Tony Damato Saves Lester Ebert from Death in Water Hole

Tony Damato, aged 21 years, 1218 South Twentieth street, yesterday saved the life of Lester Ebert, 12-year-old son of William Ebert, 292 Poppleton avenue.

The emergency crew of the water company appeared on the scene and at 3:30 o'clock had shut the water off.

The broken main cut one-third the city off from water supply for forty-eight hours. The pipe was repaired Sunday and Sunday night, a force of workmen keeping at the job of repairing it throughout the night.

Muddy water was pumped into the majority of homes Sunday and Monday, due to the increased rapidity of water flowing through the pipes following the break.

SMITH HOLDS UP WARRANT

Prevents Payment of $7,000 to Agricultural Society by County.

APPEALS FROM BOARD'S ACTION

Attorney Alleges County Commissioners Exceeded Authority and Calls the New Law Unconstitutional.

Edward A. Smith and T. E. Brady, attorneys, basing their right to come into district court on the ground that they are taxpayers, have appealed from the decision of the Board of County Commissioners allowing the Douglas County Agricultural society $7,236.50 under a new statute passed by the last legislature

Mr. Smith, the plaintiff, not only alleges that the board had no power under the law to allow such a large sum, but attacked the statute as unconstitutional. The law provides that after the agricultural society fulfills certain conditions the county board shall order a warrant drawn in favor of the president of the society for a sum amounting to 5 cents for each inhabitant of the county on the basis of the last vote

He alleges that because the law itself is broader than its title it is unconstitutional and asserts that courts have held that in such cases it is likely that legislators were deceived by the title and that the law should not be upheld.

Old Superstition Follows Mike to the Land of the Free

Around the corner on Nineteenth street, just south of Howard, on the carnival midway, is the Oriental show and the headline attraction of the Oriental show is Gail Gail Mike, a combination of Oriental and Irish folk, but the nearest a translator could come to it. Gail Gail Mike has been playing magician for many a year in the United States until now he can talk English about as good as can a college professor, but Gail Gail Mike has retained one of his old world characteristics, his religion.

For all his travel and experience, Gail Gail Mike is still superstitious to the core. His superstition does not follow the lines of American superstition, and he has no fear of thirteens or Fridays, or a perfect horror of the elements of nature and worships the sun and the rain, ure and worships the sun and the rain.

TO HELP LINCOLN HIGHWAY

Omaha and State of Nebraska Must Raise $25,000 for It.

WILL GIVE OUT CERTIFICATES

They Will Be Sold at Five Dollars Each and Will Entitle Owners to Stockholders' Privileges in Organization.

Omaha and the state of Nebraska will raise $25,000 for the improvement of the Lincoln highway and its upkeep. This was settled at a meeting held by automobile men from all parts of Nebraska. H. E. Fredrickson, who will act as the state counsel for Nebraska, wired the Lincoln Highway association for 5,000 certificates of membership, which will be sold to automobile owners and dealers all over the state at $5 each, thus realizing $25,000.

These certificates are sent out by the Lincoln Highway association. Every person purchasing one of these certificates becomes a stockholder in the association and is given a copper plate which is affixed to the front of his automobile, and in addition is given a card showing that he or she is a member of the association. These certificates will arrive in Omaha about the latter part of this week, and it is expected that between 500 and 1,000 will be sold in Omaha alone.

October 21 has been set aside as a day of celebration by the towns along the Lincoln highway from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast. On the evening of this day the cities will celebrate in honor of the route with bonfires, parades, banquets, concerts, speeches and mass meetings. The object is to stimulate interest from coast to coast in the first transcontinental highway which follows the original overland trail from Omaha west.

President H. E. Glatfelter of the Platte Valley Automobile association has set October 2 as the date when all the poles in the state marked with the Platte sign will be painted over and the Lincoln highway mark be placed thereon instead. The line chosen from Omaha to Cheyenne by the Lincoln Highway association is the same trail blazed over a year ago by H. E. Fredrickson and the business men of Omaha and the good roads committee of the Commercial club believes that its choice by the Lincoln association is the dividend for their work and are highly elated and proud of the work they did then.

SOIL IS IN FINE SHAPE

Railroad Reports Show There Has Been Abundance of Rain.

WINTER WHEAT IS BEING SOWN

Pastures Are in Fine Shape—More Area Seems to Be Devoted to Alfalfa Than in Any Former Years.

The Burlington's crop and soil report for the week ending Saturday, compiled by agents at all stations in Nebraska and sent to General Superintendent Allen, shows that during the period covered there was an abundance of rain in Nebraska, ranging from one-half to three inches. Added to this, everywhere in the state there was a steady rain

So far as the Burlington report deals with crops, that is a thing of the past, as everything but sugar beets are out of the way and these are estimated to be up to the normal yield and in some localities, above reported to have improved wonderfully since the rains set in and are going into the winter in prime condition.

In all portions of the state, with the exception of a limited area in the extreme southwest corner, it is estimated that the acreage of winter wheat will be as great as last year. In the section referred to there will be a slight falling off and the ground will be sowed to alfalfa instead.
