

LOOKING AGAIN TO "SHALL"

Some of Demos Think Ex-Governor Only One Who Can Win.

WANT HIM TO HEAD THE TICKET

Bourbons Reported to Be Alarmed at Progress Made by Republican Wings in Getting Together.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

LINCOLN, Neb., April 12.—(Special.)—The condition of the democratic party in Nebraska as discussed around the hotel lobbies is not one tending to bring smiles to the untrifled hoping to continue at the political job counter.

The proposition which seems to hit them the hardest is the question of who shall be nominated for governor with any chance of winning.

According to one democrat, there seems to be but one solution and that is the

The General 2073

"There are real guarantees, also talk imitations"

There are a lot of guarantees offered on roofings. Most of them are by irresponsible people or merely conversational guarantees.

Certain-teed

Quality Roofing Durability Guaranteed

Since we have been giving a regular written guarantee on Certain-teed Roofing, one class of competitors has been saying that their roofing "will generally last twenty years, or longer."

Another very important thing is, these talk guarantees are offered on the cheapest goods the manufacturers make; not being real guarantees, there is no risk.

Certain-teed Roofing is sold at a reasonable price everywhere by dealers who believe in giving unsurpassed quality at a fair profit.

It pays to be careful in buying goods where the quality could not be judged by the sample—where everything must depend upon the standing and ability of the manufacturer to make good over a long period of years in the future.

drafting of ex-Governor Ashton C. Shallenberger to head the democratic ticket again this fall. Since the refusal of Governor Morehead to try for re-election no one is in sight who could be expected to bring together a party so badly split by factional strife.

Coterie Dismisses Question.

It is known that a coterie of democrats, who have much to lose if a suitable candidate cannot be found, met Saturday and asked themselves what the democratic party should do and what it was up against providing no suitable person could be found.

"My Kingdom for a Horse" situation was nothing compared to the one discussed of "Our Kingdom for a Democrat who can save the party in Nebraska," and the conclusion was reached that A. C. Shallenberger, who has fought many a battle, sometimes successfully and sometimes unsuccessfully, must be pressed into service.

According to the plan at the meeting, Mr. Shallenberger does not respond, a call will be issued for all democratic county committees to meet and select one delegate to represent the county at a conference in Lincoln called to decide whether it is really any use to try and make a fight under the present conditions.

It is understood that democrats are "viewing with alarm" the progress which the two factions in the republican party are making in the state-together movement and the report of an office campaign at the state house yesterday, who had been out on a trip to the western part of the state, that the farmers were finding fault with the importations of Argentine corn and beef to the United States, has put considerable of a scare into the democratic ranks.

Other Things Worry Them.

Many other things are also worrying the democratic brethren. George W. Berge, one of the candidates for governor, is in the key note of the democratic campaign and national issues be practically taboos. Charlie Bryan, carrying out the "watchful waiting" policy, hopes to enter the race as soon as things get a little farther along.

He, of course, will want to uphold the policies of Brother Bill and endeavor to win on the latter's popularity. But Richard L. Metcalfe is on his way to Nebraska from Panama and the press notices from Washington indicate that he feels the situation may force him into the race for the governorship.

What policy he will advocate makes him not exactly a dark horse as a candidate, but a decidedly dark one as to the nature of the fight he will put up. Then, too, some friends of the national administration are apprehensive over the probable canvass to be made by John G. Maher, on a platform which will be not only wet, but liable to be so moist among other lines that the old democratic ship may float off its moorings.

To Attack Wilson Policy.

Mr. Maher will attack the "watchful waiting" policy of the national administration in a way which is liable to puncture something. It matters little whether he files for governor or not, his voice will be found in the campaign assailing the Wilson-Bryan policies in handling the situation down in Mexico.

Out of the whole bunch, just two democrats are feeling fairly good—Governor Morehead and Food Commissioner Harman. It looks at this time as if the governor might win the nomination for congress in the First district.

Any farther than that he is not figuring at this time. Of course he hopes to be elected or he would not file, but as far as the nomination is concerned it looks as though there was not much left but the shouting.

Maguire's Waiting Policy.

Congressman Maguire pursued the "watchful waiting" policy of the administration so long on the Lincoln post-office that it doesn't make much difference now who gets the office. If he wins in the postoffice fight he loses at the primary, and if he loses on the postoffice fight he is more than ever sure of losing at the primary, so he has gained nothing by his waiting policy.

In the Fifth district all of the democratic candidates seem to have laid down on the job except Harman. This is due probably to the success which Harman has had of keeping all of the other candidates on his personal calling list and as a result as they drop out Harman solicits their support.

Take it all around, the republican situation is piddling and pie and straggly shortsakes in comparison to cornmeal pancakes without any molasses as the democratic situation shows.

Has Martin Judicial Aspirations?

Whether Attorney General Martin will be a candidate for chief justice of the supreme court against Chief Justice Reese, for whom petitions are being circulated, can be speculated upon from the following incident: A Reese supporter was circulating a petition around the state house and stepped into the attorney general's office. "Are you a candidate for chief justice," was asked of Mr. Martin. "Not today," replied the attorney general. "Will you attach your name to this petition for Chief Justice Reese," asked the petition circulator. "Not today," again said Mr. Martin.

Briefs Filed with Railway Commission

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

LINCOLN, Neb., April 12.—(Special.)—Briefs were filed Saturday with the railroad commission in the rate hearing case.

The brief filed by W. T. Thompson, who represents the Grand Island and Hastings people, sets forth that the proposed rates of the commission will prevent wholesale houses in those towns from competing with other towns on the same footing in which competition is carried on with houses in the eastern part of the state.

