HITCHCOCK MAY BLOCK BILL

Nebraskan Holds Balance of Power on Currency Legislation.

PROMPT ACTION IS LOOKED FOR

Chairman Owen Says Committee Will Have Measure on Floor of the Senate for Debate by October 4.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Fresh from its triumphant passage in the house, the entrance of the administration currency bill to the senate was signalled by a statement from Chairman Owen of the banking committee that he expected the measure out on committee and on the senate floor for action by October 4.

"I believe I am as fully prepared to act on the currency bill now as I would be if I gave it much longer study," said Senator Shafer, another democratic member of the committee. "I believe congress should dispose of it before the next regular session begins."

President Wilson's conference last night with Senator Reed, one of the committee democrats, who has criticized many provisions of the bill adversely, will be followed, it is believed, by individual conferences with other democrats, who have shown opposition to the measure or have criticized its vital features. With the aid of Secretary McAdoo, the president will endeavor to overcome some of their arguments and bring the senate committee to the support of the bill.

Should Senator Hitchcock continue opposition to immediate currency legislation, his aid would enable the republicans to prevent, by a tie vote, any affirmative action or reporting the bill at once to the senate.

Public hearings were resumed today, with Andrew J. Frame, a banker of Waukesha, Wis. Samuel Untermyer, who conducted the Pujo money trust investigation will be heard Monday.

Country bankers also will appear then and it is expected hearings will be closed by Wednesday.

Policemen in Skirts Fail to Catch Thief; Taken for Burglars

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 19.—Two policemen who went forth in the early hours this morning disguised as women in 1914 model skirts, hoping to capture negro purse snatchers, "working" in the downtown districts, met their downfall when it came to a foot race with one of the thieves.

Henry Wilson and J. C. Morley, among the smallest men on the force, garbed in a modish feminine apparel, from small velvet hat with ruffled brim to satin shoes and silk hose, took their stand at a transfer corner and giggled as effeminately as they could, ostensibly waiting for a car. Luck was with them at the start. A negro, slouching down the street, seized Wilson's near-silver mesh purse containing valuable old keys and watches and dashed up an alley.

The dainty Wilson called halt in basso and drew a revolver. The negro continued to run. Wilson and Morley gave chase. They had reckoned without the sprinting limitations of their garb and after frequent tumbles on the alley cobblestones, abandoned the pursuit. Three bullets Wilson sent after the negro went wild.

They stopped in a rooming house, hoping to get into man's clothing and the proprietor, believing them burglars, locked them in a room until a police sergeant came and unraveled the tangle.

GAYNOR'S BODY IS HOME

Casket Taken from Steamship to His Late Residence.

PRIVATE SERVICES SATURDAY

Body Will Then Be Taken to City Hall, Where It Will Lie in State Until Monday—Public Service at Trinity.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—The body of William J. Gaynor, mayor of New York City, who died at sea September 18, lay today in the privacy of his Brooklyn home. In a drizzling rain it was lowered at 4 o'clock this morning from the deck of the liner Lusitania to the city's boat Correction. Through a mist that lay heavy over the harbor the Correction steamed an hour and a half later to pier A at the Battery. There a picked squad of 100 police, who had stood all night in the rain, formed its escort to Brooklyn.

Private funeral services will be held tomorrow night and at the conclusion the body will be taken to the city hall, where it will lie in state till Monday morning when funeral services will be held in Trinity church.

With the committee on funeral arrangements that went down the harbor aboard the Correction were Norman Gaynor, the mayor's son, and Harry Vinnet, his son-in-law, representing the family. No other member of the Gaynor household was aboard. It was Mrs. Gaynor's wish that as little publicity as possible be attached to the landing of the body. To facilitate this the spot at which the body would be landed was not made public in advance. With the exception of the mounted police, less than 100 persons witnessed the transfer from the Correction to the hearse.

The twelve honorary pall bearers, headed by William H. Taft, formed two lines, through which the casket passed at the Gaynor home.

Rufus W. Gaynor, the mayor's son, looked careworn and aged. A physician was called to attend him and the mayor's widow.

