

PLACE SAVED FOR MOREHEAD

First Governor West of Mississippi Receiving Place at Inauguration.

WILL GO WITH HIS STAFF

Clifford Thorne of Iowa in Washington Has Favorable Report on Railroad Measures Affecting Classification.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 1.—(Special Telegram)—A place in the inaugural parade for Governor John T. Morehead and his staff of twenty-five was set aside today by the committee in charge of the ceremonies for March.

The governor's application and that of the Minnesota First infantry, for a band and 40 men is the first information, the committee said, that they had received that states west of the Mississippi river were to take part in the celebration of the inaugural of President-elect Wilson.

Physical Valuation Bill.

Favorable report on the bill for physical valuation of railroads is confidently expected here to be made by the state committee on interstate commerce Monday. Railway Commissioner Thorne of Iowa, who has been in Washington for the last week, said he regarded the passage of the bill as highly important, because of increase in rates that are said to be contemplated by the railroads. The purpose of the physical valuation bill is to furnish information to the interstate commerce commission to enable them to properly fix rates. Commissioner Thorne thinks this bill ought to be passed before any increase in rates is allowed.

Chicago Favor Shippers.

According to Mr. Thorne, the railroads have filed with the interstate commerce commission notice of changes they are to make in freight classification 51, that will be favorable to shippers. Mr. Thorne has been in Washington for the last week at the hearings on the Kenyon bill as to freight classification. While not informed as to all the proposed changes, Mr. Thorne said they contemplated a part of the changes suggested by the commission in its recent decision. The modifications are said to be several hundred in number and include some of great importance to shippers. All of them are, broadly speaking, of advance to their approval, and approval, it is said, is assured. The railroads, Mr. Thorne said, have asked for approval on short notice.

Indian Tribes Confer.

Representatives of Indian tribes from a score of states, who are gathered in Washington to look after their tribal affairs are holding an informal convention which meets nearly every year to discuss their mutual interests. Among the subjects under consideration is the appointment of the commissioner of Indian affairs, and the favorite candidate of the Indians, according to one of the prominent members of the tribe attending these meetings, is Thomas Sloan of Pender, Neb., who is a member of Winnebago tribe, and for many years attorney for the Nebraska Winnebago. E. B. Merritt, a lawyer chief of the Indian office, C. J. Martin of St. Paul, Minn., and Frank A. Day of Fairmont, Minn., are also mentioned.

Would Elect Agents.

It is said that the Indians attending these conferences are also planning to secure the passage, if possible, of a bill which will allow the Indians to elect the agents in charge of the various agencies throughout the country, instead of having them appointed by the department in accordance with the present custom. Representatives of the following tribes are present at the conferences: The Shoshones, Arapahos, Cheyennes, Winnebagoes, Chickewas, Tuscaroras, Mohawks and Blackfeet.

Damage Restored.

One of them is the restoration of damage, a term applied to timber used in packing machinery and it has been 500 pounds in the territory, included in classification fifty-one and in the south it has been as high as 1,000 pounds. In the original form of western classification fifty-one, the railroads sought to cut it out, a hardship, which would have been a great hardship to shippers of machinery.

CONFER WITH COMMISSIONERS

Judge McHenry Gives Maximum Sentence of Year to Teamster Convicted of Assault in Des Moines Strike.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

DES MOINES, Feb. 1.—(Special Telegram)—About twenty of the members of the legislature who are of the committee on highways went to Ames today and held a conference with the state highway commission which is composed of members of the faculty of the state college. The purpose was to investigate the workings of the commission and to go over its exhibits and materials for demonstrating how to make good roads. It is expected that the legislature will enlarge and increase the powers of this commission, and members who went to Ames today say that they have been deeply impressed with the impression of the work the commission has been doing.

Teamster Sentenced.

Judge McHenry in the district court today gave the maximum sentence of a year in the state reformatory to M. B. Hampton, a teamster, who had been convicted of assault with intent to do great bodily injury. The assault was a part of the teamsters strike of last year. "I intend to make an example out of you," Judge McHenry told the prisoner. "Something must be done to check the lawlessness that has been practiced on our streets in the last three months. I could give you a jail sentence for the crime, but I want to impress upon the community that the courts are going to enforce the laws to the letter. In this kind of a case."

