Exceed $160,000

SAN FRANCISCO, March 16-How much money Charles F. Baker stole from the Crocker National bank was still a conjecture today.

"We are not yet in a position to say how much Baker is short." said H. N. Morris, the federal bank examiner. "In fact we are completely baffled. We don't understand yet in detail what his method was. The best estimate is that his peculations will be in excess of $160,000, but it is impossible to be more definite. "So far as the federal statutes go, there is no possibility of prosecuting criminally the brokers with whom Baker gambled." .61 The bank itself is fully protected 910 141 198 200 against lose by its contract with an insurance company. Baker is confined by illness to his home under watch of United States marshals.
