

MILK SCARE IS GROUNDESS

Inspector Bossie Finds the Product Around Omaha is All Right.

CONTAGIOUS ELEMENTS ABSENT

In Making Analysis of Four Hundred and Thirty-Six Samples Nothing in Way of Contagious Germs Observed.

Dairy Inspector Claude F. Bossie, in his monthly report to the health department on the condition of Omaha dairies, says milk sold by dairymen is in good condition and that fear of contagious starting from it are groundless.

The dairy inspector took 436 samples of milk and cream from dairymen, milk wagons and grocery stores. Forty-seven grocers were tried for selling adulterated milk, but none was convicted. Sixteen milkmen were convicted and fined and the licenses of several others were suspended.

Bossie says the tuberculin test of cows will be completed April 15.

Following are the scores of dairies:

Wheeling Girls Write to Omaha to Get Good Husbands

Twenty-five girls between the ages of 17 and 25 years, in Wheeling, W. Va., have written to Omaha for husbands. The president of this "Club of Marriageable Girls," Miss Alma Morgan, in a letter to Mayor James C. Dahlman assures him that the girls are good looking and clever.

"What we want is good men," says

Miss Morgan. "We have enough cigarette sports here. There ought to be some good men out there who would be willing to give us a chance to live on farms. We're tired of city life."

Miss Morgan says she is a music teacher and has brown eyes. She intimates that she is not bad looking and is certain that the other members of the club, who have handed themselves together to get good husbands, are of such appearance that any normal man would be pleased with them.

"We are not looking for handsome men," Miss Morgan continues. All we want is a good man who will give us a chance. Mayor Dahlman says this is the first letter of the sort he ever received and he has referred the matter to the board of the city hall—Dan E. Butler and John A. Rine—but Butler and Rine could offer no suggestions. The mayor may decide to take the matter into his own hands, prepare a list of twenty-five or thirty Omaha men who may be eligible, and forward the list to the Wheeling girls.

Practically all pastors who have communicated with the central committee state that their congregations were much larger than the average before the campaign. A systematic follow-up canvass of prospective members is being conducted by all the churches.

What Do You Know About Gear Cars?

I will tell you in this letter what you should know, but what you do not know about gear cars—and then, what is easy to learn about the Cartercar.

The first automobile had a whip socket on it and people laughed it off. The next one had gear transmission—and the world finds more trouble in it than in all of the mechanical things invented.

People can't get on without automobiles. This is an automobile age. Automobiles must be accepted as designers make them, we are told, no matter whether they fill the requirements or not. You should know the mechanism of an automobile whether you own a car or expect soon to own one. You should know that every ounce of power that reaches the rear wheels must go through the transmission. You should know the gear transmission allows but four speeds at best, and control is often confusing; you should know that this leads to crashing and pounding in starting and changing speeds. It would not be far amiss to know that the gear car is limited largely in service to good roads and expert drivers, especially when you know that the most intricate, delicate, dangerous mass of wheels, cogs, cylinders, etc., employed in any modern machine used by a family, is found in the gear car of today. You should know that the annual changes of models, heralded by manufacturers of gear cars as vast and startling, are the caprice of manufacturers, designers and engineers, rather than the necessities for the comfort, safety and economy of the purchaser.

There is no reason why an automobile should change style as often as a lady's dress. An automobile costs Twelve Hundred and Fifty Dollars, and if it is a Cartercar, it will run many years, and a lady's dress costs $50.

Annual changes, however, in gear cars are looked for. The back numbers are last year's models.

This cannot obtain with the Cartercar. It is made on one model with one principle. Gears cannot change it because it has no gears. The device for different speeds cannot be added to it because the Cartercar speed is regulated by contact of a fibre wheel, revolving on a brass plate, which gives an indefinite number of speeds without jar.

Anybody can drive it—all can understand it. Its safety, endurance, reliability, power and economy make it the ideal car for the family who owns a machine for real pleasure.

The Cartercar is one of the most attractive automobiles made today. It is luxuriously upholstered and fully equipped and lacks nothing.
