MANY ARE SENDING SUPPLIES

Relief Stations are Organized to Care for the Needy.

CALLS FOR AID ARE NUMEROUS

Each Case is Being Investigated Where Possible—Rent Being Paid for New Homes for the Destitute.

Relief work got a good start this morning at Station No. 4, at Fortieth and Farnam streets, even though some difficulties were met because of telephone disconnection and lack of heat. George H. Kelly, president of the Commercial club, took personal charge early in the morning and sat at his desk directing the relief work.

Mrs. Warren M. Rogers and Mrs. Arthur Remington came early to the station and assisted in sorting clothing and giving general assistance to those who called for aid.

The station is located above the store on the southeast corner. It was the home of C. E. Och, salesman for the Jergens' company of Cincinnati. Windows there were torn out by the tornado, furniture was demolished and the place badly damaged all through, but quick work put things in shape; the remaining furniture and debris were taken out and the relief station established there.

Had Close Call. Ochs, his wife and baby daughter are living at the Henshaw hotel while the relief corps uses his home. He was away from home Sunday night when the storm struck, while his wife and child were saved by J. B. Justman, who lives across the hall. Justman kept Mrs. Ochs and the child and two of his own children from running out on the back porch by locking them in a closet, as the wind, carrying glass and brick, came down the long hall in the middle of the place and turned through a kitchen door just before reaching the closet. The porch was blown in.

A small corps of stenographers from the offices of business men assisted at the station, investigating the calls for help that came in.

A new problem came up early in the morning. A man came to the station and asked for a carpenter to help him repair his home. Superintendent Kelly will try to solve the problem by making a call for carpenters and laborers to leave their names of the stations.

Rent is Paid. One of the early calls came from a man who had lived at 225 South Thirty-sixth street. His house and all his belongings were destroyed. He had only $2 in money left. He was given $16 to pay rent for a new place he had located and will be assisted in getting necessary furniture.
