GRAIN AND PRODUCE MARKET Interest in Corn is the Largest in Many Months.

FORMER WINNERS NOW LOSERS Many Traders Who Have Been Making Good Margins in the Yellow Cereal Are on Losing Side of the Game.

OMAHA, March 30, 1914. The interest in corn is the largest in nany months. In addition to the bold-ngs by the down state operators, inviudin the cast who have come into corn out of the cotton and stock markets. The bullish developments in corn have been a great surprise to the bears, as well as to those who put out short lines with the expectation of securing a profit on recessions. The NEW YORK GENERAL MARKET

Some of the larger traders in this mar-ket and who have been quite successful formerly, have been the largest losers in corn lately. It was expected by these appendators that the high prices would be more attractive to country holders of the cash than has been shown and that the shipments from the farms and out of ne shipments from the farms and out of bunity elevators would be sensationally

The farmers, however, advanced their asking price as rapidly as the futures and cash article advanced at Chicago, and in addition to this the Argentine corn was fairly well taken and conditions have been anything but extremely bear-

Those who don't believe in the present level for corn are advising customers to avoid the advances as buying spots.

GOING AWAY, TRADE REMINGTON Cash corn was unchanged to it lower.

Ohio, 27c. LEATHER-Firm; hemlock firsts, 20c;

Those who believe in corn are advising customers to avoid the advances as buying spots.

Cash corn was unchanged to ic lower. There is little in the wheat situation to encourage either a buil or a bear to stand with the expectation of securing a profit in the near future. In consequence the open interest in this grain is unusually small, if the holdings of the May future are excepted. There are two circumstances surrounding the wheat market that may be called decidedly bearish, and these are not likely to be overcome. The lack of demand for the cash wheat and the ideal crop promise in the southwest are referred to.

Cash wheat was 'ad'ac lower.

The oats market is likely to continue in the footsteps of corn, as has been the case for some weeks. The large supplies in Chicago, as well as in the visible, are against any buil movement, while they are in favor of the bears.

Cash oats were 'adic lower.

The speculators who are close to the hog situation in the west are banking on a smaller run because of weakness of the market coupled with the muddy roads. On this basis there has been some buying by scattered interests, including grain men, as well as speculators at the stock yards. The stocks of manufactured products at Chicago are claimed to be anything but burdensome, although the demand for the cash article has been unsatisfactory of late.
