MARCH CIRCULATION: 51,641

State of Nebraska, County of Douglas, ss. Dwight Williams, circulation manager of The Bee Publishing Company, being duly sworn, says that average daily circulation for the month of March, 1914, was 51,641.

DWIGHT WILLIAMS, Circulation Manager. Subscribed in my presence and sworn to before me this 1st day of April, 1914. ROBERT HUNTER, Notary Public.

Subscribers leaving the city temporarily should have The Bee mailed to them. Address will be changed as often as requested.

Huerta is finding it hard even to let go. "Does marriage change the character?" Well, that depends on the marriage.

A batch of election fraud indictments is chronicled—in New York, not in Council Bluffs.

Perhaps you have noticed that a slightly distorted view of the map of Mexico presents the form of an interrogation mark.

The lid is off on that secret confab of Nebraska democratic editors where harmony was unworked with such a loud pop that the bottle almost burst.

The demand is renewed for owl cars for Omaha. The street railway company seems to be going on the theory that the 8 o'clock lid law settled that.

It will be interesting to see what the new reserve bank does to Kansas City's clearing figures. Unless rumor is wrong, they are likely to suffer a severe puncture.

Another pertinent question: When we arrive at our city plan to which the Greater Omaha is to be made to conform, can the Water board be made to come under it?

The new federal reserve banks are to be ready for business August 1. Now we know why that currency bill had to be rushed through congress under whip and spur without a moment's delay last December.

Despair not, for the future is safe when all these fresh and ambitious doctors, lawyers, preachers, dentists and other saviors of mankind are being turned out upon the world to carry forward the uplift of the race.

An expert declares that it is not "the city beautiful," but "the city healthful," at which we should aim, and that beauty must be subordinated to health. There is no good reason we know of why both should not go together.

Down in Lancaster county a damage suit for $69,140 is brought on behalf of a 6-year-old boy maimed by a railroad. Here in Douglas county the railroad that cuts off a 7-year-old boy's leg gets away with it for $600 and amputation bills.

The Lincoln Star seems particularly distressed as to whether each announced candidate for university regent is for consolidation on the farm campus or for sticking to the boarding house site. We thought this issue was to be determined by the people with their little ballots without the aid or consent of any of the officeholders.

The Nebraska Conference of Charities and Corrections resolved in favor of the establishment of state, county and municipal farm work colonies for petty offenders, which we take it means a workhouse with farm attachments. But who is to establish it, city, county or state? The trouble is that each has been waiting for the other when they should get together and make a combined move.

Thirty Years Ago This Day in Omaha. The school board re-elected Superintendent Henry M. James by unanimous vote, and then by a vote of five to three ordered a contract entered into with him for three years, the salary to be $3,000 the first year.

Captain Marsh has returned from a three month visit to California much improved in health. George Helms returned to this city with his wife and with their youngest child, which was born to Mr. Helms while she was in Germany.

A new plank sidewalk is being laid around the McCord, Brady & Co.'s building, corner Tenth and Farnam.

General Gibson, commander of the Department of the Platte, has received orders to send two battalions of artillery and one of infantry to the reunion at Dubuque.

Considerable complaint is heard over the condition of Jefferson Square. Many say it is more like a cow pasture. As the gates are broken down and cattle roam through it at will.

L. A. Barrett, who recently opened a macramé school in Crouse's block, has departed without leave to his pupils, who are lamenting their prepayments of tuition.

Mrs. J. J. Riley and her two daughters, Misses Jennie and Minnie, of Schuyler, are the guests of Mrs. C. H. Havens, who is a daughter of Mrs. Riley.

The Bogy Man of Militarism.

The people are again being warned that unless they are on their guard a great standing army, comparable with the huge military establishments of Europe, will be saddled upon the United States as a result of our little brush with Mexico.

The peace footing of the army in this country must, of course, be gauged by the work which the soldiers have to do. For many years it consisted chiefly of patrolling the western frontier to keep down outbreaks of unruly Indian tribes, but that chapter has been closed.

The danger of militarism, in the sense of a military government, for the United States is nothing but a bogy man.

Labor's Fool Friends. One of the strongest cartoons that has recently appeared portrays the danger to which "Labor" is exposed by his fool "Friends."

