle west do not pay enough attention to their children.

The plans for the wedding had been kept quiet, but after the marriage they had expected to move to Eagle Grove, Ia., where Taylor intended to engage in business.

Naturally very jolly and quite a joker, Dr. Craven broke down under the loss of his entire family. His only son, John Craven, a banker of Spirit Lake, was killed in an auto accident eight years ago, and with him this son's wife. Very soon Dr. Craven lost his own wife. A short space of time later an only daughter, Minnie, who was the wife of Brigadier General Hort, United States army, died suddenly at Fort Russell, Cheyenne, and Dr. Craven went to live with a niece in Chicago, the daughter of a deceased brother.

IOWA MAN KILLS SELF AT MONTROSE, S. D.

RIoux FALLS, S. D., July 23.—(Special.)—David Nutt, aged 24 years, whose home was at Mount Ayr, Ia., committed suicide in a hotel at Montrose, near Rioux Falls, at noon while dinner was being served to the other guests. The bullet entered the right temple. The deed was committed with a new revolver, evidently purchased for the purpose, and only one shot was fired. Dependency over a love affair is believed to have been the cause of this suicide. In the room of the dead man were found two letters, one addressed to a brother, T. W. Nutt, and the other to the young woman by whom he had been jilted, in which he bade her a sorrowful good-bye and wished her happiness.

Blame Placed on Fire Drill

"It's not the money loss, nor the business that overcomes me," he said today, "but it is the thought of those girls, some of whom have been with us for years. They perished because they believed the alarm was for a fire drill, several of which had been held recently. They disliked this drill, which forced them to appear in the streets in their rough working clothes. Many of them were proud spirited and didn't like this. The drills were a bother."
