Poor Persons Almost Bankrupt Selves by Aiding Sufferers.

MRS. STAFFORD MUCH PRAISED

House Just Paid For Wrecked and Belongings Lost, but Woman Spends What Money She Has for Victims.

Miss Martha Powell, principal of Long school, who is in charge of the relief station at Calvary Baptist church, Twenty-fifth and Hamilton streets, says the poor persons of that section, some of them victims of the storm, have almost bankrupted themselves in caring for the injured. Such a spirit she has never before seen manifested.

Mrs. F. J. Stafford, 225 Lake street, is the heroine of twenty refugees in that vicinity and of the soldiers on guard. With her husband she lived in a home upon which the last payment had been made March 17. Her husband is a painter and decorator and had just installed a year's supplies when the storm struck. After the death-dealing tornado had passed Mrs. Stafford saw that practically nothing had been left in the house. Even the pantry had been emptied. The windows, with the exception of one, were broken. The chimney had been carried away. The roof of the house was torn off. Millions stretched a tarpaulin over the house and there refugees huddled.

Mrs. Stafford had a little money and she bought groceries for the twenty persons who sought shelter under her roof. Her money became exhausted. She gave the refugees all of her clothes. That one of the regular soldiers discovered the hard straits of the family.

This soldier disappeared and asked for relief at the nearest station. Soon Mrs. Stafford came in. She did not ask for help for herself, but carried clothing to other sufferers.

"Yes, we have lost about everything," said the good woman, "everything except life. Still we are not suffering as others are and as long as I can I am going to help. The Red Cross has opened a station at my house and we are relieving many."

Miss Mattie White, teacher in Saunders school, who is assisting with the relief work at Calvary Baptist church, confirmed Miss Powell's statement that the big-hearted people were giving away everything they had without thought of themselves.

"It has now become a problem to find those who were only slight sufferers from the storm, but have become bankrupt since, because of their great generosity to those people who are hungry and cold and without shelter," she said.

"We are impressing upon them that this is not charity," said one laborer at relief station No. 2. "It is simply a duty we are doing. The storm came without warning and nothing these people could have done would have prevented it. They ought to feel that in such circumstances it is no sacrifice of pride to be assisted."

"Personally Unselfish." "Take it some one will need it worse than I do." This is the wonderful spirit that is everywhere exhibited in connection with the relief work that is rapidly eliminating the suffering in the tornado's path. A poor widow, herself almost in rags, stepped into substitution No. 2 this morning.

"What can we do for you?" she was asked.

"Well, I don't want anything," she replied. "I will get along all right, but I wanted to do what I could. I haven't got very much with me."

She opened an old handbag and scraped around the bottom of it until she found a nickel. This she dropped into the card box on the table.

"I can't do much," she said, "but that'll help somebody."

The nickel was given back to her and those in charge insisted that she give her name and accept relief.

"No, I won't have anything," she protested. "My little house wasn't worth much anyway, and the damage only amounted to about the station take her name or address or give her a thing. She went away disappointed at not being able to donate what she had planned to give."

At Calvary Baptist church a little girl was given a coat. The coat was beautiful and the little girl was proud of it.

Today she brought it back, saying, "Mamma said I should return it because someone else would need it worse than we do. She says we will get along with what we have."

At Calvary Baptist church 309 persons were cared for and others were coming in. The women of the church in connection with the teachers of the Long school are maintaining an independent relief station there. This station is at considerable advantage, as the church women and the teachers know most of the people in the district. The women have found it hard, however, to get some to accept help.

Out of 900 school children at the Long school not a child has appeared at the school.

VALUE OF RIGHT BREATHING

Health Comes From Knowing How and What to Breathe.

Hardly a day passes without confirmation of the old adage, "Man's life is but a breath of air."

Dust laden with disease breeding germs is inhaled by all who use the streets, but disease is not developed unless the germs find conditions suitable for their lodgment and growth.

With people having catarrh there is an ideal culture medium for these germs, as the irritated membrane and weakened tissues is a hot-bed where germs must thrive and multiply until they are numerous and active.

