Southern Stuff Going and Home Grown Not Arrived.

STRAWBERRIES ON MARKET

Celery About Gone-Eggy Cheaper -Sugar Twenty-Three Pounds for a Dollar-Home Grown Badlahes Are Here.

Fresh vegetables are scarce at the present time. Not that the grocery stores are without them at all, but the southern stuff is going out of season while the home stuff is not yet on the market. It is the situation that often arises just at the change of seasons. A carload of strawberries will be on the market for Easter Sunday. They will be on the narket in the various stores Saturday. They will be retailed at about 45 cents a

Apples have made another jump in Winesaps are now selling at 75 cents per peck. Oranges are holding steady at from 15 to 40 cents per dosen, according to size and quality. Lemon plentiful. Graperuit is growing

New cabbage from Louisiana has reached the market and is retailing or 14 cents a pound. This is practically the same price the old cabbage brought all through the winter. It fluctuated between 34 and 34 cents. New potatoes nive come down from $15 cents a pound to 7% cents this week. This makes them still about $1.10 a peck, but many are buying them in preference to good old otatoes at $1 a bushel, according to Al. King of the grocary department at Hayden Brothers.

Celery will soon be out of season. There is very little on the market now. The information from the commission men is that there will be about one more car in Omaha and that after that there
