

Distinctive Autumn Apparel

Julius Orkin

1510 DOUGLAS ST.

Exclusive Styles
Splendid Variety
Moderate Prices

OMAHA'S original exclusive ladies' store, a house that has won public confidence by years of honest dealings, bringing exclusive styles and satisfaction into the popular price realm.

For Women Exclusively

This store is conducted for the exclusive sale of Misses' and Ladies' Garments—suits, coats, dresses, skirts, waists, petticoats, etc.—and devotes its entire energy toward the building up of an institution that will lead all others in point of style, service and satisfaction.

Our Fixed Policy

That of universal fair dealing and courtesy—one price to all and that the lowest that honest merchandising will permit. We take pride in maintaining one fixed regulation and that is that the customer comes first ALWAYS, and must be thoroughly satisfied with any purchase made.

Unexcelled Store Service

Realizing that much of the success of any store depends upon the co-operation of its selling organization, extreme care is used in the choosing of the ladies who form this part of our business. Honesty and integrity must predominate, and any statement made by them will be backed up to the letter by Mr. Orkin himself.

Larger Stock Than Ever

Believing that the business the coming season will be greater than ever before, Mr. Orkin bought heavily in all departments—so that patrons are assured of a splendid variety of models to choose from, at the respective prices quoted.

Mr. Orkin's Buying Experience

A lifetime spent in the ladies' garment business, and his familiarity with the leading makers of the country through his years of keen merchandising in the buying markets, has given Mr. Orkin a practical experience that is indeed an enviable one. You reap the benefits of his experience by getting smarter styles, personally selected, at a lesser price.

Smartness & Economy Unite

Right here is struck the keynote of the success that has been attained by Mr. Orkin. When all is said and done, the tremendous popularity that has been gained by this store can be traced back directly to these two factors—smartness and economy—two factors that are sought for by women the world over.

Exclusiveness a Feature

Exclusiveness lends enchantment to any garment, and gives the wearer a feeling of satisfaction and contentment that nothing else produces. Julius Orkin searches and searches—then demands—styles that are exclusive for his patrons. Julius Orkin's garments always bear individuality—striking without being too extreme.

No Charge for Alterations

Special attention is paid to the fitting of all garments. Expert fitters and tailors only are employed. No garment is allowed to leave the store without giving satisfaction. We make no charges whatever for any necessary alterations.

A Final Word

Finally—we ask your careful inspection of our fall lines before making selections any place. We feel sure that the combinations of style, value, service and exclusiveness to be found in this store will surpass, in your estimation, anything ever before offered in the middle west.

A few prices are quoted below.

Smart Tailored Suits for Fall

We have exerted every effort to produce, at the below prices, suits that embody every new feature brought out for fall. That we have succeeded is ably evidenced by the hundreds of "exclusive" styles we are now showing.

BOY FACES SERIOUS CHARGE

E. J. Carvill May Have to Answer if John Gaard Should Die.

GANG ATTACKS AN EXPRESSMAN

All Were Youths, One of Whom Confessed to Having Thrown Brick Which May Have Been Fatal to Crashed Skull.

Edward J. Carvill, known as "Teddy," a 15-year-old youth, living at 910 South Twenty-fifth avenue, faces a possible murder charge because he took part in a fight Friday night in which he had no interest. He is said to have confessed to Police Captain Michael Demsey that he threw a brick at John Gaard, 45 years old, when the latter fled under a volley of bricks and blows from a gang of youths at Twenty-fourth and Leavenworth streets, and was later picked up with his skull crushed. Gaard is still alive in the city ward of St. Joseph's hospital, but physicians say his chances for life are slight.

The story, said to have been told to the police by Carvill, is that Gaard, who is an expressman living at 2602 Pierce street, and Ed Minkus, 1548 South Twenty-fourth street, quarreled near the former's stables. A crowd gathered, and when Gaard refused to fight, some one threw a brick which crushed the expressman's skull.

Arrest Young Carvill.

The police arrested young Carvill, Fred Compton, 1008 South Twenty-second street; Harold Whitney, 238 Leavenworth street; and Ed Minkus, who are being detained as material witnesses. All are young men, ranging in ages of between 16 and 22 years.

Each of the prisoners denied throwing the brick except Carvill, who, under a relentless cross-fire of questions by Captain Demsey and Detectives Fleming and Murphy, admitted throwing one brick. He said there were other bricks thrown as well, and that he was not sure which brick struck Gaard.

Carvill is the son of a well known butcher, and has been employed by a commission firm in the wholesale district. He is large for his age, and the police for this reason kept him in the city jail instead of the juvenile department.