GRINNELL WOMEN WANT THE RIGHT TO VOTE

GRINNELL, Ia., Feb. 1.—(Special.)—Under most unfavorable conditions the vote was taken yesterday in this city for the sentiment among the women for woman's suffrage. The day was cold, with a piercing north wind that made it impossible for many who would have come had the day been fine to get there without a conveyance. But the vote was surprisingly large, being a total of 75, of which 40 were "yes" and 35 "no." To the question, "Do you favor woman's suffrage?" To the second question on the ballot, "Will you exercise the right of voting at every opportunity whenever it is possible to do so?" the vote stood 92 "yes," 40 "no" and 40 blanks. The suffragists are jubilant. But those opposed show that there are some 1,400 women voters over 18 years old whose homes are in this city, and some 30 of yesterday's voters were college girls whose homes are elsewhere, so that the result does not seem like quite so sweeping a victory as appears on the face.

FARMER WITH LARGE SUM OF MONEY DISAPPEARS

WEST UNION, Ia., Feb. 1.—(Special.)—The belief is current here that Fred Hanselman has been murdered in Chicago. He was a farmer, aged 42 years, of exemplary habits. January 17 he went to Chicago, and at that time he had in his possession $17,000. According to meager reports received here he was seen in a saloon with two other men. His friends here fear he was murdered for this money. His wife and W. G. Benninger of Okwina have joined in a request that the police of Chicago make a diligent search for him.

Petrified Wooden Leg Starts Story Tellers

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

RAPID CITY, S. D., Feb. 1.—(Special.)—Life in early days in the Black Hills is forcibly called to the minds of old timers by an exhibit in the window of the Sheridan Coal company on Sixth street, labeled: Section of the wooden leg of "Lame Johnnie." The exhibit is a petrification and was sent to Ernest Schlemming by L. E. Young of Fairburn. During the recent cold snap a party of old timers were gathered about the stove in Billy Bodenner's grocery store and they fell to recalling incidents in the early history of the Black Hills. The reminiscences reverted to the career of "Lame Johnnie," who was a noted horse and cattle thief and stage robber. Mr. Young affirmed that the limp in a desperado's leg was acquired by a bullet, while others maintained that one of his limbs was of wood. A wagon of 1850 was made and the party repaired to the bandit's grave on "Lame Johnnie Creek," and opened it. There remained little of what was once one of the notorious characters of the Hills. There was, however, in the grave a piece of petrified material, which has since been declared to have been a wooden leg. In shape and appearance the relic resembles strongly an artificial human limb. Mr. Young paid his bet and claimed the petrification as a souvenir, a section of which he sent to his friend, Fritz Schlemming.

"Lame Johnnie" was hanged by cowboys and ranchmen in 1871, while in the custody of Sheriff Smith, who was taking him from Camp Sheridan, an army post on what is now the Pine Ridge reservation, to Deadwood. He had been rounded up by United States soldiers for having held up the Deadwood coach, killing the Wells-Fargo messenger, named Jack Brown and making off with several thousand dollars' worth of gold dust. He was buried on the banks of a then nameless creek, which has since gone under the name of "Lame Johnnie Creek." Another story often told is that the party taking "Lame Johnnie" to Deadwood, impatient of the delay and not wishing to run the risks attendant on the arduous winter trip held a private lynching and when the coroner arrived he found the bandit's frozen body and made his official report "died of exposure."

IMPERIAL PLANT CAN TURN OUT FIFTY CARS PER DAY

Five years ago, the Imperial Automobile company turned out thirty cars as the year's output. That was the first year of its existence. This year the factory is capable of turning out fifty machines a day, one automobile about every twelve minutes. That is the sum and substance of what Mr. Smith of Bradley, Merrimack & Smith, Imperial distributors, has to say of the Imperial production. The Imperial plant, located at Jackson, Mich., is one of the largest automobile factories in the world. It covers 25,000 square feet of floor space. The entire plant consists of forty acres. A factory force of more than 1,000 men is employed. "It's a two mile walk through the factory," said Mr. Smith, "but every foot of the way has some attraction to persons interested in automobiles and the progress made in this industry along lines of manufacture and production. "Despite the rapidity of work, every essential, from the minutest part of mechanism to the large parts, is constructed with the utmost care by trained workmen, superintended by experts and inspected finally by inspectors. According to Mr. Smith, the Imperial chassis and bodies are made simultaneously, the former on the ground floor above, when both are completed, chassis and frame are united and the finished product is ready for shipment.

