

THE SOCIETY OF THE BEE-HIVE

By MELLIFICIA. Friday, January 10, 1913.

OMAHA travelers who have recently returned from New York have been enjoying the grand opera season there. It is not only the opera itself, which is given by some of the world's greatest singers, but the musical atmosphere, so to speak, the beautifully crowned women, the intellectual audiences, and last, but not least, the dinner parties, preceding the opera, and the supper parties at the New York cafes following the performances," said an enthusiastic opera devotee.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Estabrook, formerly of Omaha, who now reside in New York, have a season box and entertain many friends from Omaha.

The women of the audiences are wonderfully gowned. The silver fox, which is said to be one of the rarest and richest of furs, is used on the gorgeous evening coat by the best gowned women. One pet is usually worn, the center of the fur being under the chin and the ends of the collar are thrown over the shoulders and hang down the back of the coat. Just vice versa from the usual fur collar on the evening coat.

The gowns are dainty chiffons of brilliant shades, covered with iridescent beads. With these gowns are worn wonderful corsage bouquets of perhaps one large jeweled American Beauty rose, made in Paris and costing in itself a small fortune. They are not so perishable as the real flower—are always ready and never harm the gown.

Among the Omahans who have been in New York this year for the operas are Mrs. Herman Kountze, Mrs. J. M. Metcalf, Mrs. Gerritt Fort, Miss Lynn Curtis, Mrs. Jerome Magee and Mrs. E. M. Fairfield.

Peterson-Syme Wedding.

A pretty home wedding was celebrated Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Syme when their daughter, Janet, became the bride of Mr. Alva William Peterson of Griswold, Ia. Rev. J. R. Beard, pastor of Central Park Congregational church officiated. Miss Lulu McNab played the bridal chorus from Lohengrin.

The bride's gown was of white chiffon cloth draped and caught with white mesaline and trimmed with shadow lace. She carried an arm bouquet of bride's roses and wore a gold necklace and brooch, the gift of the groom.

Miss Margaret Snow, a sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and wore pink and white silk suit trimmed with pink mesaline. She carried pink and white carnations. Miss Mildred Cone and Miss Nellie Peterson, cousin of the bride, stretched white ribbons for the bridal march, and Miss Jennie Gault carried the ring in a tily. They wore dainty white dresses with white ribbons.

Mr. Robert Syme, brother of the bride, was the best man. The bride presented all her attendants with strands of pearls and the groom presented the best man with a scarf pin. Following the ceremony a reception was held, and assisting were Miss Katherine Griswold, Miss Frances Griswold, Miss Lulu McNab and Miss Margaret Syme. Miss Nellie Cone and Miss Martha Syme presided at the punch bowl.

Mr. and Mrs. Peterson will be at home after February 15 at Griswold, Ia.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Bert Peavey, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Peterson and Mr. Frank Peterson, all of Atlantic, Ia.; Miss Gertrude Peterson, Mr. Francis Peterson, Mr. Alfred Peterson, Mr. Anton Peterson and Mr. Fred Boltman, all of Griswold, and Mr. Hittner Rothing of Elliott.

Heavy Snow Again Falls Over State

The western part of Nebraska was given another blanket of fresh snow Thursday night, ranging from one to six inches, furnishing enough additional moisture to make the winter wheat crop of next season practically certain, say the railroad men. The new snow extends pretty well over the south Platte country, the great winter wheat belt of the state, and extends from fifty to 100 miles into Kansas.

Temperatures, according to the railroad reports, are still a little wintery out in the state, being from 2 to 10 degrees above zero. In Wyoming they are from 4 below to 40 degrees above.

OMAHA IS PLANNING RIGHT

Expert on Park Building Says This City Starts Properly.

KEEP THE MOVE FROM POLITICS

Says that Industries Should Be Grouped According to Their Class—Civic Center Is Not Necessary.