Gaard is a married man with several children. He has been engaged in the express business here for a number of years. During a brief period of consciousness he told the authorities that the attack upon him was entirely unprovoked and that his assailants are members of the gang that has been terrorizing the vicinity of Twenty-fourth and Leavenworth streets for the last few months.

Four of the boys signed written statements yesterday. The Minkus boys, Matt and Edward, are nephews of the injured man, and stated that the fight had arisen over Gaard's striking Ed with his fist after saying he was going to "clean up" the whole Minkus family. Harold Whitney asserts he had had no active part in the proceedings and merely entered the crowd to witness the affair. Fred Compton declared that Carvill and Ed Minkus both threw bricks at Gaard, but was unable to state which missile struck the man on the head. All four kids will be held pending developments of Gaard's condition.

Wants Police to Help Him Get Back His Fourth Wife

"Mr. Maloney, I would like to borrow a detective for a short time," declared an excited individual rushing into the sanctuary of the chief of detectives, Friday afternoon.

After several false starts, the gentleman disclosed his identity by stating he was Hans Timm, aged 35 years, a prominent teamster of the city, who several hours before had taken, with the aid of Justice Britt, Miss Lettie McIntosh, aged 19 years, to be his lawfully wedded wife.

It seems that upon arriving home with his bride, they had scarcely crossed the threshold, when "deary's mamma" hove to, smacked Lettie across the face with the palm of her hand and proceeded to drag her from hubby's protecting roof. Mr. Timm feebly objected to this procedure, but upon being informed by "mamma" that she would belabour his features if he butted in, he subsided, determined that one of Mr. Maloney's valiant sleuths should "bring his bonnie to him."

Mr. Maloney tearfully informed Timm that according to the laws of the state and Oklahoma he would be unable to recall the kidnaped from, but with the aid of several lawyers he might obtain a writ of habeas corpus, extradition papers or an injunction and regain the better half of his domicile.

Accommodates Man Who Keeps the Cash

Ben Hirschwell, colored, of Minneapolis, is out $45 as the result of his having trusted a strange negro with that amount. Hirschwell arrived in Omaha Saturday morning and meeting with the stranger was persuaded to turn over the money, which the latter said he wished to secure a hundred dollar bill coming to him from his employer, who owed him $55, back pay. The stranger promised to be "right back," but is evidently still making change, as Hirschwell reports to the police that he has not seen him since.

BELLEVUE FRESHMEN GIVEN ENTERTAINMENT

Friday night the faculty and old students of Bellevue college entertained the new arrivals at an informal reception through a series of games a general roundup of the green and hepatic ones were made to feel very much at home. Musical numbers were given by Misses Hamblin, Kinnear and Goodwill. One of the "freshies," who was heard rehearsing a speech to fortify himself against a possible request for a talk, caused much amusement for the others. As a final initiation into college life, the new members were taught the songs and yells, which some of the most enthusiastic practiced till forced to retire by sleepier "habitants of the dormitory."

WILL FIGHT OUT IN RATES

Railroads Decide to Combat Any Such Action of Commission.

CALL THE CUT CONFISCATORY

Reduction Was Ordered Some Time Ago, but Was Held Up Pending Decision in Minnesota Rate Case.

The Nebraska railroads will fight any attempt the State Railway commission may make to enforce order No. 19, designed to reduce freight rates within the state 20 to 40 per cent, the proposed reduction depending upon the classification of the shipments.

Attorneys Loomis and Rich of the Union Pacific have returned from Chicago, where Friday they attended a meeting of the freight traffic officials and legal representatives of the roads operating in Nebraska. At this meeting it was unanimously decided that all the roads operating in the state should resist the order of the Nebraska commission.

The commission has set October 9 as the date when the railroad freight traffic men are cited to appear at Lincoln and show cause why order No. 19 should be applied. The railroad people will be on hand with their showing against the order. If the commission decides to apply the rates provided for in the order, an appeal will be taken by the railroads and the case will go to the supreme court of the United States or a final adjudication. This was the decision at the Chicago meeting.

Loss of Auction. Messrs. Loomis and Rich left Chicago before the conclusion of the meeting. All of the freight traffic men and most of the attorneys remained for the purpose of figuring out the line of action to be pursued in carrying on the legal fight that will be necessary in resisting the order.

Railroad men are greatly exercised over the decision of the Nebraska Railway commission and look upon the hearing at Lincoln as the first step in seeking to enforce order No. 19. They unhesitatingly express the opinion that should the commission finally win in the long drawn-out litigation that is bound to come, Nebraska roads would be practically put out of business and only those doing a large volume in interstate traffic could exist. They say that the enforcement of the order would destroy all jobbing centers and tear down the cities and towns that are not supported wholly by local trade. In addition they say that such lines as depend upon local business would not make enough money to pay operating expenses.

