AK-SAR-BEN GIVEN CROWN

Magnificent Ceremony Marks Coronation of King and Queen.

CHARLES E. BLACK IS THE KING

Elizabeth Congdon is Queen, Who Mounts Throne in King's Castle Amid Blasts of Jewels and Pleasants of People.

making. Maidens from the ages of 14 to 17 were, fresh as the dew, beautiful as the rose. Theoret of all the realm they were, and the most agile. For they danced their merry way to the great rostrum. Even here they did not stop, but they danced their way up the royal stairs and glided nimbly toward the throne itself.

Twelve special maids of the queen entered close behind the dancing princesses. When they had reached the center of the hall, while the princesses and duchesses were still dancing about the throne of the king, the queen's litter appeared in the doorway borne by six litter carriers. Even as his majesty had been taken to the rostrum, so was the queen taken to the same spot. His majesty stepped forward from the throne to meet her. Giving her his hand, he led her to a seat beside him on the throne.

Felicitations for King.

The band now played forth with brave music. The knights and ladies arose and marched away. Each of the governors escorted a lady to the throne, where they felicitated the new king. The band burst into a march. The populace then flocked about their new ruler crying, "Hail to the King" and "Long Live the King."

The orchestra took the music off the hands of the band and in a few moments the great coronation ball was on. Five hundred couples out of the remotest provinces of the king's realm were there to enjoy the coronation ball.

For this occasion the great castle was decorated up to the pinnacle of its possibilities. Every pillar was swathed in green, and running wild with ivy and climbing roses. Giant chandeliers, weighted down with palm, fern and wild foliage, hung high above the shining floor. Great strings of yellow and green and red, the Ak-Sar-Ben colors, everywhere ran from center of castle to the great walls. Festoons of foliage swung low around the giant corridor. Hundreds of electric bulbs flashed sharp darts of light, each peeping from the passionate heart of a red rose.

Must Promise Not to Marry for Two Years

Miss Lily Strong, general secretary of the Young Women's Christian association, is determined that all young women secretaries who enter the service of the association shall do so under the stipulation that they will remain in its employ for at least one year. The constant changing necessary as a result from young women getting married has bothered Miss Strong, who finds it rather hard to train new secretaries to the requirements of the association. She is consequently requesting new secretaries to promise faithfully that they will stay with the job at least one year and forego every opportunity of marriage in the meantime.

Merchant Burned to Death in Store

ALBERDEEN, S. D., Oct. 1.-Special Telegram.-Lambert Tinkhof, aged 43, a hardware merchant, was burned to death in a fire which destroyed the opera house building at Herred, S. D.