Omaha has started on the right road in city planning, according to Myron H. West of Chicago, an expert on park building, who talked before the Commercial club at noon yesterday.

"You have a body of good, public spirited citizens back of the movement," he said, "and I hope you will not allow it to get into politics. City planning is of too great movement to be made a plank in a city campaign."

The speaker warned the club against indiscriminate location of factories and recommended a special district for each division of industrial Omaha. A civic center, he believes, is not absolutely necessary for this city.

"I am not sure that every city should have a civic center," he declared. "Of course, public buildings should have proper settings and most city plans today contemplate the grouping of public buildings, although not always in the center of the town."

City planning, the speaker said, should start with the homes and it cannot be allowed to end as a victorial proposition. Convenience and utility, he declared, were the principal factors. Omaha is built on the checkerboard plan which is liable to be hampered by subdivisions which real estate men map out in winding roadways, he said. This is all right until the city grows beyond the subdivision and then connections with streets is impracticable.

George T. Morton, president of the Civic League, presided at the meeting. He said there were 35 acres cut up into city lots every year in Omaha, which means that 2,200 new lots are added each year.

Five New Carriers to Help Handle Omaha's Increased Business

The parcel post business at the Omaha postoffice was the heaviest Friday that it has been since the inauguration of the new system. Both incoming and outgoing packages were larger in number and in weight than they have been any day since the first of the year.

Word was received by Postmaster Wharton from Washington to put on five new carriers to help handle the increased business. This makes eleven new men for the service in Omaha in less than a year. Five were added to the list of help last June and one more in October, and with those that are to be put on at once speaks well for Omaha as an ever increasing business community.

TWO STAR ATTRACTIONS AT KILPATRICK'S On Saturday, January 11th, 1913

Nearly a half a century ago on January 11th, we first entered the Dry Goods business. In retrospect we look back and we could say to the friends of other days—"It seems to me but yesterday since we were boys, merry, merry boys; since we were boys together." How true it is that "Years are not long, nor lives the longest that survives." But a truce to moralizing and philosphizing; what we wish you to know is that we will to some extent CELEBRATE THE EVENT WITH 2 STAR ATTRACTIONS, as well as several other stellar attractions, all of which should make January 11th of this year of grace, one to be long remembered.

FIRST--A Silk Sale

We might have said, THE instead of A, for there will be nothing approaching it in this part of the country. On Christmas day while dining (en famille) we received a telegram from one of the biggest silk concerns in America, announcing inventory and suggesting that several important lots would be laid aside for us, if we would come on. We wired, "WE WILL BE THERE," and we are mighty glad we went, for we secured the best assortment and the greatest values which we have seen in many a long day. New Goods, many of the very latest and most wanted styles; Foulards, Messalines, Bengalines, Plaids, Cords, Fancies, Little Checks, etc., etc. 23 inches, 27 inches and 36 inches wide; all go on sale Saturday at 10 a. m. Note the hour, please; other sales will start when the store opens—thus giving you an opportunity to be on hand when this important event starts.

LOT 1—Contains an immense variety, splendid quality and style, worth $1.00 and $1.25; at one price, yard..... 59c

LOT 2—Mainly 36-inch goods, fine mesalines, etc., and in this lot are Bengalines and cords for waists, coats and dresses; worth $1.00, $1.50 and $2.00, to go at yard..... 79c

All-day demonstration of Pond's Extract Toilet preparations.

Usual 50c-rubber cushion hair brush, for..... 29c

SECOND--Major Attraction

Will be found on second floor, starting when store opens at 8 A. M.

FINAL FIGURES ON FURS! No mark-ups. No fool pricing of new goods to give us a chance to make a 1/2 PRICE SALE. Desirable Furs, such as we have need not be priced that way. Below we illustrate the reductions; that, however, means but little ordinarily, for the words "Worth" and "former price," are very elastic terms in most places. Come and inspect our Furs and you will at once appreciate the difference. NOW FOR THE PRICES. Fur SETS remember.