PECULIAR ENGLISH IS GROUNDS FOR RELEASE

Frank Clark, colored, 1905 South Eleventh street, from the island of Jamaica, created considerable curiosity as to his nationality by the manner in which he spoke the English language when brought before Judge Foster. Clark was arrested for vagrancy and in his plea to the judge conversed in king's English. Foster recognized his type at once, having recently visited Panama, where there are many negroes of his kind who speak in the same manner. He was discharged and Captain Cline of the Salvation Army stated that he would secure work for him.

Killing Frosts Visit Mountain States and Western Nebraska

A killing frost was registered Friday night in Wyoming, Montana and North Dakota. The lowest temperature so far this season was indicated at those points by a temperature below freezing. The United States weather reports show a light to heavy frost starting about the middle of Nebraska and extending west to Denver and as far south as New Mexico.

The weather indications for Omaha are a rising temperature Sunday. Forecaster Walsh says a scorching hot day need not be expected Sunday, however.

So far as the state is concerned, the cool wave of Friday night is to be of short duration, according to the railroads operating in Nebraska. The reports at hand indicate that everywhere the weather is growing warmer. Friday night the temperature throughout the state boundaries ranged from 40 to 70 degrees Fahrenheit, with frost in the extreme northwest. The temperature during the night went down to 30 above at Scott's Bluff, the coldest point in Nebraska.

It was cloudy all over the state, but no rain, except from Lyons to Sioux City, where the precipitation was close to an inch.

Recall of Pistol Favored by Women Who Fear Robbers

Mrs. Mary Church wants to recall the pistol. She is not circulating a regular recall petition, according to the rules that govern such pastime, but she is diligently speaking to railroad men, commercial club heads, business men, pawnbrokers and others and is even preparing a letter to President Wilson and the Secretary of State Bryan, asking them for legislation abolishing the revolver and prohibiting the further manufacture of small firearms that can be concealed in the clothing.

"If we didn't have pistols we wouldn't have holdups," she says. "A man couldn't hold up a whole train of people with a knife. If he should draw a knife I would jerk out my hatpin and go at his eye, like this," and she did a noble thrust in a French duel.

Mrs. Church lives at Twenty-first and Harnes street. She has traveled widely and says she is in deadly terror of her life when she travels on account of the train robbers.

"I have been robbed myself in Omaha," she said, "and I saw two other women robbed and held up in broad daylight on the streets here." She insists that since the pistol has no other function except to kill human beings it has no longer any place in civilized society.

"MADE IN OMAHA GOODS" MAY BE SHOWN IN WINDOWS

A window display of goods "made in Omaha" is planned by the Omaha Manufacturers' association as part of vigorous fall activities. A full membership campaign also will be made and business houses will be decorated for Ak-Sar-Ben week.

TIME OF GAS HEARING IS SET

Judges Munger Meet with Attorneys for City and Company.

NAME MASTER IN CHANCERY

Light of Two Months is Placed on the Hearing, When Master Will Report His Findings to the Federal Court.

Hearing of testimony in the dollar gas suit, instituted by the Omaha Gas company to show that dollar gas in conflictory, will begin before a master in chancery the first Monday in January. Judge T. C. Munger of the federal court will name the master.

Assistant City Attorney W. C. Lambert for the city and Attorney Lee Herdman for the gas company met with Judges T. C. and W. H. Munger and fixed the date of hearing. The hearing probably will be closed March 1, although the closing date is not arbitrary if due diligence marks the hearings.

Judge T. C. Munger will have named the master in chancery before November 1. He will submit to the gas company and the city a list of masters agreeable to him and if the city and gas company can agree on one of these he will be appointed, but if no agreement can be reached a man will be appointed from the list anyway.

Work of preparing a supplemental inventory will be brought down to September 1, 1913. The five volume report of the appraiser employed by the city last year brings the appraisal up to September 1, 1912. "The city may secure more 'expert' help to appraise the gas company's property."

In this action the gas company indirectly seeks to maintain the present rate of $1.15 per 1,000 cubic feet for gas by showing gas at $1 as provided in an ordinance passed by the city council is confiscatory.

COMMERCIAL CLUB TO HANDLE MANY VISITORS

This year Commercial club members who desire to take Ak-Sar-Ben visitors to lunch with them at the Commercial club dining room will have a larger and more magnificent dining room in which to entertain them. This will be the first Ak-Sar-Ben season since the club has moved into its new quarters on the eighteenth floor of the Woodman of the World building. It has always been a custom of many members to bring Ak-Sar-Ben visitors who are friends and acquaintances to the club rooms for luncheon.

