of the Fight.

influences.

The holders of wheat in the United States continue to complain of a lack of business on foreign account, while cargentina is pouring out all the wheat that buyers of other countries care to absorb, and they are making the prices satisfactory, leaving the competitive exporting nations high and dry so far as disposing of their surplus is concerned. It how looks as if the large wheat stocks held in this country will either have to be marked to a lower price level or carried over.

The recent heavy liquidations by longs in May wheat leaves that month without any support from the big people, who have been on the buil side for two years or more. These speculators have doubtless suffered serious losses on the recent heavy declines, and as everything surrounding the market may be called bearlish, there is nothing on which to hold either the May option or the cash article for srofit. While conditions in the winter wheat belt were never better at this scason, the crop is not made and there are possibilities of more or less deterioration before the wheat crop is harvested next summer, as an attack from insects or drouth would cause marked uneasiness. It was the gossip of the wheat trade last night, that the Chicago pit crowd covered and went long on the early builge and all did not have a chance to get out owing to the rapidity of the late break. Closest observers of pit conditions looked on the market as only a trading affair and saw nothing to make fluctuations of more than a cent or two either way for the present time. Cash recent heavy liquidations by longs fluctuations of more than a cent or two either way for the present time. Cash wheat was a higher.

A storm is brewing in the corn pit. There are two factions and with ample financial backing, and with the conviction of both parties that they are correct in their ideas, a big fight is imminent. One house and its following, which stands close to the farmers of the country, are to be seen on the short side. On the opposite side is another big concern, which also stands shoulder to shoulder with the country. The cotton crowd is also a big holder of the May, option, and these big people believe that they are right and that much higher prices for corn are likely.

Wheat had a checkered course for the day, higher prices the first hour were followed by a break to the low point of the week. Then came the sudden bulge and a later a quick sag. Bullish reports on the poor quality of wheat remaining in Germany, big reserves in the Dakotas and Minnesota and finally the revival of export demand here formed the news fooeloopments that successively governed. evelopments that successively governed

Minneapolis reports that the quality of wheat receipts had been running poor served as an offset to some extent for the continued liberal arrivals there and at Dulyth, On the other hand all reports concerning the winter crop were on the states.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

Securities Sell Off, Following Another Shift in Sentiment.

GERMANS RAISE MONEY BIDS Further Strength Shown in Foreign Exchange Market, Rates for Sterling and Confinental Exchange Rising.

NEW YORK, March 6.-In response a another, shift in speculative sentiment stocks soid off today. Trading was not large and the movement appeared to re-flect little more than the passing mon-of professional operators. Traders arflect little more than the passing moni-of professional operators. Traders are feeling their way while awaiting develop-ments of sufficient significance to serve as guideposts. In this connection much importance is attached to the first acts of the new national administration. Few stocks today lost more than a point. There was some profit-taking, as well as remewed bear selling, on the the-ory that the jong position had been weakened by recent extensive covering. American Tobacco fell over 7 points, making its decline in the last two days 12 points, which, however, was reduced by a raily. Other tobacco stocks were heavy.

eavy. The urgency of Berlin's fiscal require the urgency of Serlin's fiscal require-ments was indicated by the raising of the German bids for money in this mar-ket to 6% per cent for funds to April %. It is understood loans were placed at this figure. Further strength was shown in the foreign exchange market today, rates for both sterling and continental exchange rising.

HCGS-Today's hog market was one the snappy, active kind, with prices g-erally a hig nickel higher than yestorid. Buyers were out in the yards early a erally a big nickel higher than yesterday. Buyers were out in the yards early and lost no time in cleaning up the fair supply, an outstanding feature as contrasted with the slow, draggy markets that have been the rule of late. The quality of the offerings was way aread of anything that has been seen here for a long time, a fact which contributed largely to the narrowness of the range of prices. The buk of the hogs sold at $3.395.49, and a few loads of real good stuff brought as high as $8.5, a dime higher than vesicleday's top. Today's advance puts values up to the highest point that has been reached this year, and in fact today's top of $8.45 is the highest price that has been paid since last October, when the top reached $8. Today's tigures are 160.30 higher than at the close of last week. The bulk last Saturday was $1.17,262 224 and the top was $8.30, just 15c below today's high price. It might be mentioned that shippers and speculators were very light buyers, almost the whole of the supply being sold to killers.

Today's receipts amounted to about 141 cars, or $,500 head, being slightly largely than last week, but over 5.000 smaller than two weeks ago and about 10,000 lighter than the same day last year. The week to date has been rather light as compared with the last few weeks, the total for the four day's being in the neighborhood of $6.965 head. This is the lightest since the first week of January and almost 25,000 short of the first four days

APPEAL FOR AGED CLERGY

Dr. W. H. Foulkes Graphically Compares Secular and Sacred Courses.

"Here are two curves of life before the young man who has completed his academic training One is a secular course. the other the gospel ministry. He surveys the secular first and finds a small lob at meager pay to begin with. He doesn't care for that; there is chance to advance. The way is rough; nor for that Climbing will give him strength. He lifts himself to where he can look over the summit of the curve. Down below at the end he finds provision for old age in the

The young man now turns to examine the ministerial curve. It looks better at the beginning than the secular. A position of some $600, $700 or $800 a year to start with, a pleasant position in the community and not at menial labor. He rises to peer over the pinnacle. Down below he looks at the end of this curve. But what does he see? Not a pension, not the adequate provision for old age offered by the secular course."

Thus did Rev. William Hiram Foulkes, D. D., of Philadelphia set forth one side of the ministry in an address to a body of representative Presbyterian clergy and laity of Omaha at the Young Men's Christian association. formerly a distinguished pastor in Portland, Ore., and New York City, is now general secretary of the Presbyterian Ministerial and Sustenation board, which is engaged in the enterprise of raising $10,000,000 for a ministerial relief fund. He was in Omaha on a circuitous tour of middle western cities. Returning to the curves:

"Now, I do not say," continued Dr. Foulkes, "that the secular calling will turn the young man away from the but what happens is this: The man contemplating the ministry has his sensibilities dulled and loses 10 per cent of him fine enthusiasm when he sees that the world values his services for life so much higher than does the church."

In a manner most impressive, Dr. Foulkes enforced his appeal for the church to rally to the support, as Its highest duty, of its aged and infirm servants. Not to do so, he said, dissipated power in the middle-aged minister that ought to be poured out with tremendously increased results.

He said the Presbyterian church had 1,350 persons on its relief list, 650 of whom were widows. And he told of the great progress being achieved by that denomination in building up this $10,000,000 fund. For the church is determined to do its duty, said he, toward its ministers and their families, who must get- along through active life on very small in-