Other Side of the Shield. The Bee not long ago gave its readers the benefit of certain information divulged by the Prohibition National handbook as to the program and expectations of those enlisted in the campaign against the liquor traffic.

Increasing Our Meat Supply. Those conversant with the meat supply situation believe we will soon reap the benefit on a small scale of grazing live stock on the open stretch of our 166 national forest reserves.

Quaint Bits of Life. Lewis Higgins of Newfane, Vt., has cigars made of Connecticut leaf, which were rolled before the civil war.

People and Events. Some improvement in the speed record is noted since Reno was scratched. A "wrestless divorce" has been granted a woman in Hawaii.

The Bee's Letter Box

Just to Make an Inquiry. BRAINSLAW, Neb., May 4.—To the Editor of The Bee: With your kind permission we would like to use a little space simply to make an inquiry.

Henry, Why Did You Do It? Guide Rock Signal: Henry C. Richmond threw a fit last week in his Omaha Nebraska case.

When Mary Failed to Warble. Blair Enterprise: A lot of those yokels who went from the tributary country towns to Omaha last week to hear Mary Garden in grand opera, Competition Appears on the Horizon. Hastings Tribune: The Omaha Bee says that Nebraska's metropolis is said to have the worst city jail ever.

Echo of Seed Campaign. West Point Democrat: For some reason the business men of Omaha have not been as interested as usual in the good seed corn problem.

Disappointment Equals Expectation. Fremont Tribune: Lincoln has notified the regional bank committee that it is not suiking an account of not getting a bank and on being joined to Kansas City for bank purposes,

Newsday for Our New Nabs. Plattsmouth Journal: Now it is said that Mayor Dahlman is to be next postmaster of Omaha.

Speeding Up the Car of Justice. Grand Island Independent: Commissioner Kugel's curiosity as to what is holding back appeal cases from the police court of Omaha has already resulted in the order of judge for a complete list of the cases.

Reasons Lie Behind All Things. Kearney Hub: A Washington Dispatch hints that the failure of Nebraska to get one of the reserve banks indicates a warning of prestige on the part of Secretary Bryan.

Twice Told Tales. How to Make a Cherry Pie. Willie had resigned his position in the big bakery, where he labored in the pie department and had gone to work in a carpenter's shop for smaller wages.

A Lonesome Donkey. Last summer Mr. Oakes, an eminent lawyer, sent his wife and young daughter to a farm house in the White mountains for a vacation.

A Quiet Departure. Mrs. Smith was engaging a new servant, and sat facing the latest applicant.

JOLLIES FROM JUDGE.

"Miss Passes says she just dates on you!" "Then I wish some one would administer an antidote."

In the old days a book was suggestive, because it was found that would sell it. But now I'm decidedly reticent—instead of suggesting, they tell it!

Miss Passes—Oh, Mr. Plunka, are you married or unmarried? Mr. Plunka—Married, generally. But if you would call every day, you might strike me some time when I wasn't.

"What's that?" cried the new doctor in the mining camp. "You say you have 'shooting pains' in your neck. Why, you're wounded, man!" "That's what I said—'shooting pains,'" said Plute Pete.

She's all of 35 and not engaged. While younger maids on every hand are making. She'll change her policy soon, it is presumed.

"And do you love your neighbor as yourself?" asked the clergyman. The magazine editor admitted that he did not.

"Still, there are extenuating circumstances," he added. "My neighbor is a poet."

"When Miss Willings married old Moneybags, she gave her age as 25. I feel sure she is older than that."

"Oh, I suppose she allowed one-third off for cash!"

THE ALIENIST'S SONG.

New York Times. I drink the health of the feminine croaker. The female who sees only trouble ahead.

While others are eager to gas her or choke her I beam with delight at her croakings instead!

Here's health and long life to the male who's predicting War, ruin, disaster and woe for our land!

While others their cuss words are on him inflicting I smile at his notions and fondle his hand.

Long life to the fellow who prophesies trouble! Long life for the woman who warns of a crash!

Oh, would that the generous number was double! Of those who foresee we are going to smash!

Should nobody herald the nation's upsetting. And nobody harp on our "bad human strains!"

Pray where would an alienist ever be getting A fee worth his while for examining brains!
