Throughout the day the general discusaion of the currency bill continued, democrats lauding the measure, republicans endorsing parts of it and condemning most strongly the provisions forcing national banks into the proposed new system and making the new reserve notes government obligations.

Starting September 17, in the Grace church at Lancoln, will be held one of the largest conferences in Methodism. It is the new Nebraska conference forme! by the consolidation of the old Nerasks conference, the west Nebraska conference and the north Nebraska conerence. On the day before the big cor ference the three old conferences, which have merged into the new one, will hold their last meetings to clear the slate of all details and old business. The conference will extend to September 22 and it is on that day that the appointments of pastors will be made. There will be only one change in Omaha. That will be at the First church, where a successor to Rev M. B. Williams will be chosen. There will only be one change in South Omaha, A successor to the Rev. T. A. Bagshaw who is retiring from active work for a time, on account of III health, will be appointed for the Lefter Memorial church Blahop Frank W. Bristol of Omaha will preside at the conference. The new conference looms up as a nountain to Methodists as compared to the smaller conferences, which have been held previous to this year. Originally four conferences covered the state of Nebraska, while now there are only two The northwest conference did not consolidate. The new conference extends over 400 miles across Nebraska and is 200 miles wide. It contains approximately 50.000 square miles. In this new aggregation of forces there will be approximately 430 appointments There will be in its membership over 2% active pastors, besides "supplies," re-The president arranged to leave at 5:25 tired members, supernumeraries and men in detached service. Before the consolidation the three conferences had eleven district superintendents, but it is now planned to reduce this number to eight in the new conference. Three big Methodist institutions are located within the new conference. The Nebraska Wesleyan university at University Place, the Methodist hospital at Omaha, and the home for aged Methodists at Blair. In addition. the Woman's Home Missionary society maintains a home for children at York

Eighteen delegates will be sent to the general conference frome this conference. Only one other conference is entitled to send more delegates, and that is the northeast Ohio, which sents twenty, Illinois is entitled to send as many. The larger conference, it is thought will be advantageous in many ways. It more or less of an experiment and as Nebraska is untrammeled by precedent, it is going to try out the larger conference plan and prove to its own satisfaction at least whether the larger plain is prictical in application.

Any manufacturer, producer or distributer of any meritorious merchandise that meets the wants of a majority of the people or any great class of people logically chooses the daily newspaper as the natural medium through which to ad-