If you have catarrh, you should use the easiest, simplest and quickest remedy, the direct method of HYOMEI. This wonderful medication is taken in with the air you breathe, directly following and destroying all germs that have been inhaled, repairing any damage they may have worked and so healing and vitalizing the tissues as to render catarrh and germ infection no longer possible.

The unusual way in which drugists sell HYOMEI should dispel all doubt as to its curative properties. We authorize them to refund the price to anyone whom it fails to benefit. You do not risk a cent in testing the healing virtues of this breath of life. Complete outfit $1.00. Extra bottles of HYOMEI liquid, if so needed, 50 cents at dealers everywhere. CREIGHTON MEN HELP OUT

Perform Valuable Medical Service for the Storm Injured.

MANY WORKED INCESSANTLY Resides Faculty Members Many of the Seniors Stayed on the Work Continually, Doing All They Could.

Perhaps the hardest pressed of Omaha's citizens since the striking of the hurricane Sunday night are the physical and surgical. Although many of Omaha's doctors suffered severely because of the wind, they have been working incessantly since Sunday night administering to the needs of others. In a number of cases there was scarcely time to ascertain the safety of their own loved ones, when the call of duty came.

Several of those who are connected with the Creighton college of medicine had their homes destroyed, but have labored continually in the work of relief. Among these is Dr. Charles E. Crowley, 305 Burt street, city chemist and a member of the medical college faculty, whose home was wrecked.

When the storm struck the Crowley residence it destroyed numerous windows and drove a huge scowling straight through the house into the kitchen. As soon as he discovered that his own family was safe, Dr. Crowley hurried out to do what he could in the way of assisting the injured in that neighborhood. Although he has not been engaged in active practice for years, he has lost none of his skill, as twenty-four sufferers whose bruises were dressed by him will testify.

Of a like nature was the work of Dr. Dunn and Dr. A. J. Mulhead, dean. Although both lived in the stricken district and were sufferers, they rushed to the county hospital, where they were kept busy during the remainder of the night. Dr. Mulhead later went to the north end of town with a troop of nurses and doctors.

Heroic Work. Before the arrival of the doctors at the county hospital, a heroic piece of work was performed by William Arrasmith, a senior at the medical college, and interne at the hospital. Although hampered by the loss of the electric light, Arrasmith worked by candlelight until late the following morning, helping the injured which crowded that place. Although called upon to do a number of serious operations, the need of hurry and the large number of patients made it impossible to administer anesthetics.

Dr. P. T. Conlan, another member of the faculty, after taking his family from the wreckage of their home, joined the relief squad.

A number of students at the medical college suffered directly, but at once joined in the work of relief. Among these are Robert Hall and J. M. Johnson, seniors at each relief station.

At present each relief station is supplied with two seniors of the medical college, who are working in eight hour shifts. Two seniors are also to be found at all hours at the city Auditorium. This work of relief is not interfering with the regular class sessions.

INSURANCE MONEY IS APPLIED ON MORTGAGE

While all of the building and loan associations carry blanket tornado policies on the properties on which they have mortgages, the proceeds of the policies are not giving the home owners ready money with which to make minor repairs inflicted by the tornado. If a house was destroyed, the proceeds of the tornado policy is applied on the mortgage, practically wiping out the indebtedness. Otherwise there is nothing in it for the home owner. However, the home owner is not a loser of any insurance premiums, as these are paid by the building and loan company.

INQUIRY FROM EUROPE; IS IT DISTANCE RECORD?

Tearing open the envelope, Henry Miller, of the Miller Liqueur company, was surprised Wednesday to find that he held in his hand a cablegram from his sister living in the little town of Edsheim, Bavaria, inquiring of his safety, she presumably having seen something about the tornado in the newspaper reports. He is wondering whether this is the long-distance record for inquiry messages.

RECORD IS KEPT OF CHANGED ADDRESSES

Miss Clara Cooper, supervisor of the teachers' training department for the Board of Education, has established in the council chamber a bureau of changed addresses. Those in the stricken district who have changed addresses will be placed on record with their new or temporary address in-so-far as Miss Cooper can obtain this information. Persons coming in looking for parties who were struck by the storm can learn from Miss Cooper what is the new address in-so-far as she has been able in the short time to get the record.