A few children on their way to school stood in a group at the doorway as the body was taken from the hearse. They would have been sent away by the police had not Robert Adamson, the dead mayor's secretary, forbidden it.

"Let the children come into the house," he said. "They were the mayor's best friends."

The order was carried out. A few minutes later the children left with tears in their eyes.

Two Students Hurt in Inter-Class Fight

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 19.—Two students at the University of Washington were taken to hospitals early this morning suffering from serious injuries resulting from the annual freshman-sophomore fight last night.

Vladno Binagay was unconscious. Fellow students said he had been run over by an automobile in the mixup. The attending physician said he could find no marks of an automobile accident and believed Binagay had been left tied to a telephone pole until he became unconscious from exhaustion.

Frank Phipps had a broken collarbone, said to have been sustained when he fell down a shaft at an old grain elevator in the university district where 10 freshmen were impaled by their opponents.

ONCE LARGEST TOWN IN NORTHERN IOWA OFF MAP

WEBSTER CITY, Ia., Sept. 19.—(Special.)—The Postoffice department at Washington has ordered the discontinuance September 20 of the postoffice at Homer. Figuratively speaking this act throws the last shovel full of earth on the grave of what at one time was the largest city in northern Iowa. Until Hamilton and Webster counties were divided in 1867, Homer was the county seat of the two, then known as Yell county.

In the early history of north central Iowa Homer played a big part. Its settlement antedates both Webster City and Fort Dodge. It flourished like a bay tree until along in the 70's when the railroads began penetrating this part of Iowa. When the Illinois Central came through seven miles north of Homer and two years later the Northwestern passed seven miles south, the doom of the town was sounded and from that day to this Homer has been slowly but surely fading off the map. From a flourishing city of hardy pioneers it has dwindled down to a point where but two stores and a bickering shop are left in its old business district. Its present postmaster, R. G. Pierce, is an old resident there. Since the coming of the railroads Homer has been on a star mail route out of Webster City. Its mail patrons will after September 20 get their mail on the rural routes out of this city and Stratford.

SULZER'S FRIEND LOCKED UP

J. C. Garrison is Charged with Contempt by Assembly.

TAKEN TO THE PENITENTIARY

He is Alleged to Have Charged that Four Representatives Were Bribed to Vote for Impachment.

part he found himself blocked by the sergeant-at-arms. While Majority Leader for the arrest of Garrison, he was held Levy was presenting a resolution calling a prisoner in a cloak room. When called before the speaker, Garrison was without counsel and he refused to answer questions put to him.

Meantime numerous and widely varying predictions were made as to what would be done with Garrison. Again Levy took the initiative and presented a resolution remanding the prisoner to the penitentiary until the close of the session unless otherwise ordered by the assembly. The vote was 59 to 3.

A short time later Garrison was being rushed to the penitentiary. An attaché of the institution today said the prisoner was shown no special favors and the prison authorities had no order other than to hold him as an ordinary prisoner.

Levy was much pleased by the turn of affairs in the Garrison case and he declared that unless Garrison purged himself of contempt he would have to remain in jail until January.

"The assembly has plenary power to punish for contempt," he said. "Garrison also must go back to jail pending the court's decision on his application for a writ. He cannot be released on bail."

Garrison incurred the enmity of many of Sulzer's political opponents by his activities during the pending impeachment proceedings. He was called the governor's press agent by many.

After the vote, Judge Cullen directed Clerk McCabe to read the articles of impeachment. The motion by Senator Pollock, of New York, that reading be dispensed with, was lost and the clerk began slowly to read the lengthy articles.

"What answer does the respondent interpose to the articles of impeachment filed by the assembly?" queried Judge Cullen, when Clerk McCabe had finished his reading.

Judge Herrick stated that, pursuant to the notice of yesterday that objection would be made to the validity of the impeachment, Louis Marshall, of the governor's counsel, would argue that point.

Attorney Marshall, reading from a prepared brief, first asked that the entire proceedings be dismissed on the ground that the court is without jurisdiction and the charges are null, void and of no effect.

