BY MELLIFICIA. Monday, August 25, 1913.

THE latest fad in New York, they say, is to engage your partner for dancing by the season instead of for a single dance, as has been the custom for centuries. Until recently if a man danced more than three dances with one young woman it was exceedingly bad taste, but now if two dancers find that they can dance in perfect rhyme, they continue the dance the entire evening, and perhaps for the season.

Mr. Roy Wood of New York, coxswain for the Columbian crew last year, is spending a few days with college friends in Omaha and attended several informal tango parties while here. Last year Mr. Wood had the same partner at all of the large college dances and says that is quite the popular fad. He is an unusually good dancer.

This fad really originated with the younger set at Newport, where it is said the young women usually choose their partners.

Dancing by the mile also originated at Newport, where the young women are wearing "tango motors" on their ankles so that they will know just how far they have danced at the different parties.

TWO POLICE JUDGES APPEAR

Altstadt Unwilling to Yield Place to Successor Named Saturday.

BUTLER PUTS O'BRIEN ON BENCH

Deposed Magistrate Says Was Told by Dahlman to Keep Place Until Judge Foster Resumed Duties Wednesday.

William Altstadt, for two months acting police judge during the absence of Judge Foster on account of illness, but superseded last Saturday by Acting Mayor Dan B. Butler, who appointed Samuel O'Brien, justice of the peace, to take his place, was unwilling to yield his seat yesterday to his successor and appeared bright and early to resume his duties. Judge O'Brien also was on hand after Acting Mayor Butler had had a conference with Judge Altstadt, O'Brien ascended upon the bench without opposition.

Following a newspaper attack on Altstadt Dan Butler informed him Saturday night that his services would not be required Monday. Altstadt consented reluctantly, but according to his statement he later received word by telephone from Mayor Dahlman, who is spending a short vacation at Seymour lake, to continue in the capacity of judge until Foster's return.

Butler was present before court opened and after closing himself with Altstadt, heuser, the matter was amicably settled and O'Brien took the bench.

Butler said he wanted to give O'Brien a chance, as Altstadt has had the appointment long enough. There is no complaint against Altstadt's work, but it is desirable to give another justice an opportunity of showing his ability.

The deposed magistrate remarked: "Rather than create any trouble I will submit to the change, but I'm rightfully entitled to the position until removed by the man who appointed me. When Dahlman comes home I intend to have this thing thrashed out completely."

Judge Foster, who is fast recovering from his illness, expects to resume his duties Wednesday.

Plan to Entertain Garrison Approved

A telegram received by J. M. Guild of the Commercial club from Major General Leonard Wood says that the schedule arranged by the local club for the visit of Secretary of War Garrison and his party who are on a tour of inspection of military posts of the country is entirely satisfactory. The committee in charge of arrangements and which will also act as a reception committee consists of W. F. Baker, chairman; Victor Rosewater, John L. Kennedy, General Frederick A. Smith and J. M. The committee will then accompany them to Fort Crook and Fort Omaha. Luncheon at the Commercial club will be served at 12:15 o'clock. Secretary Garrison is to address the club. W. D. McHugh will preside.

Bankers' Advice on Money Bill Worth Heeding, Says Drake

Luther Drake, president of the Merchants National bank; F. H. Davis, president of the First National bank, and George F. Sawyer of Franklin have returned from Chicago, where they attended the conference of bankers of the country to discuss the currency bill now before congress with a view to making recommendations for amendments.

"The meeting was unique," said Luther Drake. "There has been nothing like it in the history of the country. Of course we have our conventions of bankers, but a special conference of this magnitude in regard to pending legislation is without a precedent."

Mr. Drake said he could not say whether the conference had accomplished its purpose entirely, but said recommendations had been drawn to be submitted to congress that would be worthy of consideration.

"Practically every state in the union was represented," said Mr. Drake, "and the conference certainly should have power to represent the banks of the country."

The conference was made up of delegates chosen to represent the currency commission, the clearing houses and the state bankers' associations.

Mrs. Smith Still in Critical Condition

Mrs. Maud Smith, who was seriously wounded by her husband, Robert, Saturday morning, shows but slight improvement after two days of medical attention at St. Joseph hospital. Paralysis, which developed from one of the bullets striking the spinal cord, is complete from the waist down. The woman is still conscious, but very weak, and slight hope is given for her recovery. Mrs. Smith's 7-year-old daughter, Mildred, is being cared for at the home of Officer Sam Egan and will remain there while the mother is in the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. George Yarran of Carroll, Ia., parents of Mrs. Smith, are constantly at her bedside.

No funeral arrangements for the husband, who accomplished suicide after attempting his wife's life, have been made. An inquest may be held upon the arrival of Coroner Crosby, who is expected to return from a vacation in Colorado this morning.

Thinks Intelligence Measurable Thing

E. D. Gepson, principal of the special school for delinquent boys, believes the intelligence of a child can be measured with as much accuracy as a clerk can measure cloth. Gepson spent his vacation in Minneapolis studying the Binet scale of measuring intelligence, as taught by Dr. Frederick Kuhlman.

"It is a simple matter after all," said Gepson, "to find out whether a child of 5 has an intelligence of a child of 7 or 8 years. Binet worked out this scale after experiments with hundreds of children. It is based on sound psychological laws."

Gepson, beginning his principalship of the new special school next month, will make use of the knowledge secured at the Kuhlman school.

This is the third annual session of the conference. Thirty states are to be represented.

OMAHANS WANT CONVENTION

Delegates to Letter Carriers' Meet Told of City's Advantages.

MANY ON THEIR WAY TO WEST

Local Association Keeps Committee at Station and Sends Boosters on Each Special Train Which Passes Through.

Omaha letter carriers are making a strong pull for the next annual meeting of the Letter Carriers' association. This year the meeting is held in San Francisco and carriers from all over the United States are enroute there. Many of them are passing through Omaha. Late Sunday traveling on a special train, the carriers of Cleveland, O., arrived in the city over the Northwestern and left over the Union Pacific.

Yesterday the carriers of Greater New York to the number of 300 came in on a special train over the Great Western and later left over the Union Pacific. On a special Northwestern train the Philadelphia carriers will reach this city today at noon and will remain until 7:30 in the evening, when they will leave over the Union Pacific.

The Omaha carriers have a committee at the Union station, where all delegations are met and supplied with literature. If the delegations stop any length of time, the members are taken in automobiles and given a ride about the city.

In order that Omaha may be fully impressed upon the minds of the delegates to the San Francisco convention, from one to three Omaha carriers accompany each special train on its way west, boosting for this city.

The letter carriers' convention is considered very desirable, as it is made up of from 1,200 to 2,000 delegates and remains in session from three to five days.
