MANY THINGS IN HARDWARE

Wonderful Exhibits Are Seen in the Attractive Booths.

MANY NEW FEATURES SHOWN

Articles that Come in Handy in the Home and on the Farm Are Found in an Endless Profusion.

The beautiful booths comprising the various exhibits were built by the Photo Art and Woodcraft company, which firm also painted all the signs and did all the decorating for the show. Though a comparatively new concern in this field, the Photo Art and Woodcraft company is making a strong bid for a great deal of this class of work.

Among the interesting exhibits is that of the Carborundum company, showing especially the Niagara grinders and a general display of sharpening tools.

The exhibition at booth 15 is that of the R. F. Struthers company, manufacturers and wholesalers of gas plants for lighting and cooking purposes. They also show a fine exhibit of pure copper cables and lighting rods.

The Elliott Manufacturing company show at booth 27-34 an attractive exhibit of metal ware, which they claim to be the best obtainable in the world. A unique feature of the exhibit is a patent milking pail with new and convenient resting attachment, which should be a delight to every milkman and maid.

Will H. Hein is in charge of the exhibit of the Quincy Stove Manufacturing company and he is assisted by C. A. Heidebreder. They are showing the Illinois heater, which burns all the gases in soft coal and leaves no clinkers.

Another very interesting booth is that of the Phillips-Bernard company, featuring the O. K. Non-Freezable Watering system, which is very effective in preventing hog diseases.

The Engman-Mathews Range company has also an attractive exhibit of the stove known as the "Range Eternal."

As usual, the W. C. Shinn company is very much in evidence with its fine display of copper cable lighting rods, which have been protecting Nebraska buildings for a long time.

At booths 83 and 84 is exhibited the display of Atkins' silver steel saws, which are known widely throughout the country as one of the best brands made. The factories of this company are located in Indianapolis, Ind.
