GRAIN AND PRODUCE MARKET

Fear of Damage to the Wheat Crop is Now Allayed.

SNOW PROTECTS IT FROM COLD

May Corn is Now Expected to Sell at 55 Cents Before It Does at 45-Bulls Advocate Buying at Certain Prices.

Show covering, which has been general over the winter wheat belt, has allayed for the time being all fear regarding damage to that crop. The market yesterday, however, showed little or no pressure and is in a waiting attitude, with the undertone steady. The crippled control of the windertone steady. the undertone steady. The crippled con-dition of the wires was followed by ex-treme dullness, indicating that the out-side trade is ordinarily larger than most side trade is ordinarily larger than most of the trade suspects.

The result was a narrow and at times choppy market, which every now and then reflected its unreliableness. Chicago traders reversed their position frequently because of nervous and sudden quotations, but none of the latter carried prices far in either direction. Liberal sales of flour were made at Minneapolis by the arger millers, while the smaller concerns disclaimed any business. Bears in wheat figure that although emperatures at a number of points in Kansas were down to 14 below zero. which is an extremely low temperature for that section, there was sufficient snow covering all over the winter wheat country to give ample protection and they do not expect serious flamage. They say the increase in receiptts in Chicago they do not expect serious famage. They say the increase in receipts in Chicago is due to shipments of recent purchases at Minneapolis, the wheat being brought to Chicago to fill one of the big local elevators. The Chicago crowd played close to shore yesterday. Those who were bullish think it is a little early to begin activities for a big advance, but prefer the buying side on breaks. Cash wheat 1/46 he higher.

Those who are bullish on corn believe that May corn will sell at 55c before t does at 45c. They think corn should be bought on all dips below 50c and they say that it is their belief that the government report has overestimated the crop, except in Iowa, which has a large crop. Their theory is that all the corn will be wanted. The appearance of buying orders in the hands of commission houses at 49c for May corn prevented the bears from making much headway, although they said they believed corn had had its bulges for the time being and that the export business reported lately was mostly in the way of filling old sales. Haller of the Lininger Inplement company, who addressed the Midwest Retail Implement Dealers' assoclation at the Auditorium last night on What the Manufacturer and Retailer Can Do to Improve Present Business Conditions." He was relating how implement accessories and repairs which the farmer and country dealer would demand sent by parcels post would necessitate jobbing houses establishing special parcels post department to take care of receipt and delivery of goods and pay the extra 10 cents charge for receipts on goods.

The express companies, he said, come to the jobbing houses and receive goods to be shipped out and deliver them when

By parcels post the goods will have to he sent from the jobbing house to the postoffice for mailing. The absence of receipts such as express companies de mand from recipients of goods expressed will enable recipients to say they did nor receive the goods and demand other late trains.

During the first four days of the week both lambs and sheep have advanced sharply compared with a week ago. It will be remembered that the best lambs last Thursday sold at $5.55 while as much last Thursday sold at $5.55 while as much urged that cash business be done instead of the "loan and trust" business as now conducted by the "majority of country town dealers."

President's Address. The president's annual address, given by Paul Herpoleheimer of Beward, comprised a history of the four years' existence of the association and the wonderful results of co-operation. Secretary M. L. Goosman and Treasurer C. A. Wagner made their reports, which also showed the work of the association during the last year to have been successful.

Auditorium Filled. The convention hall is filled with various implements, engines and vehicles, Some of the larger traction engines which could not be placed in the building are on exhibition in the street in front with the wheels buzzing and steam spouting.

Already the political pot at the convention headquarters is boiling. Lobbyists for various by-laws and rules and boosters for candidates are going about mustering their forces. Much interest is being aroused in the next president of the BANKERS FAVOR REMOVAL association. The principal man talked of is Vice President Ed Lehmkukl of Wahoo. Many dealers want to boost him to the presidency. The election will be held the last day of the convention. The meeting place for next year also will be decided then.
