MILLIONAIRE IS MISSING

Detectives Unable to Find George H. Bixby of Los Angeles.

OTHER WITNESSES DISAPPEAR

Attorneys for Alleged Slayer Admit They Have Not Seen Him, but Say He Has No Reason to Run Away.

LOS ANGELES, April 23.—An arraignment of prospective witnesses followed the announcement that the county grand jury would begin an investigation of allegations that more than forty girls and young women of this city had been made the victims of millionaire white slavers. Chief among the missing was George H. Bixby, the Long Beach millionaire named by a number of girls. Detectives searched nearly all day yesterday and all of last night for Bixby and reported today that they were unable to find him. Members of Bixby's family denounced assertions of police officers that he had left the jurisdiction of the court. Bixby's attorneys said while they had not seen him either yesterday or today they were confident he "had nothing to run away from."

Among the men witnesses asked to testify was E. J. Fleming, a prominent attorney and former member of the district attorney's staff. Mrs. Josie Rosenberg of the Jonquil resort, charged with being chief of the promoters for "the Blazing Bear" and his millionaire associates, was arraigned on one of two charges pending, but her case was set over pending the outcome of the grand jury inquiry.

MORE VETOS BY MOREHEAD

ried an appropriation for a dairy building at the farm, the democratic house struck a blow, not only to every institution in the state, but more especially to the only institution—the agricultural college—in which the farmers of the state are most vitally interested. The state farm management has been worrying along ever since the establishment of the agricultural school, with an old dairy building, inadequate to the growing needs of the state and a building which for years has been sadly needed. Knowing the needs out at the farm, on request of those interested, the senate added this appropriation to the bill.

Reason for Opposition. However, the advocates of university extension on the downtown campus thought they saw a colored man in the woodpile and viewed with suspicion any move of the senate to help the agricultural farm. For fear that something might happen to help the cause of extension on the farm, they voted down the whole maintenance bill.

Just before the session closed, after the senate committee had receded in its demands for certain things regarding extension, the house all at once concluded to reconsider its action on the maintenance bill and pass it with the dairy building appropriation in. When inquiry was made by some of the members as to why this sudden change of front, they were quietly tipped off that the house was going to put one over on the senate by passing the bill with the dairy building appropriation in and that the governor had promised to veto that part of the appropriation.

When asked by a Bee representative if he had made any such promises to the house members, Governor Morehead said that he had probably assumed that he would do so because of his strong stand against university removal to the farm, but his action in promptly vetoing the dairy building appropriation in the bill before the members had hardly left the city would indicate that the fellows who tipped off the deal were pretty good guessers, at least.

Reason for the Veto. The reasons for vetoing the appropriation is given by the governor as follows:

"The present session of the legislature has had to meet deficiencies overlapping from the former administration in a sum aggregating approximately one-third of a million dollars, due to the fact that the state institutions, during the years 1911 and 1912 cost the state, for maintenance, a sum in excess for any previous two years in the history of the state. The taxpayers are now called upon to meet this deficit and the economy ought to be practiced that the burden may not become too onerous.

"Immediately following the passage of this bill, house roll No. 36 was passed, levying a tax of three-fourths of 1 mill to create a special building fund, this tax to be levied for a period of six years, and it seems to me that in all fairness to the taxpayers of Nebraska, the buildings herein provided for ought to be built out of this special fund levy. Furthermore, when we consider that under the provisions of house roll No. 24 the location of the permanent university is to be left to a vote of the people, large sums of money, such as this item, ought not to be expended in permanent buildings until the people have determined on a permanent location.

"This item did not originate in the house, where the constitution provides appropriations of this kind must originate, but was tacked on to this bill as a sort of rider after it reached the senate. It was not concurred in by the house until the closing hours of the session when the majority of the members had returned to their homes. It does not represent the deliberate judgment of the members elected to the house of representatives, and it is a very grave question if an appropriation made in this way can be sustained from a legal standpoint and its approval would certainly establish a very dangerous precedent. Large sums of money belonging to the people ought not to be voted away without a full discussion and a fair consideration in the house of representatives, which is the only body that has the right to originate appropriations of this kind."

