CLARKE'S TALK AT PRISCO

Governor of Iowa Accepts Deed for Site on Exposition Grounds.

CITY RISES FROM THE RUINS

Whole Country Joins in Celebration of Opening of Canal at Coast Metropolis that Has Shown Such Wonderful Resources.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
 DES MOINES, April 11.—(Special.)—Several of the Iowa delegates to San Francisco have returned, having arranged for an Iowa exhibit there. The commissioners report they had a most excellent time. One of the features of the occasion was the selection and dedication of the site for an Iowa building. On that occasion Governor Clarke delivered a somewhat notable address, in which he said:

Here on these grounds for the first time in history, is to be celebrated a great epoch-making event in conjunction with the successful and completion. It is so great in its consequences and its value to mankind so instantly apparent that a celebration of this kind is a fitting tribute of human endeavor and at the same time exhibit to the world the astonishing progress men have made in the last ten years.

The completion of the Panama canal is the epoch of the world's history. It brings them into closer relations. It opens a new era. It makes of the Pacific ocean what the Atlantic has ever been, a great highway of the world. New routes of travel and trade will now mark the sea. Great influences upon the world, perhaps upon human destiny, will date their origin from the completion of the canal.

Here at San Francisco is the gateway of the greatest nations to this new world of possibilities. Here through the Golden Gate will come the ships of the commerce from the great lands and new populations beyond the Pacific. Here will enter a great trade through the canal from the Atlantic and lands beyond. A fitting place is this city for the great celebration and exposition.

of Great Value.

The exposition cannot but be of great educational value to the world. It can not fail to bring the nations into closer and more friendly relations. It cannot fail to result in human betterment. It cannot fail to give to men all a wider outlook upon life, indeed a greater life. Men move forward only by the inspiration of great things done. A great past only reveals a great vision of the future.

In a world of infinite possibilities there can be no end of human achievement. The exposition will serve only to make note of wonderful progress and to inspire to renewed energy in the conquest of nature and the resistance of the world that makes men and nations great. To him that overcometh is the victory. It is the struggle, the effort, that brings the nations of the world into closer and more friendly relations. It is the struggle that makes men and nations great. It is the struggle that makes men and nations great.

Men move in masses to greater heights by the inspiration of fine and great things accomplished. There is enlargement of the soul in the presence of the mountains, in the presence of the pyramids, in the shadow of great and beautiful buildings, in the contemplation of the triumphs of men, in the vision of the possibilities that lie hidden in the coming centuries.

DRAINAGE AND FLOOD MEASURE REJECTED

state one vote in the conference. Then Governor Spry of Utah took the floor. He asked for information as to the action of the conference last night.

Chairman Jones read the California resolution. Governor Spry then asked for a reconsideration of the vote by which the resolution was adopted.

That opened the battle. John Fairweather of California defended the action of the conference.

Then Governor Carey took the floor. He began by saying that he did not believe the conference understood the provisions of the bill.

"That bill would require ten years before anything could be perfected," continued Governor Carey. "The measure makes appropriations totaling $500,000 and not one specific appropriation bears upon the reclamation of arid lands."

"Mr. Chairman, have you read this bill?" he demanded abruptly.

"I have not," replied Assistant Secretary Jones.

Governor Carey then accused George H. Maxwell of California of having worked against the reclamation bill when it was pending in congress.

"You acknowledged before a committee of congress that you represented the railroads in an effort to bring about the sale of their land-scrip," he added.

The Californian sprang to his feet. "I can't permit that statement to stand without saying that it is absolutely false," he shouted.

"Was it not so reported?" demanded Carey.

"I don't know what was reported," retorted Maxwell, "but I know I never made such an acknowledgment as you have charged."

Vicious pounding with the chairman's gavel brought the passage to an end and Governor Carey resumed his speech. He declared that the Newlands bill was not in the interest of the west, but of the east and south.

"I appeal to you men today not to embarrass us when we are trying to do something for the west," he concluded.

Maxwell defended himself.

Mr. Maxwell then took the floor with a vigorous defense of himself and the Newlands bill.

"Under the provisions of this measure,

WORLD AMEND CAREY ACT.

The committee on Carey act projects prepared a fresh report in place of the one which failed of adoption by the conference last night. The report, which was submitted to the conference, follows: "Whereas, Certain projects under the Carey act are uncompleted and the states have found it impossible to secure their completion.

"Therefore, Be it resolved:

"First, that the lands included in any of the Carey acts projects now uncompleted may be patented to the state whenever the secretary of the interior is satisfied that such action will insure the completion of the project and the protection of all the rights of settlers such projects, and on conditions that will guarantee such protection.

"Second, that in such projects where the state declares itself unable to complete the projects that the national government proceed with the completion of the projects under special appropriations or with any other funds that may be or become available and subject to such regulations as the secretary of the interior shall approve and that on the completion of such projects the national government shall extend aid to settlers in making settlement on them."

At the opening of the conference, M. F. Engelhardt of Washington introduced the report of the irrigation district committee. The report recommended the underwriting of irrigation district bonds by the government, and the investment of postal savings bank funds in such bonds.

WISCONSIN TAKES PART.

Iowa, one of the sovereign states of the American union, inspired by the thoughts and sentiments I have tried to express in this address, and the destiny of the American nation and the trust that the Mississippi valley, in the center of which she has her home, is to play a part in the history of the world.

California, Iowa admires the initiative and enterprise of the American people in the construction of the Panama canal, which the exposition celebrates. With her sister states she desires to contemplate and measure human advancement, she hopes she will take a pride in exhibiting the products of her mines and fields, her manufacturing industries, and her fine animals—in a word, the elements of her greatness and wealth and the achievements of her people.

ACCEPTS THE DEED.

On behalf of the delegation from Iowa and of all her people and in their name, I accept the deed to the site selected for Iowa and dedicate it to the purpose of the erection of a building to be known as the Iowa building, and as one of the units that shall rise on these grounds, constituting altogether the home of the great exposition of 1915.

We dedicate this site to the erection of a building that shall be the home of Iowa during the exposition months, where her people may come and renew their devotion to their beloved state, where foreign residents may renew old acquaintances, where the richness and beauty and greatness of Iowa may be shown, where the fitness, character and moral force of her citizenship may be exemplified and where repose.

We dedicate this site to all the high purposes involved in a great exposition dedicated in the name of humanity for the good of all mankind.

A new ordinance was immediately passed which it is believed will stand firm.

On Tuesday morning the great whistle at the factory of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company blew ten sharp blasts in celebration of the fact that on Monday, for the first time in the history of any tire factory in the world, daily production of pneumatic tire casings had passed the 10,000 mark. The total for Monday was 10,555. Hence the celebration.

Only a few years ago, at a meeting of Goodyear officials, President Seiberling made the enthusiastic prediction that "one of these days" Goodyear would be making 500 tires a day. He and his associates believed that to be a mark well worth striving for.
