WORKERS' WELFARE WORK IS PICTURED AT BRANDEIS

Brandeis theater was crowded to overflowing yesterday afternoon when the first of a three days' series of lectures on the community development and welfare work of the National Cash Register company of Dayton, O., was given. A portion of the school membership of the city was excused from class work and given tickets to the lecture.

The lecture was given by Oscar Eisler, assisted by two operators who manipulated motion picture and stereopticon machines. The full Brandeis theater orchestra played popular numbers.

The pictures were shown in natural colors and exhibited the great factory and its beautiful surroundings in Dayton, besides the influence of the factory's welfare work over the entire city of Dayton.

A motion picture film entitled "From Bud to Blossom" showed the development of flowers. Ten or fifteen different flowers were shown in process of growth, and the lecturer explained that the motion picture machine had been focused for two days on each one.

Aeroplane flights of the Wright brothers of Dayton, the National Cash Register club, playgrounds, boys' gardens, the company's salesmanship schools, sanitary and safety devices of the factory, libraries, rest rooms and hospitals were pictured.

The lectures and pictures were repeated at the theater last night and will continue this afternoon and tonight and Wednesday afternoon and night.

Vaudeville at the Empress.
Heading the Empress bill this week are seven out-of-the-ordinary acrobats, the Florence troupe. In many ways the act is enjoyable. The tricks which the performers do are not new, but they are executed in such a manner that they are entertaining. "No Trespassing" present a singing act that is very good. Pearl Brothers and Burns, who play many musical instruments, might well be the top-notch act of the program. They were enjoyed every minute they were on the stage last evening. They play popular selections, and play them very well. The novelty act of the week is "Electric," a young woman who handles electricity in a mystifying manner. Her act is worth seeing for the reason that it is something new. The motion pictures are better than last week, and the whole bill is what may be called well balanced.

Promises of the Press Agent.
Miss Ethel Mason, who is playing the accordion at the Orpheum this week, has constructed a pneumatic swimming belt along the lines of the concertina or accordion. The action of opening it to full size sucks in sufficient air to sustain the weight of a heavy man. Folded it can be stowed in a place five by six inches, and it weighs but one and a half pounds. Miss Mason has applied for patents.

At the Boyd this week Miss Lang and her company are delighting the patrons with "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary." A charming comedy, hailed as the best production of the season.

The wrestling match between Dudack and the big polar bear at the Hippodrome this week is causing a sensation. Dime matinee daily.

It would be difficult to make anyone believe "The World of Pleasure" playing at the popular Gaiety. This week is not an act and out $2 musical comedy. Ladies' dime matinee daily.

Omaha was quick to realize that the chorus with the Zellan show at the Krug this week is the best singing bunch of girls in burlesque. Last night's attention, which broke all records for Monday night crowds for the current season, was due to the fact that the Zellan chorus that the Krug this week is housing a cracking good show.

EXTOLS LIFE OF SAINT

Rev. Michael Shine, St. Patrick's Day Orator.

ADDRESSES GREAT COMPANY

History of Celtic Race and Tells Part Played by Saint in Freeing Nation from Clutches of Enemies.

St. Patrick's day entertainment under the auspices of the Ancient Order of Hibernians at Creighton hall, Twenty-sixth and California streets, was largely attended Monday.

The feature of the evening was the address by Father Michael Shine, in which he dwelt upon the history of the Irish race from the beginning of its records. He touched upon them from the time the tribes of Asia migrated to the north of Europe, and related the steps of descendants from them down to the time when St. Patrick finally approaching the island of Ireland, which he first took serious notice of its religious welfare. He then told the history of St. Patrick, of how he was sold into slavery and served six years as a sheep herder for his captors only to come back and release Ireland from the clutches under which he found it laboring. The speaker then described the vicissitudes that the saint went through during the thirty years of his work. "They were numerous and painful," he said, "but his work had a lasting effect. Within another two years there is every likelihood of Ireland finally arriving at the things that its patron saint had always wished for it."

Program in Detail.
The program was opened with an address by Chairman Dr. William J. Leary, who spoke briefly upon the meaning of the Order of Hibernians and the work it was designed to accomplish. Following him was a duet, "Two Irish Sailors," by Messrs. John Jamieson and John Hopkins; then an Irish hornpipe dance by Messrs. Ruth Moran and Elinor McCarthy; "Kerry Dances," a song, by Messrs. Sackett, Atkinson, Shabugh and Neilson; the address of the evening, by Rev. Michael Shine; harp selections by Miss Marie Swanson; "Kathleen Macvourneen," a violin solo by Miss Grace McBride; "The Harp That Once Through Tara's Hall," a vocal solo by Mrs. Henry C. Richmond; recitation, by Charles R. Docherty; "Irish Jig," a splendidly performed little sketch by Miss Addie Fogg; and "God Save Ireland," chorus, by the Glee club and attendance.

Spanish Ex-General And Spy is Dead

NEW YORK, March 18.—Manuel De Fuentes Bustillo, who claimed to have been a Spanish general, was accidentally asphyxiated today in a hotel room where he lived for sixteen years with two cats as companions. The policeman who forced the door and found the body, it is said, was the first person other than Bustillo who had entered the room since the Spaniard had established himself in 1897.

Bustillo told the owner of the hotel that he once had been a Spanish spy and had attained the rank of general, but when he was disappointed in love and ostracized by his family because of his record as a spy, he fled to America. A litter of dust-covered documents dating back thirty years was found in the room. They included a deed of a grant for a Spanish railway from the king of Spain and the general's will, disposing of property in Spain, described as valuable.
