REUNIONS of Omaha people abroad this summer have proved both pleasant and profitable. Mrs. Ida M. Hanchett, who is in Europe this summer as the guest of her pupils, has spent much time with the members of her classes who are abroad this summer. Last week Mrs. Hanchett, Miss Jessie Millard, Mrs. Warren Blackwell, Miss Ethel Evans of New York City, formerly of Omaha, enjoyed the art galleries of the Louvre and the Luxembourg in Paris.

Mrs. Hanchett is spending this week in London with Mrs. Warren Blackwell and her mother, Mrs. Whitcomb, and Mrs. Blackwell's sister, who resides in the English capital. They also met Mrs. Charles Kountze and Mrs. Ward Burgess. Besides attending teas, they are visiting the art galleries and museums and theaters in London.

Home from Summer Outings.

Mr. and Mrs. Edson Rich have returned from their summer outing spent in the woods of northern Wisconsin.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Johnston have returned from a month spent in the Judith basin country of Montana, where they visited their son, Mr. James E. Johnston of Lewistown. Mrs. Johnston returns very much improved in health.

Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Howard have gone to New York to remain a month. During the time Mr. Howard will visit his boyhood home near Ithaca.

Miss Belle M. Ryan has returned from a month's visit to the Minnesota lakes. Mr. and Mrs. Gould Dietz and Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Dietz have returned from Dome Lake.

Miss Belle Dewey and Mrs. E. H. Sprague have returned from a two weeks' visit in Estes Park and a few days' stay in Denver, where they were entertained at the Country club.

Tango and Garden Party.

Miss Eugenie Whitmore will entertain at a garden and tango party this evening at her home, in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Roberts. Mrs. Whitmore has an unusually attractive garden and punch will be served in one corner. Japanese lanterns will be used for lighting the garden and verandas and the guests will spend the evening in tangoing.

Edson Rich Puts In Vacation Taming Down Cranberry Bog

Edson Rich of the Union Pacific legal department is back from his annual summer outing, spent at his country home in the north woods of Wisconsin, on the shores of Shell lake. The summer outing of Mr. Rich is not usually spent in loafing. Heretofore he has spent his time chopping wood, but this year, owing to having chopped enough to last a couple of seasons when he was in the west last season, he had to change his plans. He made the start on a cranberry plantation. With his own hands he drained the marsh at one end of the lake, sanded the bog and set several thousand young cranberry plants. There is money in cranberry growing in northern Wisconsin, according to Mr. Rich. He has a neighbor, who started a cranberry plantation three years ago and this year, off his twenty acres, the crop averaged 100 barrels per acre, worth $1 per barrel. Mr. Rich returns with calluses as large as walnuts on his hands, muscles as hard as iron and as choice a collection of fish stories as have ever been detailed around Union Pacific headquarters. The weather in northern Wisconsin, says Mr. Rich, has been ideal during the past summer and last month, when Omaha was sweltering in a temperature of 100 or more, the Rich thermometer during the hottest portion of the days read around 65 and 70, at nights frequently going down to 35 and 40, so that sitting around wood fires and then going to sleep under two blankets was quite the thing.

WOMEN MAKE THRILLING TRIP

Drive Hundred Miles Through Hot Sand to Brother's Bedside.

OVER TWO DAYS IN THE DESERT

Auto Breaks Down, Leaving Them Without Water or Bedding—Arrive Too Late to See Their Brother Alive.

Mrs. Cora Lamoreaux, wife of Dr. Robert E. Lamoreaux, dentist in the Brandeis building, together with her sister, Mrs. Alex Lavery of Ashland, Neb., had a most thrilling and dangerous experience in a desperate endeavor to reach the bed side of their brother, Fred Palmer, formerly of Ashland, who was lying at the point of death on a ranch 100 miles across the desert and mountains of Albuquerque, N. M.

They arrived at Albuquerque at midnight and were twenty-four hours in securing a chauffeur and automobile that would undertake to land them at the ranch. After traveling twenty-four miles in deep sand, the boiler of their steam car sprang leaks, and the nature of the trouble was such that repairs could only be made in a machine shop. The driver started back to walk ten miles to the nearest ranch through the burning hot sun and in the deep sand, to secure a horse to ride back to town, where he could get another automobile to rescue the women.

A Mexican and a team were sent out to join the party, but they got lost, as did likewise the second automobile, so that the ladies did not find each other until the next morning. It was not anticipated that the trip would take more than ten hours, so that very little water and food were taken along and nothing in the way of bedding. When the breakdown occurred the women were obliged to walk two miles in the hot sun through the sand to get to a small tree, where they remained for six hours alone and where they buried their bare feet deep in the sand.

The women were enroute from the city two and a half days and nights, with but very little food and water and not even a robe on which to sleep. The days were sweltering hot and the nights very cold and they suffered intensely from hunger and thirst, having run out of water on two different occasions. The women had to walk for several miles in the sand, as it was almost impossible for the car to move in the deep sand, even without the passengers. They finally arrived at the ranch Friday noon, only to find that their brother had died the evening before of typhoid fever.

There was no casket, undertaker or embalming fluid to be secured anywhere and they were therefore obliged to make a burial case out of pine boards and line the same with cloth, and after holding a brief sacred service by themselves and a few close-by neighbors, they buried their brother themselves. The women passed through Omaha this morning, utterly exhausted, enroute to Ashland to notify their aged parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Palmer, and to be of such comfort as they could to them.

Mother of Eighteen Children.

"I am the mother of eighteen children and have the praise of doing more work than any young woman in my town," writes Mrs. C. J. Martin, Boone Hill, Va. "I suffered for five years with stomach trouble and could not eat as much as a bit without suffering. I have taken three bottles of Chamberlain's Tablets and am now a well woman and weigh 126 pounds. I can eat anything I want to, and as much as I want and feel better than I have at any time in ten years. I refer to any one in Boone Hill or vicinity and they will vouch for what I say." For sale at all druggists.—Advertisement.

X-Ray Footwear Latest Fad.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—The so-called X-ray feature in women's cloth is to be extended to footwear, according to Irish lace-makers who are crocheting lace for the uppers of X-ray shoes. For evening wear the uppers are entirely of lace, for outdoor wear the shoes have shallow goloshes of suede kid, surmounted by lace.
