MANY loyal sons of Erin who have been transplanted to this city are fortunate enough to celebrate their birthday on the same day as the good Saint Patrick, the patron saint of Ireland.

One of the oldest of these is Patrick Hynes, who today celebrates his eighty-second birthday. Mr. Hynes has been ill since the tornado last Easter, when his house was destroyed and he suffered a fractured hip, so his birthday will be spent quietly with members of his family.

Dr. T. R. Mullen does not celebrate his birthday today, but has a brother, Patrick Mullen, of Albion, Neb., who was born on March 17, and is celebrating with the doctor's brother-in-law, Patrick Carroll, so Dr. Mullen says it is all in the family.

Owen McCaffrey and Mark J. Coad are the only ones who are not namesakes of the patron saint, and have their birthdays today.

Among the namesakes having birthdays today are Patrick Heafey, Daniel Patrick Collins, James Patrick Dugdale and Patrick Duffy.

THROAT Troubles ARE Dangerous

because the swollen glands and inflamed membranes often affect other tissues and impair their healthy action.

Scott's Emulsion stands alone as nature's correcter of throat troubles; its cod liver oil is speedily converted into germ-killing tissue—the glycerine is curative and healing, while the combined emulsion up-buils the forces to avert the weakening influence which always follow throat troubles.

Scott's Emulsion is best for three important reasons—It relieves the trouble; it prevents a relapse; it is not changed with alcohol or any other drug.

Shown substantiated and 15,000 imitations on Scott's.

Fashion Hint

By LA RACONTEUSE.

The coat of this suit of blue marine is very short and cut in the bolero shape. It is embroidered with a wide red band design and opens over a chemise of cotton muslin, pleated in front and finished with a small square embroidered collar. The elbow sleeves show a long, loose under-sleeve, tightened by a cuff, embroidered the same as the collar. The draped belt is of green taffeta. The skirt has a

FOSTER FOR SCHOOL ECONOMY

Chairman of Teachers' Committee Would Stop Summer Session.

SAYS MAJORITY FAVORS PLAN

Instruction for 750 Students Who Made Up Back Work Costs Taxpayers More Than $3,000—Board Faces Dilemma.

Chairman J. J. Foster of the teachers' committee of the Board of Education will seek to prevent the continuance of vacation schools this summer because of the expense. Although President C. T. Walker and the entire board is seeking to curtail expenses so that a nice showing could be made at the close of the year, Dr. Foster has handled the little scheme to stop the summer schools all by himself.

"I think I have a majority in favor of abandoning the school," said Dr. Foster. "We are not getting justifiable returns on the money invested."

These "vacation schools" were established last year at the suggestion of Superintendent E. U. Graff. Classes were taught for eight weeks at the Central High school. All grade school and high school subjects were taught. The total expense of the summer school was as follows: Teachers, $2,184; postage, $475; supplies, 25 cents. Seven hundred and eighty-nine students attended the school, many of them making up back work.

Concerning the abandonment of the project Superintendent Graff said:

"The question has not been up before the teachers' committee on the board. The matter of continuing the school will be put up to the committee and the board and they will decide it in accordance with their best judgment. The question of expense always has been an important one. If the funds of the board do not justify it, then the school should not be continued."

Walker Favours All-Year School. President Walker said he thought the school would be continued, but that he favored an all-year school with several short vacations. He had not been approached on the vacation school by Foster.

James Richardson had. He said: "It's too expensive. Not much good is done by it, anyway. I'm opposed to it." And in the same breath Richardson, referring to the matter of high school publications supported by merchants, who are objecting to "having" to advertise in these papers, said:

"In my opinion the board ought to appropriate enough money to publish these papers. I suppose it would cost around $100 an issue, but the merchants ought not to have to advertise if they don't want to."

Some of the outside passenger traffic men are said to favor continuing the low water rate over and during the exposition. They contend this rate would move an enormous amount of business during the summer and would not result in cutting down the business during the following winter.

It is figured that if the winter rate should be continued during the summer next year, Omaha people would be able to visit the exposition at not to exceed $50 spent for railroad fare.

Butler is of the opinion that the council could secure several down town public comfort stations by asking the merchants to build them before permits were issued for arcades or subways.

Omaha Girls at Wellesley

HARRIET BLAKE.

Four Omaha girls are students at Wellesley—Miss Henrietta Gilmore, Miss Harriet Blake and Miss Halcyon Cotton. Miss Blake is the only one who lived in College Hall, which was destroyed by fire. Miss Blake's mother is spending the winter in California.

So far the Omaha parents have not received any telegrams from their young women, but all dispatches say that not one person was even injured. "As long as the Omaha young women were not in this building they have lost no personal belongings and there has been no necessity for wiring," said one of the mothers yesterday.

Wellesley college has one of the largest alumnae associations here of any of the eastern women's colleges.

WELLESLEY GIRLS MAKE ESCAPE FROM BURNING DORMITORY

The halls were already filled with smoke, as the girls formed in line and marched from the building. The college volunteer fire brigade was early in action and made sure that none of the sleepers was left to the flames.

Records Are Saved. Once outside, several of the girls then sought to re-enter the building to save valuable papers in the offices. Miss Mary Smith of West Chester, Pa., secretary of the dean, made a bold dash into the dean's office on the first floor and with the aid of Edward C. Monahan, an employe, saved most of the dean's records.

Mrs. Henry P. Durant, widow of the founder of the college, who is 90 years of age, witnessed the fire, being taken to the scene in a wheel chair.

Fire companies from Newton, Natick and Needham responded to an alarm, but were unable to stay the flames, which were burning themselves out when the students assembled at chapel at 9 o'clock.

President Ellen S. Pendleton announced that the college would be closed until the end of the usual spring vacation, April 7. Sessions were to have continued until March 27. The president asked all who could make arrangements to leave Wellesley today, so that accommodations could be had for those who would be obliged to remain.

Scores of telegrams, asking that money and clothing be sent from their homes, were despatched by the students.

Officials of the college made arrangements to provide funds for any who were in immediate need, and citizens threw open their home to the students.
