WORK HARD TO KEEP PROMISE

Dresher Bros.' Cleaning Forces on Edge to Satisfy Patrons by "Easter."

A Thousand Promises Must Be Kept and Clothes Must Be Cleaned and Delivered in Time for "Parade."

When a modern business house gives its promise to do such and such a thing within such and such a time, it is a foregone conclusion that the promise must be kept, else the firm's reputation will suffer.

Dresher Brothers, the Dry Cleaners, Hatters and Tailors, with the $37,000 plant at 2211-2213 Farnam St., have made such promises—thousands of them—verbal promises to deliver clothes cleaned, pressed, or dyed and altered in style, in time for wear on Easter Sunday.

And Dreshers are STILL making the same promise; they say: "Send or bring in your garments NOW and you will have them at your home in time for the 'parade,' all brightened up like new.

Make up your mind to it that these promises will be kept, too—to the letter—no disappointments here even if the house, themselves have to stay up until 4 a. m. wielding the pressing iron or playing the needle.

Right here let it be said that the hundreds upon hundreds of NEW suits, dresses, etc., that will be purchased specially for Easter wear might as well remain unpurchased, for Dreshers can take your LAST year's clothes and make just as attractive garments out of them as the newly purchased ones would be.

Just pick up any phone and ask central for "Tyler 345," and that connects you with Dreshers' private exchange in a hurry. If the party at Dreshers' end of the wire does not give full satisfaction, well, then a personal representative at your home WILL. Just say the word and the personal representative will call. No order too large or too small. The small customer generally grows to be a larger one and the large customer still larger.

Then again, it's ever so handy to leave packages of work at Dreshers' Receiving Station in the Brandeis Stores, or at Dresher The Tailors', 1515 Farnam St.

Those living out of town may have their Easter finery fixed up perfectly if they will send their work in at once. Dreshers pay express or parcel post charges on all shipments of work amounting to $2 or over. Remember—the phone number is Tyler 3-4-5.

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Police Judge Assesses Fines that Total Five Hundred Dollars.

MOST OF CASES ARE APPEALED

Chief of Police Brings Says There Will Be a Cleanup and that Others Will Fall in the Net.

Police Judge James Callanan outdid himself yesterday and ran up the score of fines more than $500. Of course, the money was not all paid and will not be, some of the negro gamblers and vagrants who were fined being in a chronic state of financial stringency. Jess Palmer, alleged proprietor of the lower N. street negro gambling house, was fined $25 and costs. Hooper Henderson, E. O. Flowers, Jean Bell, Earl Fleming, Henry Stewart, Oscar Stirling, Frank Freeman, R. Deming, Art Jones, Henry Thomas, George Sample, Alex Williams, W. Bronson and Cal Price were each fined $25 and costs.

H. Noman and John Peoples got $15 and costs. Leonard Ellison and Fred Royhart got thirty days in McShane's hotel. The rest, including Robert Coleman, Sam Downing, Joe Jones, Henry McWilliams, John Mobery and Prentice Lovelle, were dismissed.

Late last night most of the men were confined in jail pending the approval of appeal bonds. The cases were simple enough and in nearly all of them Judge Callanan intimated that the reason for fining the inmates was because many of them did not tell the truth in detailing their stories on the witness stand.

At police headquarters last night Chief Brings said: "We are far from through with the raids. The next time we are going to bring in a few of the ones who think that they are above arrest. Some of these joints act as if they had nothing to fear from the police. We will show them."

Elgutter Explains Rights of Citizens

A lecture on citizenship, intended especially for foreign-born citizens, new voters and would-be voters, was given by Attorney Charles E. Elgutter last evening at the Young Men's Christian association. It was one of the series of lectures on governmental and civic subjects, arranged by the educational department of the association for the benefit of men who desire information along those lines.

The requirements for citizenship, and the rights, privileges and duties of citizens of the United States, were explained fully, along with the methods of naturalization. The speaker explained the difference between being a citizen of the United States, and being a voter of one of the states. His remarks proved interesting to his auditors and conveyed to many of them much valuable knowledge of the subject that they might not have secured elsewhere.

ELECTRIC POWER IN THE ALPS

Details of Plans for the Electrification of St. Gothard Lines.

In the course of his presidential address to the engineering section of the British association, which was reported in the London Times, Prof. Gisbert Kapp gave some details of the plans for the electrification of the St. Gothard line, on the authority of M. Huber-Stocker, the scientific adviser to the Swiss government.

The part to be electrified first is that between Erstfeld and Bellinzona, a total length of 110 kilometers, of which about 20 per cent is tunnel. This part also contains the longest and heaviest grades, so that the limitations of steam as compared with electric traction are here most prominent and relief most urgently required. On this section the average daily train movement, taking both directions together, was in 1911 not less than 1,800,000 kilometer tons, and the maximum on any day, 2,520,000 kilometer tons. It is estimated that in 1913 the average train movement will have increased by 35 per cent over 1911, and in 1923 by a further 30 per cent. In the forty-five kilometers on the north side of the tunnel the train climbs 500 meters, and in the sixty kilometers on the south it descends to Bellinzona, 900 meters, with a steepest grade of twenty-seven per mille. The section Erstfeld-Airolo is to be opened for electric traction in four years from now, and the southern section one year later. The present arrangements are made with the intention of extending the electric service on the north to Lugano (sixty kilometers) and on the south to Chiasso (fifty-five kilometers) at some future date not yet fixed.

