Relief Map of the State of Ohio Showing the Districts Ravaged by Floods with more than 2500 homes altogether o partly submerged, the flood situation in this vicinity is assuming graver cropor buildings are all partially under water and much damage has been done.

An increase in the river stage here will mean the isolation of the city from the street. Kentucky side and the stoppage of train! service in this direction. Late today the nment gauge showed sixty-seven feet and, according to the weather bureau, the indications were that beformany hours there would be sixty-eight feet in the river here. So far only one life has been lost as a direct result of the high water here. Miss-Anna Smith, the first vietim drowned, lost her life in an attempt to reach Newport in a skiff that capsized in midstream.

Companions Were Resened. cued Newport and Covington, opposite, virtually are surrounded by water. Conditions there are worse than elsewhere and nearly 10,000 persons have been driven from their homes. Relief measures, however, are adequate. In these two cities, however, the only fear is that the health conditions will be seriously affected because of the clogging of the newage system. As yet the waterworks have continued in operation. The electric light works have been compelled to cease, but gas plants were not compelled to stop. In the Kentucky towns of Dayton, Ludlow, Believue and Bromier identical conditions exist, but in their cases all communication with Cincinnati. Newport and Covington has -con

In these towns there is a total of 2,000 persons being cared for by relief committees and more than 500 homes have been flooded. Property damage will be immense, especially as this is the second time within three months that the Ohio valley has suffered from high water.

Sixty-Eight-Foot Stage Reached. when the river has reached sixty-eight feet the power plants which operate the war lines to the Kentucky shore will be out of commission and communication with Cincinnati will be shut off. Bo far only five of the big bridges across the the Ohio at this point have been effected The other three are so high that it will require more than seventy-two feet of water to prevent their use.

Railway service into and out of Cin-! cinnati virtually is at a standatill. Louisville and Nashville trains are leaving for the west on time, but arriving trains are much delayed.
