City commissioner approved the appointment of Rev. Albert E. Selzer as a special copper for the charities. They also approved the appointment of Otto T. Peterson as a special investigator for Kugel. Peterson has been doing special work for Kugel since March 2 and his appointment dates from then. There was some question as to whether he meets the physical and other requirements of a police official, but the council took Kugel's word that he did. Commissioner Kugel said he did not wish to appoint Peterson earlier because he had been doing some work which he thought it better to keep quiet and his appointment would at once make him a "marked man."

Writes Good-Bye Note to His Wives and Seeks Death

The sudden appearance of wife No. 1 upon the scene where wife No. 2 was playing the heavy lead so annoyed Charles Jordan, colored, who lives at 1923 South Nineteenth street, that he sought to avoid the consequences by ending his life and letting his two wives settle the affair for themselves. "Wives and dear friends," he wrote just before taking the poison, "I hope this tells the tale. I leave this world. Forgive me. They are trying to get me in trouble. Goodbye, little wife; good luck to you—Charles." When the police surgeons arrived they were able to save Jordan's life. According to Cora Jordan, who says she is wife No. 1, she married Jordan seven years ago at Iola, Kan., where he deserted her. Jordan's present wife was formerly Susie Scott of Omaha. The Iola woman came to Omaha yesterday and her first act was to tell Mrs. Jordan No. 2 that her husband was a bigamist. The police did not arrest Jordan, as neither wife would file a complaint. Remnants of linoleums, worth to $20, Monday at 29c square yard. Brandels.

FORMER OMAHA PASTOR BACK

Rev. Newton Mann Discusses Equality Before Unity Club Members.

EFFECT OF THE FREE SCHOOLS

Many Avenues to Education and Refinement Are Closed to Those Afflicted with Poverty.

Rev. Newton Mann, for more than twenty years pastor of the First Unitarian church of Omaha, and since 1909 pastor of one of the largest churches of Chicago, addressed the Unity club at its meeting at the library last night, choosing for his subject, "Equality." "That motto of 1789, liberty, equality, fraternity, will not bear a liberal interpretation," said Rev. Mr. Mann. "For centuries the world was in the control of the strong, the result of the contest between the weak and the strong. Then came the blow which set the shackles free, the voice which said 'we the people.' The only equality comes from a free and equal opportunity to everyone to develop the talent he has in him. The privilege for accomplishment of great things may never be construed to mean the power to accomplish such things. Opportunity merely provides an avenue toward the things for which we work. The latent power, the talent, of the individual is more important to the individual than the things which surround him. The Free School. "Chief among the accomplishments for equality in America has been the establishment of the free public schools, and the utility of these schools has been greatly increased by compulsory attendance. The tendency is toward the ward children to drop out at the eighth grade. However, that rule is not an exact one. The children of the rich are crowded forward, while the children of the poor are often compelled to leave school and go to work. For that reason, the high schools have come to be crowded with drones, who are spoiled at home by overindulgence. They are dreadfully lazy, and take the care and time of the teachers and clog the machinery of the schools, and retard the progress of the bright pupils. "The state should see that the progress of the bright boy or girl should not be stopped by poverty. Admission to the high schools should be open to those who bring up high records from the grades below. Dull pupils should be refused admission to the higher schools or segregated in a group by themselves. This should not be done out of good nature, but because it is the duty of the nation to conserve the talent of the people as a whole. "While we are progressing toward equality as a whole, the many avenues of education and refinement, which require an immediate expenditure, as the theater, the opera and travel, are closed to those afflicted with poverty. "The present trend toward the emancipation of woman is a step toward equality and is being taken not in the logical order, but rather as a woman does things, jumping the ordinary preliminaries and arriving at once at the conclusion."

PAINTER STILL IS FREE AND HIS FRIENDS ACTIVE

It is said that influential citizens of Omaha are behind the petition for Frank E. Painter's pardon. He is now at liberty on an appeal bond secured for him by International Secretary C. L. Shamp of the Stationary Firemen's union, and other Omaha labor men, who backed his part of the efforts for a new trial. Painter's sentence was for two years and two days. He served four months in the Indianapolis prison before being convicted, and is said to have made an excellent record while there. Secretary Shamp, 2615 North Twenty-fourth street, says that Painter's record for good behavior, the man would have to serve only five months more in prison, because under the prison rule of crediting two and one-third days for each day of good behavior served, the sentence of two years would be reduced to less than one year, of which over four months has already been served. If Painter's friends fall in their efforts for his pardon, it is understood that Mrs. Painter will live in Omaha with some of her acquaintances while her husband completes serving his term. If the case had not been appealed his term in prison, allowing for good behavior, would have been finished a short time ago and he would now be a free man.

He declared that there was no evidence to show that Lester, the 16-year-old son of Mr. Klopp, who was driving an automobile which struck Dr. Walker, had been given his father's permission to drive the motor car. SACRED CONCERT HELD AT IMMANUEL LUTHERAN CHURCH

A sacred concert was given last evening by the Immanuel Lutheran church choir at the church for the purpose of raising money to help pay for the new pipe organ. A program of music was presented. The numbers chosen by both soloists and the choir represented some of the most celebrated sacred music which has ever been written. It is hoped that the financial success will more than meet the expectations of the choir.