The principal attack was directed against the constitutionality of the action of the assembly in adopting the impeachment articles during an extraordinary session, when the subject matter had not been recommended by the governor.

Governor Sulzer did not recommend the subject of his impeachment," said Mr. Marshall, "nor did he in any way suggest the consideration of any charges against himself."

When Attorney Marshall concluded, Judge Cullen asked if counsel for the managers contemplated taking issue with any of the facts, as distinguished from the points of law, raised by the governor's counsel. Judge Parker asked for a five-minute recess while he and his colleagues considered the matter.

However, Judge Cullen order the usual noon recess and adjournment was taken until 2 p. m.

The convening of the court this afternoon was with great ceremony. The members of the senate, formed in long double lines in the outer lobby. Then the senate sergeant-at-arms and the cryer of the court of appeals appeared and escorting the judges of the court. The judges passed through the lines of senators, the cryer announced the approach of the "high court of impeachment."

Attorney John B. Stanchfield, representing the board of managers, opened the proceedings by making answer briefly to the allegations of the governor that the impeachment proceedings were irregular.

Subsequently Attorney Marshall began a lengthy argument in support of the contention of Governor Sulzer's counsel that the assembly was not constitutionally convened when the impeachment articles were adopted and that therefore the impeachment was invalid.

He first questioned the jurisdiction of the assembly to impeach when conveyed in extraordinary session without the governor's recommendation. He declared the opinion of Attorney General Carnody holding that the impeachment was a judicial and not a legislative act and that therefore his assembly was within its rights in adopting the articles without the recommendation of the governor was "fallacious and unsound."

"If he said, 'any body of the state gives constitutional power to convene a majority of its members and impeach an executive revolution and anarchy would inevitably result, and our country would effectually be Mexicoized.' He challenged his opponents to cite an instance in which a congress or a legislature or a component part of either had convened itself, or assumed to act and usurp the functions of government without convening." The state assembly and senate, he said, were patterned after the House of Commons and the House of Lords of England.

"Neither of these legislative bodies," he continued, "can be convened without the royal mandate of the crown."

Mr. Marshall was in the midst of his argument when Judge Cullen interrupted and announced that he would be heard further on Monday at 2 p. m. when the court is to reconvene. All witnesses under subpoena were ordered to be in readiness to testify.

The court then adjourned.

SLAYERS OF MADERO ARE EXONERATED BY MILITARY TRIBUNAL

tain that the United States would not hasten to recognize Diaz if he were elected, but would await in accord with the precedents of President Hayes' administration to determine whether the resulting government was strong enough to maintain peace and guarantee international obligations.

The policy of strict neutrality with respect to the exportation of arms and munitions of war from this country, however, will be continued until recognition is extended.

That the constitutional faction regards Diaz as being jointly responsible with Huerta for Madero's downfall, it is thought here will mean a sharpening of the contest between the warring factions.

Paris, Sept. 19.—Commenting on Provisional President Huerta's message read to the Mexican congress on September 16 the next issue of Constitutionalism, a newspaper devoted to the revolution in Mexico, will say:

"The promise made by Huerta to carry out the Mexican elections in the month of October is not realizable. Every one knows that the foremost which returns the whole country renders more than a semblance of elections impossible."

HERMOSILLO, Mex., Sept. 19.—Venustiano Carranza, the constitutionalist leader, arrived here last night and today was greeted with great enthusiasm as president of Mexico. He appointed General Oregon commander-in-chief of the northern district of Mexico, comprising the states of Sonora, Sinaloa, and Chihuahua and the territories of Tepic and Lower California.

Dental by Consul Vail.

TUCSON, Ariz., Sept. 19.—Robert Vail, United States consul at Guaymas, deeded today charges by refugees at Los Angeles that he and Lieutenant Henley of the cruiser Buffalo had stamped them into deserting their Mexican holdings in response to President Wilson's desire.

"Those Americans who wished to remain in Mexico remained," he said. "I merely showed them President Wilson's note to the American representatives in Mexico. There was no attempt to scare anyone. Those who desired to leave Mexico locked their warehouse doors and departed in twenty-four hours."

Vail probably will return to Guaymas overland from this city.
