hands of the Russian agents—just as cruel boys throw a worm into an ant-hill.

Where she is now I know not; if you ask Wessel, he will shrug his shoulders and suggest a game of piquet. And Thiessen saddens and regrets a clever woman; but then, "she was getting old." What Przytowski got, I know; his freedom was the reward he got for giving up the blonde, Slav-looking woman; and he crept back into that world of crime and treason she had made him feel at home in. He is now a professional spy on the pay roll of France. A well-known man. Sorry! a bit, but still making quite a figure in the capitals of Europe; and still "working."

Perhaps I have made it clear that—with rare exceptions—there is no patriotism behind this dark and dirty work of espionage. A few gentlemen, a few officers risk their lives and honor in the game; but it may be stated with absolute precision that the spy-service (in times of peace) is in the hands of the most infamous scoundrels in all Europe—men without heart, men who are dipped red in every crime from theft and murder to woman-traffic. Why should not the facts be plainly stated? I have named the men. They are known to every war-office in Europe, and by every war-office in Europe they are abetted and paid.

For instance—
Last night they gave Pelleas et Melisande at the Monnaie; between acts I crossed the street to the Trois Suisses to have word with a friend, who does not love Debussy's music; and there at a table, pompous and talkative, with a Dutch woman who is probably his wife, sat Azeff. This famous anarchist, doubled with a police spy, you doubtless know by repute; if the affairs of Russia interest you. Had Thiessen or Louis Koch come in and sat at table with him, it would have been a perfect gathering of the chiefs of the clan. The "clearing-house committee" might have almost gone into executive session. Azeff, of course, is "condemned to death" by the Russian revolutionaries. Azeff, of course, owes his life to the Russian authorities whom he betrayed. But quite at ease Azeff ate and drank with his new Dutch wife—the daughter of a merchant in Amsterdam. And he had nothing to conceal; Sipsburg, the chief of the German spy-service in Holland had put him in touch with the "clearing-house" in Brussels; he had been drafted into the service of Austria; and his title, if you please, is director—no, let me set it down in French, exactly as he said it:

AZEFF

It reads almost like a visiting card. And so you have met—or seen—the chiefs of this criminal clan of spies, who prey upon the fears and jealousies of the great powers of Europe. Their trade is a dark trade, and this (perhaps) is the first time a little light has been turned upon it. And the facts in this article are facts—and the men (half of them, it may be—for there are others than those of Brussels) have been named. I believe that the new conditions of modern warfare will destroy, to a great extent, these occult and ignoble criminals. Nightly aeroplanes traverse the frontiers, manned by scouts. Two days ago a German air-cruiser flew back across the channel, after having made a reconnaissance of English forts and harbors. This means that the air-soldiers are plying their dangerous trade—supplementary to the dark ways of espionage lower down.

A rich well cooked mince meat can be kept indefinitely by spreading a tablespoonful of alcohol over the contents of each glass jar and then covering securely. The alcohol can not be detected in the pies, and acts as a preservative only.—E. S., Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

What's the Use of Palliating Corns?

Why merely pare them, when they quickly grow again? Why use old-time methods—liquids, plasters—just for brief relief. A chemist has evolved a way to end a corn completely. It is used in Blue-jay plasters. Blue-jay stops the pain at once, just like other methods. But it also ends the corn. Within 48 hours the entire corn loosens and comes out. No pain, no soreness. The treatment is complete and final. It seems too good to be true. But every month a million corns are taken out in that way. Try it on one of yours.

A in the picture is the soft B & B wax. It loosens the corn.
B stops the pain and keeps the wax from spreading.
C wraps around the toe. It is narrowed to be comfortable.
D is rubber adhesive to fasten the plaster on.