In the brief filed by Byron Clark, attorney for the Burlington, it is asserted that the proposed rates will prevent further development of railway building, while George T. Bell of the Sioux City Commercial club seems to be afraid if the rates go into effect it will shut that town out from Nebraska business.

LOUP VALLEY EDITORS CENSURE STATE COMMITTEE

ST. PAUL, Neb., April 12.—(Special.)—The second meeting of the Loup Valley Editorial association was held Friday evening at the office of J. P. Webster, and with all officers of the association present, a constitution and by-laws were adopted.

The next meeting will be a day meeting and will be held here on Friday, July 10, at which time a regular program will be given, arrangements for which will be made soon. The following resolution was unanimously adopted by the association:

"Resolved, that it is the sense of the Loup Valley Editorial association now in session, that the annual state fair is generally recognized as being of great advertising value to Nebraska; that this association deprecates the undue activity of the executive committee of the state press association in passing a resolution that has been construed as knocking on the state fair and reflecting upon the integrity of the officers of the state agricultural society."

Many matters of interest to the editors were discussed and it is hoped that all editors of the Loup Valley will join the association. The officers are: H. M. Davis of the Ore Journal, president; C. F. Bushausen of the Loup City Times-Independent, vice president; and J. F. Webster, of the St. Paul Phonograph, secretary-treasurer.

SALINE COUNTY TEACHERS HOLD MEETING AT CRETE

CRETE, Neb., April 12.—(Special.)—At the Crete city and Saline county teachers' meeting held here last Friday and Saturday, the program, under the direction of Superintendent Marcellus J. B. Carls, talked on "The Teacher and Her Problems."

The hit of the afternoon was made by the children of the second and third grades of the north ward school, in a song entitled "The Cow Boy and the Cow Girl." Addresses were made by Miss Frances Roberts, supervisor of penmanship in the Lincoln schools, and Prof. F. M. Gregg of Peru State Normal.

The two days' session was closed with a meeting, at which the High school girls glee club furnished the music and Miss Mary J. Wyland of Hastings, Iowa, gave a talk on school playgrounds. Visiting teachers were given an excursion trip over the town.

SHELTON CLUB SENDS MONEY TO FURNISH FAIR BUILDING

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

LINCOLN, Neb., April 12.—(Special.)—The Twentieth Century club of Shelton was the first contributor to the fund for furnishing the Nebraska building on the grounds of the Pacific-Panama exposition. Mrs. J. R. Tritt, the treasurer, sent $5 as a donation for the club.

To furnish the building Mrs. F. M. Hall is appealing to the club women of Nebraska. When the exposition is over it is suggested that the furniture be brought to Nebraska to equip a women's rest room on the state fair grounds. The temporary Pacific-Panama exposition commission will use every effort to bring this about.

Under the plans of the commission both the building and the furnishings will be so selected that they can be utilized on the Nebraska state fair grounds.

PIERCE WINS DEBATE FROM PONCA, TWO TO ONE

PIERCE, Neb., April 12.—(Special.)—In the high school debate between Pierce and Ponca at this place Friday evening, Pierce won by a two to one decision. The question debated was: "Resolved, that the policy of regulating trusts is preferable to the policy of dissolving them."

Pierce was represented by Genevieve Bechter, Leonard Nelson and Lynn Montross. Ponca by Francis Kingsbury, Emerson McCarty and Dean Fales. The judges were Superintendent C. A. Mohrman of Neligh, Superintendent J. H. Welch of Stanton and Superintendent E. O. Blackstone of Battle Creek. The winning team will next meet the team from the high school of Randolph at a date in the near future.

COFFEE FLAVOR BETTER RIGHT AFTER ROASTING

Coffee to be at its best must be thoroughly aged before roasting, but after this process it must not linger long on its way to the cup or the flavor is diminished. This is true because in the roasting process a new oil is developed—the oil that distinguishes roasted coffee from green and makes the former so much more agreeable to the taste. The new oil, however, is very sensitive to air and upon exposure commences to oxidize. This action is naturally much more rapid and pronounced in ground coffee than in coffee sold in the whole berry and in coffee as it is used.

To be certain of getting the prime flavor in coffee its lovers should get that which is fresh, and the coffee enjoying the greatest popularity and sales is most likely to be freshest. A further certainty of full flavor is assured when you purchase coffee which is sold unground and grind it at home a little at a time before using. Of course, coffee sold in bulk has little chance of matching the goodness of coffee sold in airtight packages. They prevent exposure of the coffee to air in a large measure and consequently reduce deterioration of flavor to a minimum.

CHURCHES OF OMAHA RING WITH THE GLAD TIDINGS OF EASTER

Dean Tancock says it is the new beginning of things.

A congregation which overflowed Trinity Cathedral attended services Easter morn. Dean J. A. Tancock preached from the 13th chapter 17th and 18th verses of Paul's epistle to the Corinthians. "If Christ be not raised your faith is vain; ye are yet in your sins. Then they also which are fallen asleep in Christ are perished."

Before going into the lesson of his text Dean Tancock cited what a common experience it has been in all ages for the people to persecute, and destroy if possible, an individual who devotes his life exclusively to the finding of the truth and the betterment of his fellows.

As an illustration of one period, he told how Socrates, who sought for the true philosophy, and in so doing aroused good in the minds of the Greeks of Athens, was finally persecuted and driven to his death after being proclaimed an atheist. It was Socrates who was accused of diverting the minds of the young men from their callings, even as was Jesus

Hovick had made arrangements with another party to buy the cows and it was through the latter that he was located. When arrested Hovick admitted that he had stolen the cattle. The prisoner has a wife and four children.
