Back of HOLSUM Bread

is a wonderful story of 20th century progress

WHEN we tell you that HOLSUM is the highest development of the bakers' art, you simply cannot realize the full meaning of our words. HOLSUM Bread begins to be the leader of all bread in the ingredients of which it is made. It is not enough for us to buy high-grade flour and re-clean it with the latest of machinery. We must know the very mill where the flour was made and from just where the wheat came that was milled. The same exacting care is observed in the selection of all HOLSUM ingredients. We test the milk, the water, the sugar, the yeast. All must be the very essence of purity. The HOLSUM bakery is a veritable palace of cleanliness. Surroundings more pleasing can scarcely be imagined. The very air seems to radiate cleanliness. Floods of light through big windows glisten on clean floors, clean walls, clean ceilings and long rows of clean machinery, which play the principal part in the making of HOLSUM under the supervision of master bakers.

The making of HOLSUM Bread is an exact science

Automatic machines do the work—The flour is sifted and aerated automatically—automatic scales insure the use of each ingredient in exact proportions—huge machines tend to the combining of the pure ingredients—the mixing and the kneading as you, Madam Housewife, are wont to call it. Steadily, unalterably the huge arms of steel tread the dough to a uniformity your tiring arms can never equal.

The making of HOLSUM is scientifically accurate. We control "luck" because we control temperature and conditions. After the HOLSUM dough has risen to the proper lightness, it is cut into loaves and shaped automatically, then placed in an oven where the temperature is just 550 degrees. This terrific heat is necessary to kill the yeast germs. Otherwise, bread is indigestible. No home oven can really bake bread through and through.

Kept clean in a dainty wrapper

That HOLSUM may come to you just as pure and clean as it comes from our ovens, we devised the special HOLSUM wrapper.

Fresh from the oven each loaf of HOLSUM is popped into its dainty waxed wrapper and sealed. It comes to you under this bond of cleanliness, as pure and as clean as the dew.

Let the HOLSUM Bakery do your bread baking

No reason or excuse to longer undergo the heat and worry that bake day always means to the housewife. Every possible reason, including economy, urges you to use HOLSUM all the time. Begin today and use HOLSUM regularly for one week. See how you like it.

Made clean, sold clean, delivered clean

HE REFUSES TO BE COERCED

Le Mars Dealer Testifies that He Handles Different Makes.

MORE HARVESTER TESTIMONY

One Dealer Says that He Does Not Consider Some of the Changes Made in Machinery as Improvements.

W. H. Zimmerman, implement dealer of Lemars, Ia., stood on his rights when a representative of the International Harvester company objected to his handling the Acme mower, according to his own testimony before the special examiner in Omaha, taking testimony for the coming trial of the International company, charged with being an illegal combination.

Zimmerman testified that he is handling the International binders and mowers and also that he is now handling the Emerson. He said a number of years ago, after he had signed the commission agency contract with the International, an International man had come to his shop and had seen an Acme mower in the shop. The agent asked what it was doing there. Zimmerman told him he intended to sell it. The agent called for the contract and pointed out the exclusive clause. He then said that according to the contract one of the other machines would have to go.

One Machine Must Go. "I told him if either machine had to move it would be the McCormick," said Zimmerman. "I then went ahead as before for a few years and then quit handling the Acme. For a few years then I handled only the International goods, but recently I have been handling a little of the Emerson. Nothing further ever came up between me and the International people about the handling of other lines. Zimmerman also testified that in 1907, when the International Harvester company was formed, there were six implement dealers in Lemars, and that some of these successively quit business until now there are only three. The six had been handling six different lines of binders and mowers. J. W. Murphy, implement dealer at Sloan, Ia., would not admit that the McCormick binder had made as many improvements in the ten or twelve years preceding the organization of the International Harvester company as it did in that length of time since its organization.

Changes Not Improvements.

"They made as many changes," he admitted, "but I would not call them improvements." When he was pressed for the important improvements made since 1903 he could think of no great improvement except the improvement made in the knoter, and then added that the bull wheel had been widened and the chains made heavier. When saying that before the days of the International there had been more changes that were not necessarily improvements he did not state whether he regarded the coming of the bundle carrier as a mere change that could not be classed as an improvement.

Others who testified during the morning were John Groth, Remsen, Ia.; H. E. Brown, Sallis, Ia.; and Martin Nelson, Hartington, Neb. All those testifying said they would not have stood for coercion from the International in the matter of the various lines of goods they might or might not handle.

ACQUITTED MAN PREFERS JAIL AS LODGING PLACE

TO REDUCE COAL YARD TAX

Mayor Dahlgren Has New Bill Cutting Cost to Dealers.

ONE DOLLAR FOR EACH TEAM

Tax on Coal Yards to Be Lowered from $25 to $1—Big Dealers Had Refused to Pay the City.

Intending to pacify irate coal dealers who refuse to pay the occupation tax of $25 on each yard and $1 on each team, claiming it was a discrimination against the big dealer, Mayor Dahlgren introduced an ordinance at the meeting of the city commission reducing the occupation tax to $1 a year and $1 for each team. The ordinance was referred to a meeting of the committee of the whole Monday.

This ordinance applies to dealers in coal, ice, building material and coke. The existing ordinance has never been enforced for the reason that the large dealers stood firm in the refusal to pay, saying it was unfair and placed an unjust burden on them. Some of the dealers said there was no means of enforcing it because the number of teams employed by dealers could never be exactly known.

In this respect the new ordinance provides no remedy. It will now rest in the hands of the city inspector of weights and measures, who collects the taxes, to determine how many teams are used by each dealer. Then comes up the question of whether the number shall be the maximum number in service at any time during the year, or the average number. The inspector has been attempting to collect the tax on the maximum number of teams in use.

The New Orleans trip gives Palmer a pleasant visit, as he will get his mileage from the government and will be able to secure passes over the railroad.

Little Indian Boy Exercises Family With Disposition

The question of whether or not savages rule their children as well as do civilized parents was emphatically answered in the federal building by a little 6-year-old Winnebago Indian boy, who displayed a fine sample of little red man temper. He slapped his mother viciously on the hand when she approached him, brought his tomahawk-arm down on the end of his big sister's thumb with a wicked back as she, too, sought to coax him, but when his father reached out his arms to the little fellow he went to him nicely until he was securely held in daddy's arms, only, however, for a moment, when his stubborn streak again asserted itself and he kicked a rapid-fire tattoo on his father's stomach.

It was all because it was so tedious for him to wait in the grand jury room while his mother testified in the case of some Indians charged with introducing liquor on the reservation. He grew tired of the irksome testimony and began his warwhoop.
