Approximately 300 members of the South Omaha Traders' exchange attended the annual banquet of the association last night at the Stock Tards' exchange dining room. Speeches pertaining to the exchange transactions were made, followed by an interesting and enjoyable musical and vandeville enterinlament.

J. H. Bulla, president of the traders' exchange, was toastmaster. He made a note beneath the cover and saw that the short talk, touching lightly on the object of the association, and was followed by J. M. Tanner, who extemporized the daily undertakings of the members of the association and what stub when a "vision" appeared. all elevating result their honest and upright workings had upon business in general.

An enlightening and interesting tall on the many advantages gained through the exchange traders, or middlemen, was made by Bruce McCulloch, editor of the local stock paper.

"In the business in which you men assembled here this evening are engaged honor is always first in all your dealings," he said "A trader's word in the rards is as good as actual money and is accepted as such by all engaged in business on the market." General Manager Buckingham of the Stock Yards company briefly complimented the traders exchange for the great assistance rendered during the past and said he would always be in readiness to help the association in any of its undertakings.

T. J. Mahoney of Omaha spoke extensively on the legal phases of the exchange, which occasionaly bob up to disturb the smoothly running order of its Gus Renze and the Ak-Sar-Ben quartet were on hand with a brand new line of music and comedy. Musical numbers were furnished by Potter's string orchestra and soveral vaudeville sketches were staged.

Proposed Change Payored. Comments upon the Lee bill are such as to indicate that the gang will have the hardest fight of their lives to defeat annexation should the bill pass. This was the expression on the streets yesterday after the provisions of the bill covering the merger had been read in The Omaha Bee. Immediately after the publishing of the provisions of the bill. efforts were begun to keep the local fire department in line by making a two shift. service. Heretofore the local firemen have been compelled to work the full twenty-four hours a day except once a week. The bill is to be introduced as an amendment to the charter.

Howard Runs for Mayor. Jerry Howard, former state representative and friend of the South Omaha faboring men regardless of party lines. has announced his candidacy for mayor against the present incumbent, Tom Hoctor, in case annexation does not take "It's either annexation or it's me for mayor," said Howard last night. "And I'm going to win if I go into the race," said Jerry.

As a matter of fact the entrance of Jerry Howard into the race wil be the by the Dundee Dancing club Friday last straw in the present burdens of the old gang. Jerry is the idol of the workingmen in general and with the packing house men especially. His ability to win was shown a year ago when without funds or machine backing he beat Doc Tanner for the democratic nomination for sheriff and caused the present democratic sheriff considerable worry. It was his valiant work at the last election that helped save the packing house vote to the democratic cause. Jerry supported Hoctor for mayor a year ago and Hoctor across the line with a narrow mar-lt is therefore thought that if Bernice Whitner got across the line with a narrow mar-Howard gets into the race he will have little trouble in disposing of the gang that has enjoyed his assistance for so ong when running for office.

For his opponent, Hoctor will have besides Howard William Queenan, it is said, besides a probable republican and possibly a progressive. Gillin will run again for city treasurer, although it is conceded that a weak man will find little difficulty in beating him for the nomination. It is said that he has assured Attorney W. N. Jameson of his support for city attorney. John J. Ryan and Joseph Pivonka are mentioned for the fire and police board, while Frank Tetiva, formerly engaged in the saloon business, is also mentioned as a possible candidate for the commission. The election will not take place before May and in the meantime it is possible that annexation will be effected.

Miss Fitch's Pupils Please Many Friends

Plays by the pupils of the Brandels and Boyd Theater School of Acting are always a treat for a large number of Omahans. The productions are of a kind that is interesting to more persons than those who chance to be friends or relatives of the players. Yesterday was the occasion for the presentation of plays by the pupils of Miss Lillian Fitch, director of the school of acting.
