Benson and Miss Thompson of the suit department have gone east on their annual trip with instructions to lay in a complete stock of the new winter styles. Permit From Wrong Person—The Oxforman Construction company of South Omaha were brought before Judge Altstadt for hauling dirt on a boulevard. Mrs. Anna Oxforman of the firm appeared in defense of the company and stated that she had secured a permit from Commissioner Hummel to allow the hauling to go on. Judge Altstadt informed her that she had not seen the right person to obtain a permit and dismissed the charge when she promised to do so at once. Mrs. Goldware Wants Divorce—Mrs. Rose Goldware, whose husband is proprietor of a grocery and furniture store at 237 Ames avenue, has brought suit for divorce against Jacob Goldware, alleging that he laughed at her when she was unable to get out of bed on account of rheumatism and that he has failed to support her. She alleges that he has transferred his interest in the store to his father and secured a quit signing order to prevent change in its ownership. Mr. and Mrs. Goldware were married in Omaha June 21, 1910. They have a daughter 7 years old.

SENTENCE MULTIPLIED FOR CONTEMPT OF POLICE COURT

Edward Jackson of Biemarck, N. D., was arrested Thursday night for vagrancy and for being intoxicated. Judge Altstadt sentenced the man to ten days in the city jail and Jackson, thinking this too long, turned and remarked, "You Dutch blanket-blank—fool, I'll get even with you." "You come hang here, your assunder, and I gift you ninety days for your ten," retorted the schidize. Jackson subsided and was hauled away to a dungeon. Orders to be had for the business Metz Bros. Brewing company.

Bull Moosers Lose All of Their Preferred Candidates

The stubborn, age-old problem of who killed Cock Robin has finally been cast into the shade by the grievous question of who stole the bull moose list of state and congressional candidates, cooked up at the conference held by the prominent moosers of the state at the Paxton hotel Tuesday afternoon and evening. A tentative list was cooked up in the afternoon, duly stirred and a spoon and straw inserted ready to serve. Then something happened. F. P. Corrick of Lincoln, state chairman of the bull moosers, could not find the list when he wanted it most. John Lewis did not have it in his pocket. It could not be found in the jeans of Nathan Merriam, national committee man, nor of Dr. W. G. Henry, who has been active in local bull moose circles since last fall. "There are unbelievers among us," shouted some. But the unbelievers and thieves could not be located. As all had their credentials in good shape in the form of written invitations to the conference it did not seem in good form to lock the doors and search the visitors. "Some of the darn newspaper reporters stole the list," said John Lewis, Douglas county chairman. But more discerning minds remembered that the newspaper men had been locked out of the meeting and that the list had been jugged about from official to official long after the reporters were locked out. Scintillatingly resigned, sadness bent the brows of the moosers, for it had taken much time, diplomacy and tact to draw up the tentative list, and now it is lost. Not a man in the house had a memory good enough to remember who was who on the entire list. Besides it was night time to adjourn and get in line for the evening banquet. So the result of the big conference is naught except two pages of resolutions. No list of approved candidates for the state and congressional offices is in existence unless the sheet can be found. Of course the moosers say now that it was only a tentative list and that they had not hoped to dictate who should run in each congressional district, and all that, but they do admit that they had talked the matter over and simmered the possible timber down to a few that would set the party sanction. "Thus far no reward has been publicly offered for the recovery of the list. prosecution was conducted was passed in 1912. Since the passage of the ordinance frequent disputes between newspaper sellers on the curb and newsmen have occurred and the case of Hadiah was brought to test the validity of the ordinance. Lifelong Bondage troubles is needless. Electric Bitters is the guaranteed remedy. Only 50c. For sale by Beaton Drug Co.—Advertisement.

NEWSBOY FINED FOR HAVING HIS PAPERS ON THE CURB

Joe Radish, a newsboy who was selling his wares at the southwest corner of Sixteenth and Farnam streets, was tried in police court for violation of an ordinance prohibiting the display of merchandise on sidewalks. He was fined $5 and costs, but at the intervention of the Newsdealer's association on the line was permitted. The ordinance under which the

DOG, LONESOME FOR ITS MASTER, JUMPS DOWN SHAFT TO DEATH

Tony Talmersens, employed by the Omaha Fruit company, is mourning for a poor, black dog, which, wearied of life Thursday and committed suicide by plunging down the elevator shaft. Tony decided to take "Lil'ie" with him to work, and when he locked the doors called the dog. He talked to it all the way to work. "You're a good dog, Lil'ie," he said, "but my, ain't it hot? When we get downtown you want to keep out of the way. Do you hear me?" "Lil'ie" wagged her tail as evidence that she understood. Tony left the dog on one of the floors and the elevator boy left the door open. The brute stood looking down the shaft for a long time, then, after looking on either side, quickly leaped into the open shaft. Tony believes the heat went to the dog's head. He was a tearful man when he called the health department and asked that the animal be removed. Relief Committee Will Pro Rate the Money Left in Fund The general relief committee organized to aid the tornado sufferers is nearing the end of its work and during the last month has reviewed every case and has made some additional appropriations amounting to about $7,000. The money remaining in the relief fund will not permit giving the entire amount of these appropriations, so the committee has decided to make available 50 per cent of these appropriations and later will pro rate the balance on those tentative appropriations, letting the money go as far as it will.

MILK MEN MUST OBSERVE LAW OR BE PROSECUTED

W. E. Howersox, dairyman for the C. B. Post dairy of Benson, was fined $25 and costs, sentence suspended, for mixing milk on the street. Milk inspector Gunsolus appeared against the man and expressed his intention of bringing every milkman who violated the ordinance by exposing milk to the germ laden air of the streets, into police court.
