

WOMEN ARE TO HELP SHOW

Women of Visiting Delegates to Aid in Social Festivities.

FRATERNITIES WILL JOIN IN

Over Fifteen Organizations, with Memberships Extending in All Directions, to Arrange Special Programs.

It is expected that during the ninth annual convention of the Federation of Nebraska Retailers, which will be held during the "Made in Nebraska" show March 11 to 15, there will be from 100 to 200 women, wives, daughters and friends of the retail delegates, in the city at the same time. They will participate in a number of social events and especially arranged so far are a matinee box party, several theater parties and also a society night at the Auditorium show.

On society night they will assume the duties and pleasures of entertaining as hostesses at least 1,000 Omaha, South Omaha and Council Bluffs society women. Mrs. Max Flothow, president of the Concordia Ladies' society, will have some seventy-five women in choral numbers. Another feature will be the string quartet. There will be a violin solo, a harp solo and special serenade music. Society night at the "Made in Nebraska" show will be one of the biggest and best features on the entire ten days' program. Already Commercial clubs throughout the state are organizing and appointing committees for special nights. A Lincoln day and night and a Hastings day and night will be two of the biggest special days of the second week.

CATHOLIC MUTUAL BENEFIT ASSOCIATION HAS BANQUET

Nearly fifty members of the two branches of the Catholic Mutual Benefit association sat down to a banquet at the Henshaw Tuesday night. The occasion was in celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the introduction of the Catholic Mutual Benefit association into Omaha and Nebraska.

T. J. Mahoney was toastmaster and spoke reminiscences of the organization of Branch No. 1, of which he was a charter member. The late John B. Puray was its first president and the late John Hammer its first treasurer.

Many changes have taken place in Omaha in the last twenty-five years, since the organization of the Catholic Mutual Benefit association in Omaha and many of its members of that time are now residing in distant cities in the four quarters of the globe.

Wm. Mohr of Branch three and supreme deputy of the Catholic Mutual Benefit association spoke of the organization of the parent branch at Niagara, N. Y., thirty-six years ago and of its growth and development to our organization of nearly 30,000 members in the United States and Canada, paying the widows and orphans of this country up to this year over $5,000,000 and almost an equal amount in Canada.

PROF. FLING LECTURES AT HIGH SCHOOL MONDAY

The Public Library is now advertising the second half of the C. N. Dietz course of lectures for 1912-1913. This portion of the course will be given by Dr. F. M. Fling of the University of Nebraska and will begin Monday at 8:30 p. m. in the Central high school auditorium. The subject of the first lecture will be "The Nineteenth Century." Tickets may be had at the Public Library, of Miss Zora Shields at the high school, or at the entrance of the high school building on the day of the lecture.

These lectures are free but admission will be by ticket. The full course is as follows: January 15—The Nineteenth Century. January 20—The Political Life of the States of Europe. January 27—The International Relations of the European States. February 3—Europe and Her Colonies. February 10—Industrial Democracy in Europe. February 17—The Religious Problem in Europe.

PACIFIC SCHOOL PUPILS TO VISIT UNIVERSITY

Night Eighth B pupils of the Pacific school, Miss Lizzie Banker, principal of the school; Mrs. Carrie Mackenzie, class teacher, and Superintendent E. U. Graff will go to Lincoln, Friday, January 11, to visit the state university. This excursion was planned by the pupils in the place of a regular class program and will be at their own expense, as they have saved money to make the trip in order to gain an idea of the work of the university.

"KEEPING UP WITH WATTVILLE"
By OWEN JOHNSON
Illustrations by Oscar Cesare

Owen Johnson, the author of "Stover at Yale," is among the two or three most popular American writers of fiction. That he is best known as the author of books about boys makes the story that he contributes to the next number of The Semi-Monthly Magazine Section all the more interesting. For "Keeping Up With Wattville" is "different." In its daring originality, its boisterous though good-natured humor, it stands out as a notable contribution to magazine literature. Taken verbatim from the log of the Bar & Bottle Club, the adventures of Wattville, who sleeps in Philadelphia and lives in New York, are a rollicking revelation. It is too good a long short-story to exhaust in one issue, and the concluding installment will appear next month. The illustrations are by Oscar Cesare, the witty cartoonist of the SUN.

"FRIVOLOUS BUSINESS"
By CHARLES W. MEARS
Illustrations by Horace Taylor

An author with something new to say about business and a fresh and convincing way of saying it does not happen along every day. "Frivolous" is the word Mr. Mears has chosen to describe his approach to the subject, but he provides ample food for thought. His article is studded with amusing anecdotes; there is hardly a line that will fail to coax a smile out of you. But behind all his drollery is a big, serious purpose, and we doubt if a better business article has ever been presented to the public. Mr. Mears is himself a practical business man, with his facts at his finger tips; but he holds to the belief that to be instructive one need not be solemn. Hence Taylor contributes some ingenious and humorous pictures.

"NOVEMBER JOE: WOODSMAN DETECTIVE"
"THE MYSTERY OF FLETCHER BUCKMAN"
By HASKETH PRICHARD
Illustrations by Percy E. Cowen

Continuing the exploits of November Joe, the detective of the Great North Woods, a mystery is presented in this story that will hold you breathless to the last line. Fletcher Buckman, a millionaire capitalist, is found hanging in his private car while the train is crossing one of the most lonely sections of Canada. His death is accredited as suicide, but November proves it to be murder and unearths a motive involving a vast fortune. You will find thrills and to spare in the pursuit of the criminal. Percy E. Cowen is the illustrator.

"NEEDED MORE THAN A FALSTAFFIAN ARMY"
By MAJOR-GENERAL LEONARD WOOD

As Chief of Staff of the United States Army, Major-General Leonard Wood writes with unquestioned authority on military matters. He tells us plainly in this editorial that the standing army maintained in this country is not large or strong enough to protect us in case of war. With many thousands of miles of frontier to protect, we need an efficient body of trained citizen soldiers, ready to take up arms at a moment's notice. General Wood is not an alarmist; he states the bare facts of the case, and his message to the American people deserves careful attention.

"AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS AND INSURANCE"
By CHARLES B. HAYWARD

Every year sees an increase in automobile accidents. How to guard against them is a problem, the solution to which is ready at hand, but is not generally understood. Mr. Hayward, in a carefully written article, offers the answer that every automobilist is seeking.

COVER DESIGN
By ALBERT HENCKE

A beautiful girl picture in full color. This is one of the most delicate and attractive designs that we have used on the cover of The Semi-Monthly Magazine Section. Thousands of readers will want to frame it.
