

THE SOCIETY OF THE BEE-HIVE

By MELLIFICIA. Monday, February 3, 1913.

EMPERORALLY, Alice Dovey, is a home body. While playing at the Brandeis this week as the leading woman in the "Pink Lady" she is availing herself of an opportunity that has not been hers in three and a half years—that of conveniently visiting home folks. Every morning finds her on her way to Plattsmouth, where, during the major part of the day, she revels in the old, old amenities that never wear out—home and mother. Besides her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Dovey, her four sisters: Mrs. Ray Patterson, Mrs. George Falter, Catherine and Edith Dovey, and brother George, are the only people she sees.

While her mother and sisters are frequent visitors with her, it is different, it seems to me, when you can see them all together amid the scenes of the sweetest place on earth.

Miss Dovey is not accepting social invitations this week because this particular time finds her absorbed in the difficulties that come with a new maid. She is now very busy avoiding future anxieties by tending all of her stockings together in pairs, and arranging her costumes in the correct order for the different acts.

Simple Home Remedy for Kidneys and Bladder

A simple and easy way to cure weak, drugged kidneys or bladder is to use the following formula: Get six ounces good pure gin and add to it one-half ounce Murax Compound and one-half ounce fluid extract Buchu. Take one to two teaspoonfuls of this mixture after each meal and at bed time. Nearly all good druggists have these ingredients. Anyone can mix. One should be sure to get good pure gin, also the genuine Murax Compound which comes only in a sealed wooden package, as any substitute will not give the desired results.

Weak kidneys or bladder should be given attention as soon as any of the well-known symptoms are noticed. Neglect in the matter is dangerous, as the serious forms, Bright disease, chronic rheumatism or dread diabetes may develop. These can be avoided if the above simple mixture is used before complications set in.—Advertisement.

CHANGES NOT YET ORDERED

Local Army Men Hear Nothing Except Press Dispatches.

MAY MEAN MORE BUILDINGS

These Could Not Be Built Until Congress Has Had Time to Appropriation Money for Their Erection.

No orders have yet been received at army headquarters in Omaha in regard to the provision for the tactical organization of the United States army reported in Washington dispatches. Officials at army headquarters here say that since they have as yet received no order they are unable to say what will be the result of the reorganization so far as Omaha and the posts here are concerned.

The disposition, however, is that the infantry of Fort Leavenworth, Mead, Crook and Snelling will be included in this division under the reorganization. This would constitute the Fifth Brigade of the Second division.

It is thought that more troops will eventually be brought to Omaha in accordance with the general plan of concentrating troops at convenient railroad centers. This would mean that more building would be required at the forts here in order to accommodate increased numbers of troops. All this is looked upon as somewhat in the future, as to build new buildings to provide shelter for more troops would necessitate an appropriation of money for the purpose, and all that would take time. The plan, according to officials in army circles here, contemplates doing away with some of the minor forts in the west, such as McKensie, Mead and others, and the concentration of the men at the large posts in railway centers.

General Walter S. Schuyler, commander of the department of California, is visiting with General Frederick A. Smith, of the department of Missouri. He is returning to the west after spending some time in Washington on official business in connection with the proposed reorganization.

McShane Refuses to Let Prisoners Help Contractors

Sheriff Felix J. McShane, Jr., has decried Ira Flanagan and Ed Gardipee, prisoner feeding contractors, of the services of prisoners in preparing meals and the contractors may have to give up their contract on this account.

The contractors have intended to continue feeding the prisoners pending ruling of the supreme court on the motion for rehearing of their contract, about two months. Forty days is allowed for filing a rehearing motion and the court would require about twenty days to rule.

Shortly after the supreme court ruled against the contract, giving McShane the right to feed the prisoners at 50 cents a day, the sheriff ordered his deputies to the jail to quit furnishing the contractors prisoners to help in the kitchen. The sheriff thought the contractors should give up the feeding at once. Flanagan and Gardipee appealed to County Commissioner John C. Lynch, who asked the sheriff to countermand his order. The sheriff sent one prisoner back into the kitchen, but later he again refused to furnish any prisoner help.

The contractors have been compelled to hire one woman to help their cook. They say the added expense will practically eliminate their profit.

When the feeding contract was awarded it was agreed that the contractor should furnish food and a cook; the county should provide prisoners to help the cook in the preparation of meals and to wash dishes. It was with this understanding that the contract was made and in preparing their bids all bidders for the contract understood prisoners would help in the kitchen.

During the time Sheriff McShane fed the prisoners he used half a dozen or more in the kitchen. There are always prisoners in the jail who are weary from idleness and beg for something to do.
