EXPERT WIRTH GIVES TALK

Speaks at Banquet at Grand Hotel, Giving City Ideas on How Best to Improve Park System of Bluffs.

"If you only have $5,000 a year to expend on your parks, spend every cent of it, if necessary, to secure the best possible set of working plans for the development of your park system," said Theodore Wirth, superintendent of the Minneapolis park system, at the dinner at the Grand hotel last night. He was the guest of the Board of Park Commissioners, the Commercial club and the Real Estate exchange.

The declaration in favor of methodical procedure was the keynote of the great amount of valuable information Mr. Wirth imparted. The second important thing urged was the acquisition of still more park lands while the price is low. The unfortunate weather conditions interposed a serious bar to an important part of the program, which included emobile trips throughout the whole per system and over many miles of proposed boulevard routes. The blanket of snow made it impossible for the cars to climb the grades, and only a small portion of the park property was inspected. This included a portion only of Fairmount, Lincoln and Rohrer's parks in the hills and Bayliss, Cochran and the new park lands acquired on the river front. But it was sufficient to give the park expert a clear idea of the possibilities that lie in the intelligent development of the property already acquired and that which he strongly urged to be acquired in the near future. There is no investment, he declared, that will return a more desirable dividend or be a better asset than a city's park system and over many miles of be a better asset than a city's park

Mayor Maloney and Aldermen Boyer, Stone, Evans and Huber were present and agreed that if such an ordinance can be enacted under the present state laws it should be done. At the conclusion of the dinner, which asted an hour and a half, Superintendent Wirth spent another hour presenting the subject of an audience in the ball room of the hotel on the sixth floor, using a stereopticon to illustrate what had been eccomplished in Minneapolis.

Emmet Tinley, who was chairman of the meeting, gave a brief history of the park acquisitions of Council Binffs, showing that the actual cost of the more than 700 acres of park lands had been but a few thousand dollars. He caught the spirit and approved the plan for greater acquisitions, urging the early procurement of sites in the south side of the city and a large area in the northwest portion. Throughout the course of his illustrated lecture, Mr. Wirth pointed out the splendid possibilities for the derelopment of a magnificent park system in Council Hluffs. At the conclusion of the lecture, Mr. Wirth and nearly all of those present. with the exception of the women, representing the Civic Improvement association, repaired to the Armory and spent the remainder of the evening enjoying the entertainment provided by the initiaton of a large number of new members of the Knights of the Pull Moon.

The story at the time was that the boy was known to have arisen from his bed in the room occupied by several other Greeks, and that his conduct excited the suspicion of Sitheris, who dressed and went to the restaurant and discovered that it had just been broken into and the cash register rifled. Sitheris claimed to have discovered evidence that justified the arrest.