There will be two large power stations, one at Amsteg, where at first 20,000 horsepower will be available on the turbine shafts, and 50,000 to 60,000 when the station is completed, and finally 60,000 there when at first 40,000 and finally 50,000 horsepower will be available. The head of water in the northern powerhouse is 267 meters down to the Reusa, and a storage of 1,000,000 cubic meters is provided for to compensate for diurnal variations. In the southern powerhouse the head of water is 200 meters, and there the Ritom lake offers a natural reservoir, with 19,000,000 cubic meters to compensate for annual variation in the water supply.

The power current will be sent along the line by two independent cables, each capable of carrying the full power at about 30,000 volts, with earthed neutral. The current will be transformed down to 7,500 volts at first, and 15,000 volts later on if the experience gained with the lower pressure should warrant the increase to double pressure. This will not involve any additional plant, since the secondary winding of the transformers both along the line and on the locomotives can from the first be arranged with this alteration in view. It is also contemplated to establish substations in Biasca, Gossenschen, Lavorgna and Bellinzona. The trolley wire will be suspended from gantries, each wire independently insulated. The rails will be bonded, and in addition there will be a bare return conductor either laid in the ground or placed between the trolley wires. A variation in the supply of voltage of from plus 10 to minus 15 per cent is allowed for.

No motor coaches will be used, only electric-motives. It is intended to haul express trains weighing 400 tons at a speed of fifty kilometers an hour on grades of twenty-six per mille, for which service the electric-motive will have to develop 3,200 horsepower on the rails. Goods trains weighing up to 670 tons will run at a speed of from twenty-seven to twenty-eight kilometers an hour and have two electric-motives, one in front and one in the rear, each rated at 2,500 horsepower. Passenger trains will be heated by steam, the boiler being carried in a special heating coach. Except for the stipulation that the traction must be single-phase at 15 frequency and a voltage of 7,500, which may eventually be

PARADE OF SACRED CARPET

Ancient Moslem Ceremonial an Impending Feature of Egyptian Life.

Once every year pilgrims set out from Cairo, Egypt, to carry a wonderfully wrought carpet to Mecca, and as often they return, bringing with them the old one made holy by its twelve months in the tomb of the prophet.

In days gone by the voyage was long and dangerous, and often the caravan did not reach its destination, for with the carpet were gold and precious stones sent as offerings, and the way was beset with thieves and barbarians who knew nothing of Mohammedanism or its great teacher, and fought for the joy of fighting as well as for the treasure to be gained. So today the khedive sends an escort with the mission and though the way is long and tedious, there is but little danger left, and the pilgrims reach Cairo on the eve of the day appointed for the great ceremony of the Mahmal.

Slowly out of the east they come with their straggling, awkward walk and heads held high, full of dignity and disdain, as though conscious of the sacred burden which they bear. Across the great stretches of sand, silently they appear, an imposing line of camels following the sun in its course westward, ridden by turbaned figures in long robes swaying backwards and forwards in their saddles.

There are perhaps ten or a dozen in all, and amongst them several play on flute-like instruments, while others beat the drums that have helped them all the way across the desert on the long journey to Mecca and back again over the interminable miles of sand to their destination as well as for the treasure to be gained. The caravan is a splendid canopy, and beneath that, well protected within a strong box, is the holy carpet, because of which the long pilgrimage has been made and the ceremony of the Mahmal exists. Three times they walk about in a circle that they may be well seen by all, to salute and be acknowledged by the khedive as they pass, and then all is over, and they are gone, with the same slow dignity with which they came—Brooklyn Eagle Letter.

KEEP YOUNG AND LIVE LONG

English Food Expert's Health Rules Do Not Contain a Single Drug.

Dr. Josiah Oldfield, the famous English food expert and health authority, being nearly fourscore years and ten, is competent to tell us how to live a long time and keep young, also. He says: "A man must submit himself to mental and physical discipline and eat wisely and not too well. "Think big thoughts and cling to noble ideals. "Live on the fruit of the highest minds. "Do not waste time over petty things and do not take narrow views.

"Take fruits, vegetables, oat, pure wine, eggs, butter, milk, and bread. Avoid shoddy, second-hand food of all kinds."

There is the best set of health rules ever published. There is not a drug in it. The "mental and physical discipline" is the keynote to the whole matter. If anything is the matter with you, think right, act right, eat right, talk right, and look up. "What have 'big thoughts' and 'noble ideals' to do with health and a happy old age? Everything. They help the nerves and the stomach and the bones. For indigestion catch the inspiration of big minds. For rheumatism take broad views and stop quarreling about petty things. For tuberculosis take fruits, eggs, milk, bread, and no shoddy or second-hand food.

These things should be taught in church and school. There is no real religion or education without them. They are far more important than memory or literary style. They are essential to a true life. In fact, a person cannot be happy in this world or the next without them. Cut them out of the paper and put them where you can see them occasionally.—Ohio State Journal.

Lame Back and Weak Kidneys greatly helped and often cured by Electric Bitters. Keeps kidney and stomach in healthy condition, gives prompt relief. 50c and $1. All druggists.—Advertisement.