W. C. T. U. ELECTS DELEGATES TO FREMONT CONVENTION

The delegates of the Omaha union of the Women's Christian Temperance union to the state convention at Fremont, September 22, were elected Friday. Those who will attend the state convention as delegates from Omaha are, Mrs. D. C. John, Mrs. Daisy Dunlop, Mrs. Jetter and Mrs. Latta.

Omaha Looks Good to George H. Kelly After Trip Abroad

"You bet Omaha looks good to me," said George H. Kelly, president of the Commercial club, on returning from Europe, where he spent the summer. "No, it was only a vacation trip," he said, "and the committee business in regard to the Anglo-American exposition was merely a kind of a side line for me."

He spent his time in Paris, London, Switzerland and other points of interest. He says that the exposition grounds and buildings where the 1914 exposition, to commemorate the 100 years of peace between Great Britain and America is to be held, are laid out and planned much after the plan of the Omaha Trans-Mississippi exposition.

When he first visited the grounds in London he remarked on this fact and was told by the man who was showing him around that a great deal of information gained at the Omaha exposition in a five days' visit was used in designing the grounds and buildings for this one.

Mr. Kelly says there are 7,000 purchasing agents living in London permanently, who represent business houses from the United States, France, Holland, Spain and other nations. "I believe," he says, "that the coming exposition would be of great value to all firms of the United States who wish to find a market abroad."

LARGEST ELECTRIC SIGN FOR WELLINGTON BLOCK

The largest electric sign west of the Mississippi river is to be erected on top of the Wellington block on Farnam street, just west of the city hall. The contract for its erection has been made through the Martin Brothers real estate and insurance agency.

The Wellington block electric sign will be for advertising purposes and will be 400x200 feet, its lower edge standing twenty feet above the roof of the building. It will carry more than 1,000 bulbs and will be of the twinkling variety. For instance, on the signs there may be a dozen or more advertisements. The lights in one of the advertisements will shine for a minute and then automatically they will disappear and instantaneously another advertisement will take its place. The border will be of small light bulbs, worked out to represent morning glory blossoms. The cost of installation will be not far from $5,000.

BOOKS ON GARBAGE ARE AT THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

The steady call at the public library for books and pamphlets relating to the disposal of garbage is a result of the daily articles printed in The Bee on this subject. The Omaha public library has in the municipal collection several pamphlets relating to the subject, the best of which are those issued by the Milwaukee bureau of economy and efficiency. The most noticeable book on the shelves is one entitled, "Garbage Crematories in America," by William Venable, which appears to give absolutely the last word on the subject. To the readers of fiction, who believe that the public library is intended to supply only fiction, it will be somewhat of a surprise to know that even books on garbage disposal are available.

LOWER BIDS ARE RECEIVED

Contractors Come Way Down for Court House Approach.

ZIEGLER IS NOW THE LOWEST

Smoke is Also Seen Around the Court House with Reference to the Bids for Some County Bridge Work.

Evidence of a change of heart on the part of contractors who had desired to build the approaches on the north side of the court house at a cost to the county of more than $12,000 was given to the Board of County Commissioners when new bids were opened yesterday. Calvin Ziegler, who, according to a report made to the board had said he had three commissioners' votes, was found to have reduced his bid from $12,901 to $10,465.

Ziegler's first bid several weeks ago was $44,000 for the necessary granite and for the work. He then said he estimated the cost of the granite at $30,000, leaving $14,000 as the price which he wanted to collect for the same work on which he is now bidding. Ziegler was the only bidder on the work then and the board purchased the granite, deciding to deliver it here to a contractor.

Alleged Board is Divided. Following charges by Henry B. Mayo that Ziegler tried to hold him up for $500 because of his alleged control of three members of the Board of County Commissioners, it was said at the court house that the board was divided into two camps—on one side Chairman McDonald, Harte and O'Connor, and on the other of John Lynch and Frank Best.

Comments on Reduction. It was a fact that Commissioner Lynch commented audibly in the meeting room on the large reductions made in the contractor's estimates.

The following bids were made today: George C. Collins, $10,700; Belden-Bock Construction company, $10,700; Calvin Ziegler, $10,465. The bidders agree to finish the work in thirty days after the arrival of the last consignment of granite, except that in Ziegler's proposal is a clause which calls for consecutive delivery of the granite, so as to permit continuous work.

The last formal bids that were made on the work were: Calvin Ziegler, $12,901; Mayo & Campen, $12,540; Arringer Construction company, $12,500; Bridges & Hays, $12,700.

Smoke which has been decreed about the court house contract also is threatening to engulf the contract for the county's bridge work, bids on which have been open for weeks. Action was taken on the bids at a meeting of the board Friday afternoon, but a representative of the Omaha Structural Steel company made a request that action be deferred until today, when, he thought, Commissioner Harte, however, was not present and action on the bids was again postponed. The contract will amount to about $50,000.