One of the reasons given for the veto is that this legislature at this session had to appropriate one-third of a million dollars to pay deficiencies of the former administration.

The facts in the case are that the legislature of two years ago was asked to appropriate sufficient money to carry the state through without a deficiency, but the members thought that there would be a deficiency anyway and the appropriation for the biennium might just as well be made with that understanding. Again, a great deal of the amount which the governor calls "deficiency" cannot be charged to the maintenance fund of the institutions. A large amount of it is for machinery and needed improvements, and Land Commissioner Cowles was insistent that the legislature of 1911 should appropriate sufficient to cover these items, but his pleading fell on deaf ears, and for fear that the appropriations would run up to a large figure the last legislature cut out items that they should have added and threw the responsibility of a deficiency appropriation on the next session.

Another veto this morning by the executive is a claim of the Beatrice school for feeble minded for nurse and medical attendance for himself and family. At the time of the typhoid epidemic at that institution, Dr. Thomas and his family contracted the disease and no claim is made to cover the expense of sickness. The legislature allowed the claim, but the governor vetoed it giving the following reason for doing so:

"Dr. Thomas has been in charge of the institution for the feeble minded at Beatrice, retiring from said position in February last, and an examination of the records of the institution shows that during his administration large sums of money were expended altogether too freely. I am convinced that Dr. Thomas has already been well paid for the service he has rendered the state."

You republicans cannot write a successful tariff bill on that basis and the proof of it is you never have."

The democrats applauded.

"I don't contend," Mr. Underwood continued, "that in this bill we have been able to wipe out, on one fell swoop all the iniquities and injustices and rank favoritism that you republicans have engrained on the body politic for the last decade. But we have played favorites with no one. We have had no favored manufacturers dictating our rates.

"But we have not gone at this tariff with an axe. There are many industries that have been built entirely upon the basis of your protective system and wherever it has been possible with substantial justice to the great body of consumers we have lowered this tariff wall with a jack-screw and not with an axe."

"Germany, through its ambassador here, has protested against two administrative features of the pending tariff bill. One concerns the proposed examination of books of German exporting houses for the purpose of ascertaining domestic sales prices to guard against undervaluation of exports. The other protest is

For Bright Eyes and Clear Nose

Remember Catarrh Cure That Gets Right into the Affected Parts and Stops Gatherting.

S. S. S. is a Wonder for the Eyes, Nose and Throat.

It is definitely known that catarrh can be cured by the simple process of inoculating the blood with antiodical remedies that stop inflammatory conditions throughout the mucous linings of all the organs of the body. This is done with the famous Swift's Sure Specific, or, as it is widely known, S. S. S. It is taken into the blood just as naturally as the most nourishing food. It spreads its influence over every organ in the body, through all the veins and arteries, and enables all mucous surfaces to exchange inflammatory acids and other irritating substances for arterial elements that effectively cleanse the system and thus put an end to all catarrhal pollution. S. S. S. cleans out the stomach of mucous accumulations, enables only pure, blood-making materials to enter the intestines, combats with these food elements to enter the circulation, and in less than an hour is at work throughout the body in the process of purification.

You will soon realize its wonderful influence by the absence of headache, a decided clearing of the air passages, a steadily improved nasal condition, and a sense of bodily relief that proves how completely catarrh often infests the entire system. You will find S. S. S. on sale at all drug stores at $1.00 per bottle. It is a remarkable remedy for any and all blood affections, such as eczema, rash, lupus, tetter, psoriasis, boils, and all other diseased conditions of the blood. For special advice on any blood disease write in confidence to The Swift Specific Co., 137 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. Do not delay to get a bottle of S. S. S. of your druggist.
