Body of Huddleson Found in the Woods

IOWA CITY, Ia., Aug. 20.-(Special Telegram.)-The partly decomposed body of Elmer Huddleson, a Coralville button cutter, was found in a weed patch near the Fitzgerald boathouse here today by a passing fisherman.

Huddleson was last seen last Monday by Anna Helub, a young widow, who declares that he attempted to assault her, but desisted and rushed away, after a struggle. Huddleson had drunk carbolle acid and had spilled a quantity of the polson over his face, which was partly eaten away. The coroner's jury found a verdict of suicide.

DEATH RECORD

Beath of Helen Fry. A poet has well said:

"The fairest rose that bids the morn
A welcome, with its dewey breath;
Will soonest from its stam be torn
And breathe its fragrance out in death,
Youth's fairest forms and sweetest

Do soonest yield to death's embrace; He seeks to gather in his arms, What hardest may be to replace."

If we find ourselves marveiling and wondering why a remarkably strong, vigorous child of 12 years-like Helen Fryshould be called hence so suddenly, we Austrian army. get the old answer, "He doeth all things answer, for there is no other. And yet we mourn, and it may be cry out in our grief, "O! for the touch of a vanished hand, and the sound of a voice that is still." All who knew her are mourners. Her short life was a singularly happy one absolutely devoid of sorrow-with probably never a wish ungratified. All who knew her loved her; and it is because it was my privilege to be among the friends who knew her best, and loved her most that I place this little sprig of Myrtle on the grave of Helen Fry. WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 .- Unexpected developments in regard to currency re form legislation in the senate today promised serious complications for President Wilson's plans for the passage of a currency bill at this session of congrees. At a conference of democratic members of the senate currency committee, Chairman Owen, who has been considered one of the original framers of the bill now before the democrats of the house, made it clear that he was posed to several features of the bill including the plan for twelve regional reserve banks and that he would recommend important changes in the measure. The results of the senate conference have been to leave the currency situation entirely open tonight, so far as the senate's probable action is concerned. Sen ator Owen did not suggest a definite plan to his colleagues, but said he was opposed to the regional reserve bank plan; to the proposal to compel all national banks to enter the new federal system and to other features of the bill as it

The increase is the direct result of an order by Secretary McVeagh that all drafts on government funds be drawn on the treasury. This necessitated an increase in depositories so that the funds would be more easily accessible.

The $50,000,000 to be deposited in the agricultural states this month will further add to the number of depositories and United States Treasurer Burke expects there may be more than 1,200. Many, however, will only be temporary.
