

TO ROUND UP SIDESTEPPERS

Those Who Have Failed to File Incomes Will Be Gathered In.

EIGHT DEPUTIES ON THE JOB

Internal Revenue Collector Hammond Will Start Out Brigade to Look Into Private Incomes of Nebraskans.

Nebraska persons and corporations who have, intentionally or otherwise, failed to file an income tax return with Ross L. Hammond, collector of internal revenue, will be the prey of a force of eight deputies and special field agents of the department, who will at once start their work of ferreting out private incomes in the state of Nebraska, which are in excess of the amount exempted by the federal laws.

During the month of March a number of corporations and individuals who for good cause were allowed an extension of time after March 2, made the returns, but no such extension may now be obtained by the collector. All income returns filed after Tuesday will be assessed a penalty of 50 per cent of the amount of the tax plus a fine which range from $20 to $1,000, and in addition the amount of the tax will become payable immediately instead of June 30, as in the case with returns made within the time provided in the statute.

Telephones calls, telegrams, and letters flooded Mr. Hammond's office yesterday from persons and corporations over the state asking for more time to prepare the return. "I am absolutely sworn of my power, I couldn't give you a minute more, if it was a matter of life or death," was the reply Collector Hammond made to these inquiries.

The schedule of compromises for delinquent returns of individuals lies with the commissioner of internal revenue, who with the approval of the secretary of the treasury, may compromise fines and penalties in such cases. The schedule of such compromises for individual cases has not yet been received by Collector Hammond here, and it is not known whether there will be fine provided, or whether the cases will be dealt with individually.

It has been estimated that there were 6,000 persons in the state of Nebraska who were liable for the income tax assessment. Not more than half this number have filed returns, and it is expected that a number of incomes which were believed to be in excess of the exemption provided in the statute, will be discovered by the deputy collectors and field agents.

Suffragists and Antis Have Row Over Billboards

Quite an argument prevailed at the American theater when local suffragists, who had engaged the house for last evening, started to use the display boards in front of the building and cover over the posters which the anti-suffragists had pasted up with posters advertising their meeting Thursday night.

For a while the manager was in hot water with a different argument being heard by each of his ears. He finally decided that the first date should have the use of the boards and they were accordingly given over to the suffragists.

Economic League is to Interview Kugel

"Who is responsible for continued violations of laws in Omaha with no prosecution?" This is what the Economic League wants to know. The league is to hold its first April meeting next Tuesday night. A committee has been working on this big question for some weeks, and although it will probably not be ready to make a formal report, the matter will come up and perhaps an informal report of the progress in the investigation will be made. The committee consists of Donald J. Burke, Winter Bylee and H. W. Morrow.

How to Wash Face to Preserve Its Beauty

The face should never be washed more than once a day, that is in the morning, according to an eminent London physician. There's nothing like rain water for this, he says. If the skin is not over-sensitive, cold water is better than warm. Dabbling it over the face with the palms of the hands, aids in toning up relaxed skin. The face should be dried with a soft towel and not exposed to the outdoor air for at least a half hour.

MISS BRONSON SPEAKS AT THE AMERICAN THURSDAY

"For years the woman suffragists have carried on propaganda work through public addresses and the distribution of literature, and for these agencies they have expended a large sum of money," said Mrs. J. W. Crumpacker, national organizer for the Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage. "Where did they get the money? Much of it came from the men and women of means. The association which I have the honor to represent is supported by another group of men and women who believe that equal suffrage would be a detriment to women. Our reasons for such belief will be given by Miss Minnie Bronson, national secretary, who will address the people of Omaha at the American theater, Thursday evening, at 8 p. m. Admission free. The speaker will be introduced by Henry W. Yates.

Music

Last of Kelly Recitals. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Kelly gave the last of the series of Lenten recitals under the auspices of the Tuesday morning Musical club at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Joslyn yesterday afternoon. Songs of the sixteenth, seventeenth, eighteenth and nineteenth centuries were discussed.

Mr. Kelly prefaced each song with a brief discussion of its period, the nation to which it belonged and very often an interesting anecdote, or incident in the life of the composer. Mr. Kelly in these lectures kept in the realm of song, complete in itself and did not take up for discussion the song in its connection with oratorio, opera or for many voices.

Every song in the first group was so charming and full of melody it is hard to mention any as of more particular interest. There was a lovely "Amaryllis" by Salvatore Rosa, an Italian and an exquisite bit of sentiment from the French written by King Louis, the eighteenth, who, according to the lecturer, was much better versed in music than in politics.

The closing song of this group was one of the gems of the afternoon. This was an "Abendlied," by J. A. P. Schutta, a German, and an immediate forerunner of Schumann. This song combines excellent poetry with well written music which strictly interpreted it, and in the close a chorale is used.

The lack of much song of its own sake in Italy was perhaps the result of so much opera in that country, although song writers which Italy did produce wrote songs of great worth and merit. Often the adaptability of the Italian language in singing and the power of the singers to sing difficult phrases easily led the composers to write music which was more florid than was really necessary for the text.

In a brief retrospect Mr. Kelly mentioned the necessity of cutting down the vast amount of material upon this subject in order to include it in three lectures. He spoke of the many illustrious composers who he had not mentioned, of Brahms, Beethoven, Bach, the neglected Franz, each of which would require an afternoon for adequate discussion. In closing, two of the more unfamiliar songs were chosen from each Schubert and Schumann-Schubert, the eloquent singer, who became dependent through poverty and Schumann, who created new forms in the art of music. This recital letter was given with all the artistry and finish which was previously manifested and the large number present in spite of the inclement weather attested the interest of the audience.

NEED CLEAN CITY OFFICIALS

Rabbi Wise Says Boodlers and Grafters Affect Child Mind.

SHOULD STAND AS ONE MORALLY

Clean and Efficient City Administration Necessary to Good Citizenship, Says New Yorker at Central High School.

"Education must train the child with reference to his future citizenship in our American democracy," said Dr. Stephen S. Wise, rabbi of the Free Synagogue of New York City, speaking at the Central High school yesterday before hundreds of public school teachers.

"But how can a teacher hope to impart to children a sense of civic duty and civic loyalty if the city officials serve every interest, but those of the public? A clean and efficient administration of city affairs is the best possible training of civic virtue within the school. No number of civic courses can undo the effect wrought upon the child mind by an inefficient mayor or a corrupt city council.
