(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, May 12.—(Special.)—The State Board of Pardons has recommended that the application of John E. Gayman for a pardon be granted, but the governor, after taking the matter under consideration, has concluded not to pardon the man, but believes that a parole would be better.

Gayman was sentenced to the penitentiary from Dawson county and given an indeterminate sentence of from one to twenty years for the shooting of a neighbor named P. E. Peden. He was received at the penitentiary January 3, 1912.

Gayman was arrested on a charge of assault with intent to kill, the fight starting over the depredations of a stray hog. He was found guilty. The governor believes that on account of the fact that Gayman is a man quick to anger and unable to control his temper that it would be better for the man to have something to control him and for that reason believes that a parole would be best.

The Burlington railroad company has enjoined the drainage board from doing any work on Section 19, and that is where it was proposed to start the second dredge. The injunction also applies to two or three other locations along the proposed ditch between Tecumseh and Elk creek.

The injunction was issued from the federal court at Omaha and will come up for consideration until June. In the meantime, it is expected that the Johnson county drainage board will give a verdict in the case wherein the railroad company is opposed to paying the $18,000 benefits assessed against it by the drainage board.

One dredge is at work on the main ditch, working night and day on the north county line, near Sterling, and has progressed several hundred feet. It is expected to have two dredges at work on the main ditch and two on the lateral ditches by this time, but litigation has retarded the work.
