YOUNG Omaha chap, who has rather recently come to Omaha to make his home, and is at present at the Colonial, had rather a narrow escape the other day. This man formerly resided in Kansas City, and the road rules for motorists are a little more strict there than here, it seems. He was driving his motor in South ex Omaha the other day, when a car filled with men came along on the High School Cadets wrong side of the street and nearly ran into the K. C. man.

Whereupon Mr. Kansas City turned his car around and roasted the other motorist right cordially and then started for Omaha feeling much