GEORGE ADE AS JOY MAKER

Chivalric Soul Responds to Eager Search of Chicago Globe-Trotter.

George Ade was talking about his last visit to London. "I like to knock about London alone," he said, "studying the places of historical interest, and at this kindly Christmas season I remember with particular pleasure a good deed that I performed at one of London's historic landmarks for a Chicago woman. "It was a rainy fall day, and I sat over a breakfast pudding and a mug of bitter at the Cheshire Cheese, in Fleet street. "The Chicago woman entered, Roswell's Johnson in her hand. The Cheshire Cheese was, you know, Johnson's favorite tavern, and the woman had been told that the great man's autograph could still be seen pencilled on one of the walls. "The waiters told her they knew of no such autograph, but the woman, with

MOTORCYCLE PROVES ITSELF VERSATILE

Frank Bitter, a Chicago cement contractor, made quite a record with his Yale motorcycle during 1912. Almost every working day found him going from job to job, inspecting the work and often carrying with him whatever tools were needed. Besides helping him out in his work, his Yale made possible short country trips every day and holiday. So there was scarcely a day in the entire year that Bitter didn't get some kind of service from his machine. Delivering cream is another Yale specialty. Elton W. Jones of Wausau, O., is the man who makes use of his machine in this capacity, and he makes his route in just one-fourth of the time it used to take. Jones has also rigged up a portable shaft and pulley which are engaged in the engine pulley of his Yale. A belt from the pulley on the shaft drives the Jones' washing machine. The only fault that Jones finds with this arrangement is that his wife insists on his staying home on wash days. Sometimes that hurts—especially when wash day happens to be a fine day for riding.

THE PEOPLE KNOW

That Pe-ru-na Is a Good Catarrh Remedy

write me these letters without any solicitation on my part, without any pay, direct or indirect, to tell me the benefit that Pe-ru-na has been to them. To me this is better evidence than as if all the medical books in the world agreed that Pe-ru-na was the best catarrh remedy ever invented. It is better evidence to me than as if all the doctors in the world would join in declaring Pe-ru-na to be the best remedy in the world for catarrh. The experiences of the people is the best kind of evidence. Neither reason nor book learning nor the schools could furnish data so complete, so satisfactory as the experience of the masses. Not only does Pe-ru-na cure chronic catarrh, but for coughs and colds and winter diseases, for grip and laryngitis and the various derangements of the respiratory organs to which every one is subject, I can confidently say Pe-ru-na is an excellent remedy. Why? Because I find it in the books? Because the medical profession say so? Because I have reasoned it out? Nothing of the sort. Because I have tried it thousands and thousands of times and it works.

Are You Looking for a Catarrh Remedy?

Now, then, you may be hunting for a catarrh remedy yourself. You may have searched in vain in the books to find one. You may have inquired and tried to find one through the medical profession. You may have futilely attempted to reason it out for yourself. You have just one more chance to work out your problem. That is experience. I have experienced it out. Nothing of the sort. Because I have tried it thousands and thousands of times and it works.

People Say Pe-ru-na Cures Them.

I have in my files thousands of letters where people have been cured of catarrh by taking Pe-ru-na. I could not prove by the books that Pe-ru-na will cure catarrh. I could not prove it by reason. But I can prove it by experience. By the experiences of the masses of the people. People who can have no possible interest in Pe-ru-na further than the good they have received from it. Such people

S. B. HARTMAN, M. D., Columbus, Ohio.

A man may have tried a drug and found it efficacious. Or his neighbor may have tried the drug and found it efficacious. Upon such experience he can base something like certainty. Acting upon this he can make himself absolutely certain. For instance, suppose I have catarrh. I take a remedy. I rapidly improve. I finally get well. Now, there is a certainty here which I can believe. The certainty that the remedy cured my catarrh. To be sure, it may cure every other case of catarrh, but the probabilities are strong that it will. I have in my files thousands of letters where people have been cured of catarrh by taking Pe-ru-na. I could not prove by the books that Pe-ru-na will cure catarrh. I could not prove it by reason. But I can prove it by experience. By the experiences of the masses of the people. People who can have no possible interest in Pe-ru-na further than the good they have received from it. Such people
