ness in the trade with the outside as an onlooker. The professionals at Chicago and elsewhere are also onlookers, and as nearly every man in the trade believes that prices are going to be much lower the market is not likely to receive any support from this interest. A bomb was exploded in the camp of wheat buils on Saturday in the shape of a report from New York telling of enormous quantities of flour held there, and for which there is no present demand. All of the seaboard markets reported the railway terminals congested with loaded cars. If board markets reported the railway ter-minals congested with loaded cars of flour. Philadelphia and New York re-ceivers have asked their western and northern millers to refrain from making shipments until advised to do so, as the flour on track is now unsalable because it cannot be unloaded and demurrage is being charged against it from day to day. ash wheat, unchanged to be lower. the markets of the last few days, the dant hogs colling as righ as $1.20 and $2.00 heavy arrange changing hands os low as that flaure. The louis of the packing grades ranged from $7.25 to $2.20, with some choice hogs reaching $7.26, the top for the day. In a general way the trade might be regarded as a high more lower runn last were a cross. On the whole trade showed a very fair degree of activity notwithstanding the decline in pures, the market, if anything, cosing at the low point of the day.

SHEEP-Last week's break in this live sheep, mutton trade had the natural result of curtailing receipts this morning, for only about fifty-three cars, or 12.700 head, were reported in, as compared with 16.137 head last Monday and 18.67 head on the corresponding day one year ago. In point of general quality the supply was considered very good and about as many sheep offerings as lambs were on sale. As for some little time back, lambs and ewes made up the big end of the receipts and yearlings and wethers continue to come in a very limited supply. Considering that no western stuff was included in the receipts, killers were in very fair supply. Almost as soon as the moderate supply was yarded, salesmen offered to take steady prices, which might be taken as an indication of a very weak feeling pre-vailing in the trade. Buyers were not inclined to start in on that basis, and as a result very few if any lambs or sheep changed hands during the first hours of the forencon. There were one or two sales of sheep made early, however, in order to keep the killing gangs at work, but aside from this the market was practically dead. The early transactions of prices.

Beef steers were extremely slow and dull all the morning. The eastern beef markets was very unsatisfactory all last to week for the consumption being very much reduced.
