IN CONTROL OF THE ASSEMBLY

vading his jurisdiction even to a point of questioning his selection of a minister of state.

By its demagogic tendencies, General Huerta said, it had attacked the basis of the existence of the nation and had taken on itself all branches of the government. He declared his patience with the body had been taxed to the limit.

The president referred to the recent refusal of the Chamber to grant leave to Deputy Eduardo Tamariz to occupy the public instruction portfolio on the grounds of his affiliation with the Catholic party. He also referred to the investigation instituted by the deputies of certain acts of Jose Limantour, when he was minister of finance under General Porfirio Diaz.

General Huerta charged that the investigation which the deputies proposed to make was solely within the province of judicial power. He called on them to withdraw the resolution warning him of their intention to hold sessions elsewhere.

The deputies, who had listened sullenly to the reading by Manuel Garza Aldape, the minister of the interior of General Huerta's reply, moved at its conclusion to refer the president's demand to committee and a motion was put to adjourn.

Minister Aldape interposed an objection, saying that the president required immediate action. At this the deputies demurred and persisted on putting the motion to adjourn. Thereupon the minister of the interior signalled to Chief of Police Chavez, who was stationed on the balcony.

The chief of police came down to the floor of the Chamber with 200 police. Senator Aldape then read the names of the signers of the resolution, and as the names were called the deputies were taken into custody.

Among the deputies placed under arrest are Rodolfo Reyes, a son of the late General Bernardo Reyes and ex-provisional minister of justice, and Jergo Vera Estanola, former provisional minister of public instruction. Nearly all the men imprisoned are members of the liberal party.

Reason for Resolutions. The unexplained absence from his seat in the Senate and the disappearance from his residence at a local hotel of Senator Bellazero Dominguez, representing the state of Chiapas, was what precipitated the heated debate at the Chamber of Deputies' secret session. The debate resulted in a warning being conveyed to Provisional President Huerta by unanimous vote of the body that unless the deputies were given assurances of their personal safety they would hold sessions elsewhere than in the capitol.

A resolution was adopted informing the executive that the deputies placed their lives under his specific protection and holding him responsible for the violation of immunity from arrest which the Mexican constitution gives to senators and deputies.

Senator Dominguez dropped from sight yesterday following his speech made in the senate chamber early this month attacking the policies of Provisional President Huerta.

Policeman Arrests Dominguez. The only information obtained by the committee appointed by the Chamber of Deputies to investigate his disappearance was from Senator Dominguez's little son, who said that a policeman had taken his father away from the hotel.

Supporting the resolution offered by the Chiapas state delegation in the chamber Deputy Eduardo Nori declared that with the recent elimination of Dr. Aureliano Uruvita as minister of the interior he had believed there would be an end to such disappearances.

"We have seen," Senator Nori continued, "that Deputies Garrion and Rendon died, the latter in such a manner that his body cannot be found. We must take energetic action. The executive has raised the black flag of infamy. We must raise the red flag of sacrifice and faith."

Deputy Armando Ochoa delivered the appeal for the appointment of an investigating committee "even at the risk of his life," which if it finds Senator Dominguez has lost his life shall present an accusation against the persons responsible, "even if they include the president of the republic."

A committee was appointed to interrogate the governor of the federal district and the interior minister, Manuel Garza Aldape. It reported back to the deputies that neither official was able to throw any light on the disappearance of Senator Dominguez.

DEATH RECORD.

George H. Ord. TABLE ROCK, Neb., Oct. 11.—(Special.)—George H. Ord, who settled in Pawnee county more than half a century ago with his parents, settling on a farm between here and Pawnee City, died at his home in Pawnee City, where he moved some years ago, in his fifty-seventh year. The funeral services were in charge of the local Modern Woodmen camp, of which he had long been a member. He leaves a wife, two brothers, four sisters and seven children.

Mrs. Martha Gregory. FAIRBURY, Neb., Oct. 11.—(Special.)—After an extended illness, Mrs. Martha Gregory died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Maggie Grothaus, near Reynolds, in this county. Mrs. Gregory was over 75 years of age. Mrs. Gregory and children came to Nebraska in 1883 and located on a farm near Reynolds.

