Visiting Real Estate Men Entertained at South Omaha Plant

Real estate men of Omaha were in South Omaha Tuesday with their guests, the executive committee of the National Association of Real Estate Exchanges, visiting stock yards and Cudahy packing plant. In South Omaha the entire party were the guests of the Cudahy Packing company. They were shown through the big packing plant and were entertained at luncheon by the company.

The local entertainment committee took the executive members to South Omaha in automobiles this morning. They started in automobiles from the Hotel Rome shortly after 9 o'clock. In the afternoon the visitors were shown about the city by the local real estate committee. A visit to the smelter was one of the trips on the schedule for the afternoon.

Graff Estimates Thousand Will Enter High School in Fall

Superintendent E. U. Graff reports that in addition to the central high school and the High School of Commerce graduates this year, 626 pupils will graduate from the eighth B grade, thereby qualifying to enter the high school.

At the mid-term graduation 400 eighth B students were given diplomas. This brings the year's eighth B graduates up to at least 1,000.

Many of these students will enter the Central High school next year, but not all of them will. It is estimated that about 1,000 will enter next year, including those who will resume work after having dropped out for a while.

CADETS MAY SEEK FORT OMAHA GROUNDS NEXT YEAR

Use of the Fort Omaha drill grounds as an athletic field for the high school is being tentatively planned by First Assistant Principal C. E. Reed who will seek permission from the government to use the fort grounds for such purpose next season.

Lack of a suitable place to hold football, baseball and other outdoor athletic contests has led to the idea of converting the army drill grounds to such use. The Omaha High school has failed to secure the Missouri Valley High school grounds for the last four years because it had no suitable place of its own to hold them.

MANY SITES ARE OFFERED

Grain Exchange Has Many Localities to Select From.

MEETS WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON

Bonus is Not Asked, as the Exchange Has the Money and Figures that Rentals Will Make a Paying Investment.

This afternoon the Omaha Grain Exchange may determine the site of the proposed eight-story exchange building. The directors of the exchange will meet at 2 o'clock and together they will go over the propositions submitted by parties who have property to sell and who are seeking to secure the location of the $500,000 building.

According to President Hynes of the Grain exchange, there are no less than twenty-five sites. They are scattered pretty well over the business center of the city. Some of them are as far east as Thirtieth and Douglas streets; some as far west as Twenty-fifth and Farnam; some as far north as Sixteenth and Cass, and others as far south as Sixteenth and Leavenworth streets.

"At this time," said President Hynes, "it is impossible to tell which site will be selected, as that is a matter to be determined by the entire board of directors."

"We have a proposition to take the corner south of the Union Pacific headquarters, the Creighton block at Fifteenth and Douglas and one of the corners at Thirtieth and Douglas streets, as well as many others."

Peorians Expecting Spirit Explanation from Omaha Boosters

The hundred or more all-wool-and-a-yard-wide Omahans who originally came from Peoria, Ill., will have to get out and show us how Omaha got that enterprising spirit, how she keeps it, and what she does with it, because that's the big reason why we chose Omaha for one of the principal objective points on our 2,000-mile booster trip," declares Willis Evans, secretary of the Peoria Association of Commerce in a letter received here today.

The Peoria boosters with a thirty-piece military band, and equipment for a big demonstration, will arrive at 4 o'clock next Tuesday on a special train. The boosters comprise the leading professional and business men of that city.

Would Not Give Any Rights Not Named in New Contract

City attorneys have advised the city commission that in their opinion the city ought to insert into the proposed street lighting contract provisions emphatically setting forth that the lighting company is entitled to no street rights or other privileges not specifically mentioned in the contract.

"We do this because we want to safeguard the city," said Assistant City Attorney W. C. Lambert, who with City Attorneys Rine and Judge Baker worked over the phraseology of the contract all morning.

"If there should ever be litigation we want to have a contract here in which there are no loopholes," Lambert continued.

The city attorneys, the commissioners and representatives of the lighting company will confer Friday afternoon on the proposed contract and the proposals the city will set forth.

DOCTORS LIGHT AND FLIT

Are Ordered to Give Up Their Offices in Woodmen Building.

WERE NOT GIVEN A RATING

Had Advertised Their "Cures" in a Local Reform Paper, but They Said They Had Gotten "Cold Feet."

The sudden demise of the "Kansas-Nebraska Specialists," who opened offices at 1304-6 Woodmen of the World building ten days ago, has been explained to prospective patients by John N. Crawford, superintendent of the building.

"I cancelled their lease and ordered them out of the building," says Mr. Crawford.

He asserts that after granting a lease to a Dr. Stuchell, who represented himself to be a member of the medical firm of Drs. Clapp & Stuchell, with large offices and clientele at Wichita and Seattle, he inquired about the concern from R. G. Dun & Co. The mercantile agency's report led to the cancellation of the lease, Mr. Crawford declares.

With the disappearance of the "specialists" from their offices in the building, after being open for business only three days, a quantity of alleged radium, said to be worth $5,000, was shown to several people in the lobby of the Henshaw hotel. The same doctor who appeared there is also believed to be the man who offered to sell out his "radium" holdings to Dr. R. P. Jensen, a radium expert in the Bee building, for a comparatively small sum.

The new doctors advertised their "one-minute treatment" in one of the Omaha "reform" papers of Sunday, May 3. The doctor who offered to sell his radium to Dr. Jensen told the latter that he and his associates had gotten "cold feet" on their proposition, as very few patients presented themselves for the "one-minute" treatment.

ELICK OFF EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE OF THE CLUB

On account of business duties and because his health is none too good, Frank L. Elick has resigned from the executive committee of the Commercial club.

Nominations to Fill the Vacancy will be made next week by the committee, and the election will be held a week following.

Mr. Elick resigned from the presidency of the Omaha Manufacturers' association for the same reason a week ago.
