By MELLIFICIA. Wednesday, April 1, 1914.

SUFFRAGE and anti-suffrage continues to interest society, and two large luncheons are planned this week, one by each society, when a prominent out-of-town guest will be the honor guest at each luncheon. Today at the Hotel Rome the suffragists will meet in large numbers to hear Mrs. Maud Howe Elliott of Boston, whose mother, Julia Ward Howe, was a pioneer in the suffrage movement.

Thursday Miss Bronson of New York, national anti-suffrage secretary, will be the honor guest at a luncheon at the Commercial club.

The campaign is getting quite exciting, families are divided and one would think that it might be the presidential campaign. Quiet and retiring women are asserting themselves either for or against suffrage.

Quite an ardent worker for the suffrage cause has been devoting so much of her time to it that she has no spring hat to wear to the luncheon today.

"Never mind your new spring bonnet," said Mrs. Covell, "I am going to wear the same hat that flaunted its plumes in the face of Miss Minnie Bronson when she was here."

At the luncheon this noon, for which 360 reservations were made, the following were at the speakers' table: Mesdames Maud Howe Elliott, Draper Smith, Halleck Rose, W. G. Whitmore of Valley, Brewster of Irvington, G. F. Copper of South Omaha, S. A. Capen, C. W. Russell, John L. Kennedy, M. B. Munson of Pittsburgh, Miss Kate McHugh and Miss Daisy Doane.

Thursday at the Commercial club luncheon those at the speakers' table will include honor members of the executive committee of the Anti-Suffrage association: Miss Minnie Bronson, Mesdames Henry W. Yates, Edward Porter Peck, John C. Cowin, Frank T. Hamilton, L. F. Crofoot and J. W. Crumpacker. The meeting is sponsored by the committee on public affairs, of which Mr. W. F. Baxter is chairman. The speaker will be introduced by Mr. Arthur C. Smith.

REAL ESTATE EXCHANGE FAVORS BUYING ART HOME

The Real Estate Exchange has set aside a day on which it is to discuss real estate matters. Byron Hastings, ex-president of the organization, created a little laugh when he moved at the meeting that the next meeting be devoted to the discussion of real estate matters. Amendments and substitute motions were threshed around for a time, and Harry Wolf made the fine parliamentary point that the motion was out of order, in that no one could move to take up the business for the sole purpose of which the organization is incorporated. Hastings then made the motion that no other business than that of real estate should be taken up at the meeting. This was agreed to be in order and was sanctioned, the date being set for two weeks from today.

This bit of insinuating on the part of Mr. Hastings came about because the exchange has for so long busied itself with public questions that pure real estate "shop talk" has had no place in the meetings.

FIND MODERN CINDERELLA

Burgess-Nash Company Finds Ideal in Its Own Store.

SPECIAL MATINEE THURSDAY

Miss Lotus Budd as the Harrison Fisher Girl is One of the Centers of Attraction at the Style Show.

If you had a dainty little foot which could be snugly encased in a No. 2 A shoe without the slightest pinch, don't you think you were entitled to be called a Modern Cinderella and that some day some Modern Prince Charming would come along with the slipper which would control both yours and his destines? Because she has such a small foot that she can wear a No. 2 A slipper, Miss Henrietta Dunn is one Omaha girl who can call herself a Modern Cinderella. She plays the part of Cinderella in the playlet given at the Burgess-Nash company's style show.

When Albert L. Green, manager of the Burgess-Nash company's advertising department, conceived the idea of playing the Modern Cinderella he was confronted by one difficulty. He had no conception of where he could find a young woman with a foot small enough to escape the critical eyes of the women who would attend the show. He didn't know which way to turn, but after he had looked in vain for several days fortune broke his way and he discovered Miss Dunn in the millinery department of his own store. Instantly Mr. Green informed Miss Dunn she should be Cinderella.

Learns the Part.

Miss Dunn demurred a bit at first, but the glory of being a Cinderella was too much and she agreed. She learned her part in the little playlet and turned out to be a very clever pantomimist. She makes the change from her ragged house dress to the beautiful evening gown without detection by the audience, and, above all, she permits the boy page to slip the little golden slippers on her feet before the entire audience, confident that all eyes directed toward her are consumed with jealousy.

As to Prince Charming, that is a different matter. Apparently Prince Charming is yet to arrive. On that score Miss Dunn is reticent, but some day he is bound to come and then Miss Dunn will have more right than ever to call herself the modern Cinderella.

Mr. Green has announced that a special matinee will culminate the style show performances this afternoon. This matinee will be given between the hours of 4 and 6 because of the many requests of school teachers and the like who are unable to attend the show at the scheduled hours. The entire performance will be given at this special matinee.

Harrison Fisher Girl.