Wind in Garfield
Tears Down Homes

BURWELL, Neb., Oct. 11.—(Special.)—A very severe wind and hail storm passed over Burwell last evening, but the wind did but little damage in town, but was severe in the country. The storm came from the southwest and passed over the city, but struck about a mile north of town and tore up the farm houses of C. H. Gilliam and also Mrs. Anna Peterson and C. L. Walker and John Dinsel as they rode again and did no more damage until it struck again just west of Dewey, where it wrecked a couple of farm houses and again rose and then did the most damage when it struck again in the vicinity of Erlina, where it completely wrecked the ranch of Charles McCarthy and demolished his barns and his new house, doing about $15,000 damage.

In Burwell there was but little damage done except by hail. The windows on the west of the school house were all broken and the front of the post-office was broken and nearly every west front more or less damaged by hail. Several half stones were picked up after the storm that was larger than goose eggs. The storm struck about 8 o'clock.

WONDERFUL SHOTS IN BATTLE

Two Notable Instances, One at Antietam, the Other at Yorktown.

The battle of Antietam, called by the confederates the battle of "Sharpsburg," because it was fought in the immediate vicinity of that town, was so full of remarkable incidents and so momentous in its results that its chronicle (written by soldiers in both armies) now covers thousands of pages.

It was during this battle that Longstreet and Lee, having received a report of a federal movement, started up a ridge to make a reconnaissance. Longstreet thus describes a wonderful shot:

"General Lee and I dismounted, but Hill (General D. H. Hill) declined to do as I said to Hill: 'If you insist on riding up there and drawing the fire, give us a little interval, so that we may not be in the line of the fire when they open up on you.' General Lee and I stood on the top of the crest with our glasses, looking at the movements of the federals on the rear left. After a moment I turned my glass to the right—the federal left. As I did so I noticed a puff of white smoke from the mouth of a cannon. 'That is a shot for you,' I said to General Hill. The summer was a mile away and the cannon shot came whistling through the air for three or four seconds and took off the front legs of the horse that Hill sat on, and let the animal down upon its stumps. The horse's head was so low and his crop so high that Hill was in a most ludicrous position. With one foot in the stirrup he made several efforts to get the other leg over the crop, but failed. Finally we prevailed on him to try the other end of the horse, and he got down. He had a third horse shot under him before the close of the battle.

"That shot at Hill was the second best shot I ever saw. The best was at Yorktown. There a federal officer came out in front of our line, and, sitting down to his little plotting table, began to make a map. One of our officers carefully sighted a gun, touched it off and dropped a shell into the hands of the man at the little table."

The union officer, struck by this marvelous shot has been identified by several eye-witnesses as First Lieutenant Orlando G. Wagner, topographical engineer, in front of Yorktown.

Burgess Woodbury, United States army, writing in "Battles and Leaders," says: "Early on the morning of September 17, 83, I was standing near the guns of Captain Stephen H. Weed, Fifth artillery, when a small group came in sight, directly in our front, about a mile away. There was no firing at that time of any importance on our left, and Captain Weed, who was a superb marksman himself, aimed and fired at the single mounted man and struck the horse."

I witnessed the shot and have no doubt it was the one General Longstreet commemorates as the "second-best." General Longstreet kindly writes me that he cannot now recall the hour, but that there was little firing at the time and that the place was about twenty feet from the Boonsboro pike, north of Philadelphia Record.

HELEN TREYNOR DIES
AFTER SHORT ILLNESS

Helen Treynor, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. V. L. Treynor, died yesterday afternoon at the Edmondson hospital of thrombosis of the mesenteric artery. The little girl had undergone an operation as the last resort to save her life. She had been ill only a week. She was one of the brightest pupils of the Bloomer school and a favorite among her comrades. The body was removed from the hospital to the residence of her parents, 511 Third avenue. Arrangements for the funeral have not been completed.

SEVERE ELECTRICAL STORM

In Country Around Council Bluffs Damage is Considerable.

HOUSES AND BARN DESTROYED

Ernest Steffen, Ten Miles Northeast of Town, One of Heaviest Losers by Fire—Heavy Rain During Night.

