YORK, Neb. May 13.—(Special Tele-gram.)—York recovered from its stage fright today and walloped Norfolk, 3 to 2. Harris was on the mound again and had the Jobbers at his mercy at all stages of the game. His support was gilt-edged, two fast double plays cutting off scores.

Manager Pierce played a spectacular game in right field. He and Haigh divided honors with the willow, each starting batting railles and sending Hirsch to the dog house. Score:

India" is a potential menace. Whether gold is hoarded in India or not is really a question of terms. All nations hoard gold upon occasion. If the nation were threatened with a great war tomorrow we may depend upon it there would be a rush for gold on the part of that, contrary to some predictions, the those people who possessed both fore- acreage in the spring wheat states would would be a rush for gold on the part of sight and a balance at the bank. It is estimated that during the Balkan crisis the people of central Europe obtained and hoarded $300,000,000 in gold. India has been subjected to repeated invasions and innumerable internal wars, and its people have never completely lost their hereditary sense of insecurity. Banking facilities are still sparse, and it would be surprising if Indians did not hoard.

But hoarding does not necessarily mean burying it in the ground or concealment in the roofs of houses, though these practices are doubtless extensive. A very large proportion of the hoarded wealth of India is, however, in the form of gold and silver ornaments. It is into these ornaments that the bulk of the bullion and sovereigns, as well as much of the allver, disappears.

One often sees in the bazaar of a prosperous Punish town little boys naked save for one insufficient garment, but glittering with silver ornaments. The girls are far more lavishly laden. The frequency of child murders in India is almost entirely due to motives of robbery. With the growth of prosperity gold prnaments are largely replacing silver ones, espectally among adults. At the Amritsur fair well-to-de agriculturists, who formerly wore necklaces of rupees, are now seen with strings of sovereigns around their

OMAHA. May 13. 1914.

With the crop prospects improving from day to day instead of deteriorating, the lot of the wheat buils may be decided anything but satisfactory. There are many in the trade who have been carrying July and September wheat for weeks and weeks in the belief that crop conditions would show a change and that the change would be for the worse.

The manner in which the southwestern farmer has been fetting go of his wheat is a reflection of the actual conditions in the winter wheat belt more than any crop expert might say on the subject. The farmers are well posted as to the promise and they do not propose to hold their wheat until the entire country as one man makes up his mind to dispose of at least a portion of the surplus wheat harvested. There has been some talk of the cutting down of the screage of the three spring wheat states, but advices received yesterday say the area will be as large as that of last year, and that the amount seeded to wheat in Montana will be more liberal than any year since that state was placed along with the Dakottas and Minnesota an a grower of spring

Importing countries are buying old wheat sparingly. This fact is claimed by every exporter in Chicago, as well as at the seaboard and in Canada, too.

The transactions reported here yesterday included 48,000 bushels Canadian wheat sold to go abroad and 25,000 bushels old wheat in this market to interior millers.

May corn was the only future to hold its own and it closed at the highest point of the day and showed a small gain. The same interests that have been buying for some days were buyers again yesterday, and some in the trade advanced the opinion that their requirements must be nearly filled.

The outcome for corn was %c off to %c up, oats were unchanged to %c higher and provisions unchanged to %c higher and provisions unchanged to %c higher. Some of the reports regarding injury which the Hessian fly is said to be doing to wheat throughout important districts of Missouri and of southern Illinois and Indiana bordered on the sensational. In St. Charles county, Missouri, the damage was estimated as already 40 to 50 per cent.

Bears in wheat had the advantage until the flurry bogan as to danger from the Hessian fly. Glowing reports were at hand relative to the crop outlook in most of the winter belt and signs indicated that, contrary to some predictions, the

MINE DISASTER AND DAMAGES West Virginia's Compensation Law

and Its Bearing on Eccles

The frightful catastrophe which killed perhaps 179 people in mine No. 5 of the New River Collieries company at Eccles will have far-reaching effect upon the workmen's compensation law of West Virginia which went into effect last October. This law was modelled upon the original Ohio law and created a practical monopoly for an assessment fund to be administered by the state through a so-called Public Service commission.

It was impossible last night to discover whether the owners of the Eccles mine had insured their liability under the law istrate's court. Sullivan was arrested. in the state fund. If they did the fund will be bankrupt for some time to come and it is a question whether or not the dependents of those killed will ever get politics in Laurens, his home town. their money.

The West Virginia scheme allows the employer to decide whether or not he will insure with the state. If he does insure an employe who decides to sue will he confronted with the common law defenses of contributory negligence, act of fellow servant and assumption of risk, If he does not insure he has practically no defense against a suit brought by the injured employe or his dependents.

The scale of compensation provided is reasonable enough from an employer's standpoint, but casualty insurance men place for the 1915 meeting and the seleclast night estimated that either the state or the mining company owes to the bereaved by the accident at least $500,000. Compensation for death is divided as follows:

Reasonable funeral expenses, not to exneed $75 to each case. To the widow or invalid widower, $20 a month, and $5 a month additional for each child under the age of legal employment, the total not to exceed $35 a month. It was estichildren could reasonably be expected to child under the age of legal employment, velopment of spiritualized leadership." thenlaw provides that to per cent of the This declaration was included in the

Advices from other points were rather discouraging and local packers started out talking very bearish, it was impossible to get a line on the amount they wished to take off, however, as up until a late bour not a bid had been made, and with the exception of a few odd head and stags, not a hog has been sold to a packer.

FOLK AND M'REYNOLDS CLASH

After Stormy Session in Attorney General's Office it is Announced that His Protest Will Be tically were asked to do so by the atorney general." Mr. Folk smiled and remarked:

"As the senator has told you that, I will say that the conduct of Mr. Me-Reynolds was such that we did not care to remain. At the present time it is the intention to proceed tomorrow with the examination of Mr. Mellen. That is the judgment of the commission and that is expected to be the procedure. At the outset of the conference which was called to consider the advisability of continuing the inquiry, the attorney general declared the whole matter was within control of the commission. Reference was made to suggestions that had been made that the examination of Mr.

being carried on by the Department of Justice. McReynolas Stands By Letter. Mr. McReynolds then read a letter sent

Metien and directors of the New Haven

might give them immunity from prosecution as the result of an investigation to the Interstate Commerce commission yesterday, in which he suggested that the commission consider carefully the effect of the examination of Mr. Melien and others on any oriminal prosecution which the government might desire hereafter to institute. He then said his letter expressed fully and clearly the position in the matter he always had maintained; that the question was within the control of the commission and that he was content that it should determine and pursue whatever course it thought best would subserve the public interest.

After the conference Senator Norris, author of the resolution which instituted the New Haven inquiry, went to Mr. Folk's office. At the conclusion of this meeting Mr. Folk said

"We are going right ahead with this investigation and Mr. Mellen and directors of the New Haven will be put on the stand. We are going to bring out the truth-the whole truth-no matter whom it hits or whom it hurts."

Senator Norris said: "In my judgment nothing has developed that should change the commission's program. I see no resson why it should not push the case to the finish and put Mr. Mellen and the others on the stand. It is a matter of justice to the people that every fact in connection with the rotten operations that went on for years should be brought out.