One of the special features of yesterday's program was the posing of Miss Lotus Budd as the Harrison Fisher girl. For several years Miss Budd was a model in Mr. Fisher's studio and she consented to pose as the Harrison Fisher girl so that Omaha would see a real Harrison Fisher girl once. When she assumes the Harrison Fisher pose it is easy to detect that Miss Budd has posed before the creator of "The American Girl."

The exhibition of old costumes, the property of Omaha women, is creating a great deal of interest at the style show. Among the costumes shown are several dresses owned by Mrs. E. B. Nicoles, a polk bonnet 100 years old, which is also owned by Mrs. Nicoles, a 75-year-old dress owned by Miss Lida Wilson, a 75-year-old parasol owned by Mrs. W. R. Bowen, a hat of the period of 1856 owned by Mrs. C. R. Sherman and Mrs. Governor Saunders' second day dress. This dress, which Mrs. Saunders wore the day after she was married in 1856, is so small that it was impossible to secure a form to place it on. Not even the forms for girls are small enough in the waist for the dainty little dress.

The crowd at the style show yesterday was in accordance with the proportion established Monday and Tuesday. Long before the opening hours women had secured seats and were waiting patiently. By the opening time no seats were available and scores were standing up. Today is the last day of the show, three performances being given. The first one will be at 10:30 o'clock in the morning, the second at 1:30 in the afternoon and the third and last at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Get-Together Feast Scheduled for May 5 at Commercial Club

The big get-together banquet of the Omaha retailers, jobbers, manufacturers and other interests of the city is definitely set for May 5 at 6:30 in the evening at the Commercial club rooms. At a joint meeting of members of the trade extension committee of the Commercial club, Associated Retailers of Omaha, Omaha Retail Grocers' association, Omaha Manufacturers' association and the Ben Franklin club, the date was decided upon, and preliminary arrangements were made.

Four committees were appointed to finish the arrangements. The committee on speakers consists of Don T. Lee, Paul Skinner and Byron Reed. The committee on entertainment, John Hussie, J. W. Gamble and D. J. O'Brien. The committee on finance, Penn P. Fodrea, J. A. Rockwell and Fred Hanson. The committee on publicity and invitation, J. W. Metcalfe, L. J. Quinby and P. C. Hyson.

PURSE IS STOLEN FROM WOMAN WHILE IN CHURCH

Miss Mary Gray, 4623 Dodge street, reports to the police that while she was attending services at St. Mary Magdalene's church, Nineteenth and Dodge streets, someone picked up her purse, which she laid on the seat back of her. The receptacle contained $13 cash, a rosary and some trinkets. Suspicion points to two men who have been seen around the church the last couple of mornings and who sat immediately back of Miss Gray during mass.

BEE HEATING OFFER IS FAIR

Real Estate Exchange Members Against Buying Boilers.

WYMAN WANTS HEAT BOUGHT

Says the Acceptance of The Bee's Proposition Would Save the City Many Thousands of Dollars for Heat.

Interest in saving the city some money in the method of providing heat for the city hall brought out some discussion at the meeting of the Real Estate exchange at the regular noon meeting. A letter from H. F. Wyman, real estate man of Omaha, to C. F. Harrison, was read before the exchange. He urged that some method be found whereby the city could buy its heat from a neighboring heating plant rather than for the city to spend $15,000 to but in new boilers of its own. D. C. Patterson, George Wallace, F. H. Myers and others at once agreed with the idea and the matter was referred to the public service committee of the exchange.

Mr. Wyman is in Excelsior Springs. This is why he communicated his ideas by letter. He said that acceptance of The Bee's proposition to heat the city hall would result in a saving of money to the city. He said that if the city had accepted The Bee's first offer to heat the building for $3,200 per year, instead of waiting over a year when The Bee raised its proposition to $3,450, the city would have saved $2,000 or $3,000 a year, to say nothing of the saving of $15,000 which the proposed ordinance now provides to be expended for new boilers in the building. Mr. Wallace said Wyman's suggestions were reasonable. Mr. Patterson held that big buildings in the cities and towns all over the country were heated largely by central plants from which given groups of buildings bought their heat, and that the idea was working out well everywhere. Mr. Myers, president of the exchange, said it was costing the Elks' building $1,700 a year to buy heat, and if it cost that much to heat that building he said: "It seems to me the $3,200, or even $3,450, offer would be very reasonable for the heating of the city hall."

AUTO CLUB OFFERS REWARD FOR ARREST OF OFFENDERS

The Omaha Auto club is after the fellow who throws glass on the streets, ruining automobile tires, and is otherwise a nuisance. The club has authorized the payment of $5 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of persons throwing glass on the streets. The information is to be placed in the hands of the police department, so that the offender may be dealt with in accordance with an ordinance now in effect covering this offense.