A severe electrical storm passed over this city and vicinity Thursday night. The storm began about 10 o'clock and lasted, at intervals, until after midnight. Lightning struck in many places, but the most serious damage was done in Hazel Dell township, where a new house was struck and destroyed by fire. In the vicinity of Treynor, a barn and nine head of horses were burned.

The residence of Harry Scott, located about six miles northeast of Council Bluffs just completed, but not occupied, was struck by lightning and destroyed. Scott and his family were staying at the home of his father about half a mile distant, and knew nothing of their misfortune until they were awakened by a neighbor. A small barn and some sheds nearby were likewise destroyed. The loss is fully covered by insurance.

The barn destroyed near Treynor was on the Ernest Steffen farm ten miles northeast of Council Bluffs. It was completely destroyed by the fire that followed the lightning stroke. The fire spread so rapidly that there was no chance to save any of the nine horses. All of the other contents of the barn, including about $200 worth of harness, several hundred bushels of grain and a large quantity of hay burned. The loss will approximate between $3,000 and $4,000, partly protected by insurance.

The storm was very severe in all other parts of the county and numerous instances of lightning striking were reported. Some stock was reported killed by the lightning, running along wire fences. Nearly an inch of rain fell.

Somebody Steals
the Auto Tires

Mrs. Cua, 213 Eleventh avenue, reported to the police yesterday that two junk buyers, whom she described accurately, drove into the alley in the rear of her residence, entered the barn and stole an extra tire from an automobile and four inner tubes. She was alone and was afraid to oppose them. Upon the description given the police they thought they recognized Dave Etherton, and when they went to his home they found there Harry Meyers, J. Sullivan and Osea Pelt of Omaha, and Harry Moranville of Red Cloud, Neb. All of the men were taken into custody and held without any charges placed against them for further investigation.

The police did not disclose any evidence connecting Etherton or either of the other men, but one of whom fitted the description given by Mrs. Cua. All of the men were in jail under $500 bonds by order of Police Judge Snyder for hearing today.

NO DAMAGES ALLOWED TO THE MISSES BIXBY

A jury in Judge Woodruff's division of the district court returned a verdict after a short deliberation in the case of Misses Helene and Josie Bixby against John Olson. They sued for $10,000 damages for alleged wrongful detention of their personal property, when Olson attached the household goods of Frank Bixby to secure payment of a grocery bill. The jury returned a verdict for Olson.

The trial had occupied several days and caused a good deal of bitterness between the attorneys. On Thursday afternoon Judge Woodruff was compelled to rise from his seat and pointedly rebuke one of the attorneys, threatening him with the immediate dismissal of his suit if the line of conduct being followed was persisted in. This altercation with the court followed the ruling of Judge Woodruff denying the right of the plaintiffs to maintain their claim for exemplary damages to the amount of more than $5,000. The second ebullition of temper occurred yesterday during the final arguments, when the short and ugly word was passed between the attorneys and the use of flats was prevented only by the prompt intervention of the court bailiff.

The court's ruling that only actual damages could be secured, left the claim still of large proportions. The Misses Bixby listed goods valued at $350, lingerie worth $250, night dresses valued at $200 and many other large items, claimed to be damaged, while held by Olson's attachment and further depreciated by passing out of style. The jury refused to concede any damage.

Windsor School

Scholars Reveal Modern Training

Patrons of Windsor school last night made use of the open school house idea when they attended an exhibition by the pupils of the seventh grade given partly to reveal the methods employed in teaching and partly for pure entertainment.

The young students under the direction of Miss Cordelia Johnson gave in an elaborated form what is ordinarily a part of their school duties. With the aid of a radio-phon, views of the Panama canal were shown and as each one was presented some pupil gave a brief description. The history of the canal was set forth together with views of other great canals and views illustrating the saving to shipping both in dangers and mileage that the engineering work will accomplish.

All these were selected from magazines and books by the children themselves and arranged by the teacher in charge. The work forms a part of the school curriculum, making study a pleasure instead of a bore.

The evening was devoted almost entirely to illustrated talks save for a few words from the principal, Miss Harriet Eddy, who explained the aim of modern graded school work. Nearly every grade in the school makes use of the radio-phon, the instrument itself having been bought with pennies that they would otherwise have used less wisely for personal expenditures.
