

COLD STORAGE MEN PLEASED

Say New Rules by Food Commissioner Harman Agreeable.

BURDEN FALLS ON RETAILER

He Will Be Lawfully Unable to Sell Storage Foods Hereafter Unless They Have Been So Labeled.

Omaha cold storage men are pleased with the rules prepared by Food Commissioner Harman relating to cold storage goods and which were just made public through the newspapers. They say the law will have no effect on them...

Will Have No Bad Effect.

The announcement made by Commissioner Harman will have little effect on us, said John P. Jerpe of the Jerpe Commission company. The only thing we will be compelled to do is to label our goods 'cold storage food'...

Protects Consumers.

A. J. Marsh, Jr., of the firm of Marsh & Marsh said the enforcement of the cold storage law will have a better effect on the householder. 'We will have no trouble under the new law,' he said...

Charley Gates is Going After Bear

Charles G. Gates of Chicago, out of the late John W. Gates, was in Omaha for a few minutes Tuesday en route to Cody, Wyo., where he expects to join the party of Moose and under the direction of William F. Coley get out in the mountains and snare a few bears.

CAPT. STRITZINGER AGAIN IS HANDLING THE CADETS

Captain F. G. Stritzinger, who has returned from a visit in the east, Monday reviewed the high school cadet regiment, which has been reorganized during his absence by the cadet officers. The new arrangement of the cadets has been based entirely on the lines of the new and more regular and presentable appearance has been given the companies by the plan.

Captain Stritzinger unofficially approved the assignment of officers and privates to their companies and battalions. In spite of the new arrangement, whereby any cadet may be permanently carried from drill for the year upon personal application of the parent to Principal Kate A. McHugh, very few have signed their intention of attempting to evade drilling and the regiment is at present at the beginning of the year, as large as it usually is in the latter part of the season.

Principal McHugh and Captain Stritzinger have decided to adopt a new system with regard to the quartermaster's sales than that in practice in former years. Heretofore the captain and quartermaster has invested his own money into the regiment for the purchase in large quantities of belts, gloves and sundries required by the cadets. These have then been sold to the officers and privates at considerable profit to the quartermaster.

Under the proposed system the purchases will be made from the school fund, thus relieving the quartermaster from all personal responsibility, and all profits from the sales will be placed in the cadet fund. This fund consists at present of about $200, and the new scheme it is thought will add nearly $100 more during the course of the year. The commission tent at the cadet encampment will also be financed from the school fund and the profits turned over to the cadet fund.

Captain Stritzinger, because of his month's leave of absence from the quartermaster's depot, United States army, will not be in charge of the cadets at the school until after the first of October. Lieutenant Atlanta of Fort Omaha is commanding during Captain Stritzinger's absence.

Onions Flavored With Hay Served

Robert A. Smith of the Union Pacific colonization department is in from a six-days' trip with the company's forage crop special that covered eastern Colorado and western Kansas. On the trip the train stopped at thirty-five towns in the two states and the lecturers, who included crop experts from the University of Colorado, talked to 15,000 people, mostly farmers.

The last meeting was held in Denver and was in a measure under the auspices of the Denver Chamber of Commerce. At this meeting, that was presided over by the governor, who was toastmaster, a forage crop banquet was given, everything on the menu having to do with forage plants—for instance, new onions, flavored with new mown hay was served, while chicken, garnished with young alfalfa sprouts was one of the delicacies.

Higby Grows Big Corn in Wyoming

Anson Higby, a brother of Ira and Beach Higby of this city and for many years a banker of Nebraska, but now an extensive land owner in Wyoming, has demonstrated that corn of excellent quality can be grown in that state. The largest holdings of Mr. Higby are in the vicinity of Basin, Wyo., where he has developed a large farm. For two or three years he has been breeding a corn that has now reached a stage of perfection for the Wyoming climate. He has sent a box of this year's crop to the Burlington general freight office. The ears about as large as those of the Nebraska crop grown during average years and are filled to the tips. This year the corn fully ripened before the frosts, which occur late in August. Mr. Higby has a field of 100 acres of this corn and he estimates that it will yield from forty to sixty bushels per acre.

COMMISSIONERS ARE TO FIX DATE OF ELECTION

Ordinances calling for a special election November 4 to vote on the home rule charter, the proposition of issuing $300,000 library bonds and $25,000 auditorium bonds were read before the city commission and referred to the committee of the whole next Monday for discussion. City Attorney John A. Hine drafted the ordinance and fixed the tentative date of the election, the commissioners to later decide on the actual date for the election.

D. D. D. Opens New Era in Cure of Skin Disease

Professor Dudley's case of eczema was known to almost every hospital and physician of reputation throughout the state of Connecticut. His letter is another interesting demonstration of what is being accomplished by the famous specific D. D. D. Prescription. 'It may be of interest to you to know that your life-saving preparation, D. D. D. Prescription has been of incalculable value to me. I was covered with eczema from head to foot when I began using your remedies. I could get no relief, although I tried a thousand medicines. I applied but two bottles of the Prescription; a cure was effected in a very short time, in less than one month.'

Coal Dealers to Be Watched for Giving Trade Short Tons

John Grant Pegg, assistant senior of weights and measures, has appealed to the city legal department for advice on complaints that coal dealers are resorting to subterfuge to increase the price of coal. He says a charge is made for delivery and the purchaser is not notified that such charge is being made, but the dealer deducts from the amount of coal a quantity sufficient to make up for the delivery charge.

'This cannot legally be done,' said City Attorney John A. Hine, 'and the dealer or weights and measures can proceed to prosecute the dealers for selling short-weight. If it had been the custom to deliver coal without charge and the dealers have made no announcement of their intent to charge and the customer is therefore not aware that such charge is being made, there is no contract to pay such charge.'