WOMEN WORKING VALIANTLY

Auditorium is Busy Scene of Relief for Sufferers.

NURSES WHERE NEEDED MOST

Visiting Nurses Are Being Sent Out to Every Home Where Injured Are in Need of Attention.

Omaha women from all sections of the city are at the Auditorium assisting with the relief work. Not a minute of the day slips by without a bundle of clothing or bedding being received at this place. Many are members of the Omaha Woman's club, the different suffrage societies and charity organizations, and all are working with the one aim to aid and assist wherever they are needed.

Mrs. James Dahman has been one of the constant workers and has not been in her home an hour of the day since the relief work started Monday morning. She has given the use of her car to all who needed assistance.

Nurses Where Needed. Miss Louise McPherson of the Visiting Nurse association has been in constant attendance at the Auditorium, and whenever she hears of illness sends one of the nurses to the location at once.

At the dispensary of the Visiting Nurse association many cases are being cared for, and again today there have been almost fifty cases which have received attention.

Dean Hancock, who has made a relief station at Jacobs Memorial hall, reports that the women of the parish have been most thoughtful in sending clothing and bedding, and that they are giving these articles to all needy.

Miss Magee of the City Mission is continuing her work to the destroyed district and is making preparations to clothe many of the people.

Colored women in the vicinity of Lake and Twenty-fourth streets have established a lunch room at 212 North Twenty-fourth street. There are about twenty women in neat starched dresses and white aprons who are serving all who have suffered loss of homes. In a word they are making a splendid effort to aid their own race. A block north is the relief station No. 1, and women from this district, who have been fortunate enough to escape, are at this station assisting the men in charge in distributing clothing, bedding and food to the tornado victims.

WOMEN WORKING VALIANTLY

Twenty Years of Savings Wiped Out of Existence.

WERE IN OTHER TORNADOES Omaha Twister Was Third Experience for Family that Came Out of Wreckage with Only a Few Bruses.

Relief work at stations No. 3 and 4, 278 Franklin and Thirty-third and Cuming streets, is bringing to light experiences of tornado victims who have suffered from what appears to be almost unbelievable evil luck. Yet in the wreckage of their homes or in their neighbors' residences they bravely and cheerfully discuss their future and are grateful for the mere privilege of life.

No word of envy for the more fortunate is heard from the sufferers. Persons of wealth and social position show no less nobility of spirit. Women are tramping the muddy streets, walking through wreckage and risking their health to find those whose minds are turning them from applying to the relief stations. More than 500 persons have received assistance from the two stations.

Hard Luck. Leo Bartl saved a few tools and belongings when he was working and saving with all his might to provide a home and means to care for his wife and two children. He had paid all but $250 of the price of a home at 250 Webster street. A month ago his family came to Omaha and they began to know their real happiness. Sunday's storm completely wrecked the house and it is a total loss.

All Bartl saved was a few tools and belongings of little value. There was $100 tornado insurance on the house, but as he still owes $250 he will get only $150 as the result of his many years savings.

His arm and leg were injured and the doctor told him he would not be able to work for weeks. His wife and children were badly bruised. He had been employed as a carpenter by the Union Pacific.

Third Experience. Omaha's tornado was the third in the experience of Mrs. Charles Showalter. In addition she and her husband lost all they had in the Kansas flood in 1903. They were living at North Topeka, where terrible damage was wrought. Mrs. Showalter wrote a poem about the flood which was published.

Mrs. Showalter is a native of Kansas. Twenty-four years ago at Harper City she went through a tornado which killed twenty-one persons in that little town. Eighteen years ago at Downs, Kan., she was in another. The Showalters have four children and Mrs. Showalter's mother lives with them at 219 Franklin. Showalter is employed by the Pioneer Glass and Paint company.

The family suffered considerable loss Sunday, but the house is still standing. They had no time to seek the cellar and gathered in the front room to await death. None was injured.

BEE SELLS IN CHICAGO AT QUARTER A COPY

Copies of Monday's issue of The Bee found ready sale in Chicago at 25 cents Sunday. This was the price put on them by the out-of-town paper stands there, and they did not last long. Information comes from M. Wolf, who used to live here, now officing in the Monadnock block.
